J. P. Roy, 2nd Land Acquisition Collector.

Calcutta, the 9th March 1920.

Advertisement for Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undermentioned plots of land, no longer required by Government, situated along the approach road to bridge No. 4 of Eastern Bengal Railway siding in connection with the high level goods line between Kankurgachi Chord and Ballygunj, in the district of the 24-Parganas, will be put up to sale at 12 o'clock on Tuesday, the 27th April 1920, corresponding with the 14th Baisak 1327 B.S. at the Land Acquisition Collector's Office, 2, Commercial Buildings, Calcutta

The purchasers of the several plots of land will be subject to the following conditions:—

- 1st.—The purchasers will have no power to make any excavation on the land nearer than 15 feet from the railway boundary, or to plough the land nearer than 3 feet from the same.
- 2nd.—If the amount of purchase money does not exceed Rs. 10 the whole amount must be paid down at once.
- 3rd.—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rs. 100 one-fourth of the amount must be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale shall be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the lot again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser, after issue of advertisement, as in the case of original sale.
- 4th.—The plots of land will be sold revenue-free to the highest bidders.
- 5th.—The sale will become final on receipt by the Collector of the orders of the Commissioner confirming it, and a regular conveyance will then be granted to the purchaser.

Calcutta, the 10th March 1920.

THE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE PORT OF CALCUTTA.

NOTIFICATION No. 13.

IT is hereby notified for general information, under the provisions of section 109 of the Calcutta Port Act, III (B.C.) of 1890, and with the approval of the Governor in Council, that the following charges framed by the Commissioners under section 108 of that Act, as amended by the Calcutta Port (Amendment) Act, 1907, will be levied on and after the 1st April 1920, in supersession of the existing River Due and War Surtax notified under notification No. 35 Marine, dated the 17th March 1908, and notification, dated the 24th July 1917, respectively:—

1. On all goods discharged from any sea-going vessel lying or being within the limits of the Port—

- when such goods are not discharged directly from the vessel into a Commissioners' lighter or on to any quay, wharf or jetty of the Commissioners situated between the Howrah Bridge and Garden Reach, a river due at the rate of 12 annas per ton;
- when such goods are discharged directly from the vessel into a Commissioners' lighter or on to any quay, wharf or jetty of the Commissioners situated between the Howrah Bridge and Garden Reach, a river due at the rate of 4 annas per ton.

2. On goods loaded into any sea-going vessel lying or being within the limits of the port, whether such goods are, or are not loaded directly into the sea-going vessel, at any quay, wharf or jetty, belonging to the Commissioners, a river due at the following rates :—

Manganese ore	7½ annas per ton.
Bunker coal loaded into a vessel's bunkers for consumption on board that vessel	4 ditto.
All other coal	6 ditto.
All other goods	12 ditto.

In the case of goods discharged or loaded at a quay, wharf or jetty belonging to the Commissioners for which, the landing and shipping charges are not levied by weight and the weight is not ascertainable, one-fifth of the landing charge in the case of imports and three-fifths of the shipping charge in the case of exports will be levied as river due.

In the case of goods not directly discharged from or shipped into an ocean-going vessel at a quay, wharf or jetty belonging to the Commissioners, the river due will be levied on the actual weight when such is ascertainable, and in all other cases the ton will be calculated according to the scale given in the Inland Vessels Wharves Schedule.

In the case of all petroleum to which the Indian Petroleum Act applies, the river due will be calculated on the following basis :—

Petroleum in bulk	280 gallons equals 1 ton.
Petroleum in cases and drums	27 cases or drums equals 1 ton.

By order of the Commissioners, to consolidate and amend the law relating to the construction of drainage and other works for the improvement of the agricultural and sanitary conditions of certain areas in Bengal.

T. H. ELDESTON, Secretary.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the construction of drainage and other works for the improvement of the agricultural and sanitary conditions of certain areas in Bengal;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Agricultural and Sanitary Improvement Act, 1920.

[Cf. Ben. Act V of 1919, s. 1 (2).]

(2) It extends to the whole of Bengal, except the town of Calcutta, as defined in clause (7) of section 3 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1899, and any area which has been or may hereafter be constituted a municipality under the provisions of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884:

Ben. Act III of 1899.

Ben. Act III of 1884.

Provided that if any scheme under this Act jointly affects any area to which this Act extends and any municipal area, this Act shall be deemed to apply to such municipal area for the purposes of such scheme.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, direct.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) “agricultural work” means a work which the Collector certifies should be treated, in such circumstances as may be prescribed, as effecting an improvement which is mainly agricultural;

(2) “Collector

[Cf. Ben. Act VI of 1880, s. 3.]

(a) means the officer in charge of the revenue jurisdiction of the district within which the lands which form the subject of a scheme under this Act are situated, or, in the case of a scheme relating to lands lying in more than one district, any such officer or officers as may be selected by the Commissioner; and

(b) includes any officer appointed by the Local Government by general or special order to discharge all or any of the functions of the Collector under this Act;

(3) the “cost” of a work includes—

[Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1895, s. 16.]

(a) the total expenditure incurred by the Engineer for surveys, plans, estimates, valuations of a work, and incidental expenses connected therewith, whether antecedent or subsequent to the adoption of a scheme, and all salaries and expenses incurred in its execution;

(b) the estimated capitalized cost of the maintenance of the work;

The Bengal Agricultural and(Preliminary.—Clause 2.)

- (c) the total expenditure incurred by the Collector in connection with the scheme and work inclusive of any preliminary inquiry, compensation for and cost of any land taken or acquired for the purposes of this Act, the preparation or revision of any record-of-rights and the cost of apportionment and recovery;
- (d) all amounts paid, or estimated as payable, as compensation for damage inflicted in carrying out any scheme or work under this Act; and
- (e) interest on all recoverable deposits or advances made by the Local Government, or by a local authority or any person, at such rates and from and to such dates as may be prescribed;
- (4) "Engineer" means the District Engineer, or any Engineer or other person specially appointed by the Local Government in the case of major schemes, or by the Collector in the case of minor schemes, to discharge all or any of the functions of an Engineer under this Act; [Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1895, s. 2(A).]
- (5) "landlord" means a person immediately under whom a tenant holds, and includes the Government: [Cf. Act VIII of 1895 s. 3(d).]
- (6) "local area" means the portion of a district or districts to which a scheme under this Act relates, and any municipal area included within such scheme;
- (7) "local authority" means any authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by Government with, the control or management of a municipal or local fund, and includes a Local Board constituted under the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885; Ben. Act III of 1885
- (8) "major scheme" means a scheme—
- (i) in which the estimated cost of the work involved exceeds the prescribed amount,
 - (ii) in which more than one local authority is concerned, or
 - (iii) which the Collector or Engineer has certified should be treated, in such circumstances as may be prescribed, as a major scheme;
- (9) "minor scheme" means any scheme other than a major scheme;
- (10) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules under this Act;
- (11) "Sanitary Board" means such Board as may, from time to time, be appointed in this behalf by the Local Government;
- (12) a "scheme" includes—
- (a) a survey and plans,
 - (b) estimates of the cost of the work involved in such scheme,
 - (c) a description or map of the local area, and
 - (d) a report on the scheme;

Sanitary Improvement Bill, 1920.

(Application for construction of works and procedure thereon.—Clauses 3—6.)

(13) "tenant" means a person, whether resident or non-resident in the local area, who holds land under another person, and is, or but for a special contract would be, liable to pay rent for that land to that person, and includes any rent-free holder or temporary occupier of land and any shop-keeper. [Cf. Act VIII of 1920, s. 3 (3).]

Application for construction of works and procedure thereon.

Procedure by the Collector on receipt of application for the construction of a work.

3. Notwithstanding anything contained in Chapter IX of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, whenever an application is received by the Collector from a local authority or local authorities, or any person or persons, recommending the construction of any work for the improvement, or for the prevention of the deterioration, of the agricultural or sanitary condition of any area, or if the Collector is himself of opinion that the construction of any such work is necessary, he shall cause such inquiries as he may deem necessary to be made in the prescribed manner, and shall thereafter consult the local authority or authorities concerned:

VIII of 1920

Provided that, if after such inquiries, the Collector is satisfied that the proposed work will constitute an agricultural work, no reference to any local authority shall be necessary.

Order after inquiry

4. (1) On completion of the necessary inquiries and after consultation, when necessary, with the local authority or authorities, the Collector shall— [Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1920, s. 11.]

- (a) if he considers that the proposed work should not be done, pass an order to that effect; or
- (b) if he considers that the work proposed or modified should be done, take action as hereinafter provided.

(2) An appeal shall lie to the Commissioner against every order by the Collector under clause (a) of subsection (1) within thirty days of such order; and the decision of the Commissioner thereon shall be final.

Engineer to prepare scheme.

5. (1) Whenever it has been decided under section 4 to proceed with any work, the Collector shall direct the Engineer to prepare a scheme in the prescribed manner. [Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1920, s. 6.]

(2) When the Engineer has prepared any such scheme, he shall deposit it with the Collector, who may, subject to such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf, make such modifications therein as he may deem necessary.

Publishation of scheme.

6. As soon as possible after the receipt of the scheme, the Collector shall publish a notice in the prescribed manner calling for objections or suggestions thereon by any persons concerned within such time as may be specified in such notice. [Cf. Ben. Act VI of 1920, s. 12.]

The Bengal Agricultural and(Application for construction of works and procedure thereon.—Clauses 7—10.)

Procedure in the case of minor schemes

7. In the case of all minor schemes—

- (a) the cost of which has been deposited or the security for which has been furnished by the applicant in the prescribed manner, or
- (b) the cost of which can be met or advanced by the Local Government or the local authority, as the case may be, or
- (c) the cost of which is provided for partly under clause (a), and partly under clause (b), the Collector shall, as soon as possible after the expiry of the period fixed by the notice published under section 6, proceed in the prescribed manner to consider any objections or suggestions received in regard to the scheme.

Power of Collector to reject or accept scheme

8. (1) The Collector may—

- (a) reject the scheme referred to in section 7, or
- (b) subject to such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf, accept it with such modifications as he may deem necessary.

(2) An appeal shall lie to the Commissioner against every order by the Collector under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) within thirty days of such order; and the decision of the Commissioner thereon shall be final.

(3) If the Collector accepts a scheme under clause (b) of sub-section (1) or the Commissioner accepts a scheme under sub-section (2), the Collector shall determine, in the prescribed manner, the method in which and the conditions subject to which the cost of the work shall be financed and distributed.

Appointment of
of major schemes.

9. In the case of major schemes, the Collector shall, as soon as possible after the receipt of the scheme, in addition to the publication required by section 6, refer it to the Commissioner, and the Commissioner shall forthwith appoint a committee, to be constituted in the prescribed manner, with the Collector as Chairman, representing the local authorities and the landed and other interests of the area to which the scheme relates.

Committee to consider major schemes

10. (1) On the expiry of the period fixed by the notice published under section 6, the committee shall proceed to consider any objections or suggestions in regard to the scheme received by the Collector, and may either accept the scheme with such modifications as they may deem necessary, or reject it.

(2) An appeal shall lie to the Sanitary Board against every order by the committee under sub-section (1) within sixty days of such order; and the decision of the Sanitary Board thereon shall be final;

Provided that if any scheme is rejected under sub-section (1), the Local Government may, if they think fit, make an appeal against such order.

Sanitary Improvement Bill, 1920.

(Application for construction of works and procedure thereon—Apportionment and recovery of costs.— Clauses 11,—17.).

Committee to forward scheme to Sanitary Board for consideration

11. Whenever a scheme has been accepted under section 10 with or without modifications, the committee shall forward it through the Commissioner to the Sanitary Board, together with its proposals for financing and distributing the cost thereof, such cost to be financed and distributed in such manner and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed.

Sanitary Board to consider scheme and report to Local Government

12. The Sanitary Board shall then consider the scheme and proposals and may recommend that the scheme be accepted, with such modifications as they may deem necessary, or be rejected, and shall submit their report to the Local Government.

Order by the Local Government on the report

13. The Local Government shall consider the report of the Sanitary Board, and may reject it, or accept it, with such modifications as they may consider necessary; and the order of the Local Government thereon shall be final.

Collector to carry out scheme.

14. (1) Whenever a minor scheme has been accepted under section 8 and the cost or part thereof is to be recovered from the landlords and tenants of the local area, and in all cases in which a major scheme has been accepted under section 13, the Collector shall direct the preparation or revision, as the case may be, of a record-of-rights of the local area in accordance with the provisions of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, in so far as the same may be applicable, and shall proceed to carry out the work involved in such scheme in the prescribed manner.

VIII of 1905

(2) For the purpose of any such work, the Collector may acquire any land required under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894

I of 1894.

Stay of proceedings.

15. (1) An applicant may at any time be required, and before any action is taken under section 14, shall be required, to deposit or to give security for the cost of the work or such portion thereof as may be payable by him in the prescribed manner; and all proceedings under this Act shall be stayed until such requisition is complied with.

(2) The cost of the work or any portion thereof may in any case be advanced or met by the Local Government from public funds in the prescribed manner.

Power to enter into or upon land forming part of a local area.

16. Any person duly authorized to execute any work under this Act may himself, or by his agents and workmen, enter into or upon any land forming part of the local area and carry out such work thereon as may be required.

Apportionment and recovery of costs.

Report by Engineer on completion of work.

17. On the completion of any work executed under this Act, the Engineer shall forthwith submit to the Collector a final report accompanied by—

[Cf Ben. Act VI of 1900, s. 27.]

(a) a statement of the items of the cost of the work referred to in sub-clauses (a) and (b) of clause (3) of section 2; and

The Bengal Agricultural and(Apportionment and recovery of cost.—Clauses 18—20.)

(b) a copy of the map of the local area benefited by the improvement.

Procedure on receipt of final report

18. (1) On receipt of the final report and other documents required by section 17, the Collector shall prepare a final statement of the cost of the work and shall incorporate it in the report.

(2) A copy of the final statement of cost and of the map submitted under clause (b) of section 17 shall be published by the Collector within the local area in the prescribed manner.

Preparation of detailed statement

19. The Collector shall then in the prescribed manner—

(a) cause to be prepared a detailed statement, showing the cost of the work distributed between the Local Government, the local authorities concerned and the landlords and tenants of the local area; and

(b) shall apportion the share of the cost recoverable from the landlords and tenants between each of them and enter such apportionment in the detailed statement.

Procedure on completion of detailed statement

20. (1) On completion of the detailed statement referred to in section 19, the Collector shall publish a copy of the same in every village of the local area in the prescribed manner, and shall send an abstract thereof to each local authority concerned.

(2) Any landlord or tenant within the local area may, if he objects to the amount apportioned against him, submit his objection in writing to the Collector within six months of the publication of the final estimate or within sixty days of the publication of the said statement, whichever date is later, on one or more of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the land held by him has not been benefited by the improvement;

(b) that a material mistake has been made in the degree of benefit, if any, estimated to have been derived from the improvement;

(c) that he holds no land, or interest in the land, in the local area.

(3) The order of the Collector on any objection under this section shall be final.

Sanitary Improvement Bill, 1920.(Apportionment and recovery of costs.—Miscellaneous.—Clauses 21—27.)

Collector to republish modified statement.

21. If, by an order passed under section 20, the Collector proposes materially to modify the apportionment of the cost of work, a statement showing such apportionment shall be republished by him in the village to which such altered portion relates.

Realization of costs due.

22. On the expiry of the period fixed under section 20, sub-section (2), for the submission of objections to the detailed statement, the Collector shall confirm the statement, with modifications, if any, and shall proceed in the prescribed manner to recover from the local authority or person, landlord or tenant concerned, the amount of the cost due from them.

Power of landlord to pay the cost apportioned against tenant.

23. In the case of an agricultural work, a landlord may elect to pay the amount of cost apportioned against the tenant, and in such case the improvement effected by such work shall be deemed to be an improvement within the meaning of section 76 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, and the landlord shall be entitled to apply for an enhancement of rent under the provisions of clause (c) of section 30 of that Act.

VIII of 1885.

Recovery of dues as arrears of land-revenue.

24. All sums or instalments due under a statement published under section 20 or republished under section 21, shall be recoverable as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

[Cf. Ben. Act V of 1914, s. 113.]

Miscellaneous.

Compensation for consequential damage.

25. Whenever any land other than land taken or acquired for the purposes of this Act, or any right of fishery, right of drainage, right of the use of water, or other right of property, is injuriously affected by any act done or any work executed under this Act, the person in whom such property or right is vested may prefer a claim by petition to the Collector, for compensation :

[Cf. Ben. Act II of 1882, s. 38.]

Provided that the refusal to execute any work for which application is made, and the refusal of permission to execute any work for the execution of which the permission of the Collector or any other authority is required under this Act, shall not be deemed acts on account of which a claim for compensation can be preferred under this section.

Limitation to claim for compensation.

26. No claim under section 25 shall be entertained which is made later than two years next after the completion of the work by which such right is injuriously affected.

[Cf. Ben. Act II of 1882, s. 39.]

Procedure for determining compensation.

27. When any such claim is made, proceedings shall be taken with a view to determine the amount of compensation, if any, which should be made and the person to whom the same should be payable, so far as possible in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

[Cf. Ben. Act II of 1882, s. 40.]

*The Bengal Agricultural and Matters to be considered in determining compensation.

28. In any such case which is referred to the Judge and assessors for the purpose of determining whether any, and, if so, what amount of compensation should be awarded, the Judge and assessors shall take into consideration—

[Cf. Ben. Act II of 1882, s. 41.]

First, the market value of the property or right injuriously affected at the time when the act was done or the work executed;

Secondly, the damage sustained by the claimant by reason of such act or work injuriously affecting the property or right;

Thirdly, the consequent diminution of the market value of the property or right injuriously affected when the act was done or the work executed;

Fourthly, whether any person has derived, or will derive, benefit from the act or work in respect of which the compensation is claimed, or from any work connected therewith, in which case they shall set off the estimated value of such benefit, if any, against the compensation which would otherwise be decreed to such person:

Provided that the Judge or assessors shall not take into consideration—

First, the degree of urgency which has led to the act or work being done or executed;

Secondly, any damage sustained by the claimant, which, if caused by a private person, would not in any suit instituted against such person justify a decree for damages.

Drainage works subject to laws relating to public embankments.

29. All outlets and water-channels, natural or artificial, included in a scheme under this Act, whether reconstructed, cleared, altered, enlarged, excavated or cut under this Act or not, and the construction and maintenance of embankments and dams and works thereon or connected therewith, shall be subject to the law for the time being in force regulating the construction and maintenance of public embankments, rivers, channels and outlets.

Lands and works how to be vested.

30. All lands which are taken or acquired permanently under this Act for the purpose of a scheme, and all works constructed under this Act, including all masonry and timber works, water-channels, embankments and dams included within the scheme, whether reconstructed, cleared, altered, enlarged, excavated or cut under this Act or not, shall be vested in the Collector on behalf of the Secretary of State, or in the local authority or authorities within whose jurisdiction the lands lie or the work is carried out as the Local Government may, by general or special order, direct:

Provided that when the total cost of any work has been paid by any local authority or person, the said lands and works may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, vest in such local authority or person.

Sanitary Improvement Bill, 1920.(Miscellaneous.—Clauses 31—36.)

Maintenance of works 31. The local authority or person in whom the lands or works are vested under the proviso to section 30 shall be responsible for the maintenance of the works constructed, subject to such rules as may be prescribed: [Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1895, s. 28.]

Provided that if the Collector is satisfied that the works are not being properly maintained, he shall report, through the Commissioner, to the Local Government, who may direct that the duty of maintenance be undertaken by the Local Government for a specified period.

Local Government to administer capitalized cost of maintenance

32. All sums recovered as the estimated capital cost of the maintenance of works constructed under this Act shall be administered by the Local Government in the prescribed manner.

Penalty for constructing weirs, etc., obstructing public drainage

33. (1) Any person who, without lawful authority, erects, or causes to be erected, any weir or other obstruction in any outlet or water-channel, or cultivates the bed of a water-channel, so as to obstruct natural drainage, shall, upon conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred rupees for every such offence. [Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1895, s. 27.]

(2) It shall be in the discretion of such Magistrate to direct any such offender to remove and pay for the entire cost of the removal of any such obstruction.

Powers of the Commissioner, etc., in taking evidence

34. The Commissioner, the Collector, the Sanitary Board and a committee appointed under section 9 shall have all such powers as are conferred on a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the purpose of compelling the attendance of witnesses and the production of evidence, and for the purpose of examining witnesses in any inquiry or appeal, as the case may be, which they may be empowered to make or entertain under this Act. [Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1895, s. 29.]
Act V of 1908

Proceedings not to be invalidated by irregularities.

35. No proceeding under this Act shall be defeated or invalidated by reason of any defect or omission in the publication or service of any notification, notice or order, unless material injury is done to any person by such defect or omission. [Cf. Ben. Act VIII of 1895, s. 30.]

Power of Local Government to make rules.

36. (1) The Local Government may, after previous publication, make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, the Local Government may make rules—

- (a) prescribing the circumstances under which the Collector may certify a work to be an agricultural work;
- (b) fixing the rate of interest to be paid, and the dates from and to which interest on all recoverable deposits or advances are to be paid, under sub-clause (e) of clause (3) of section 2;

The Bengal Agricultural and(Miscellaneous.—Clause 36.)

- (c) fixing the amount of the costs of the work involved in a scheme in excess of which such scheme shall be deemed to be a major scheme, and prescribing the circumstances under which the Collector or the Engineer may certify a scheme to be a major scheme;
- (d) prescribing the manner in which inquiries are to be made by the Collector under section 3;
- (e) prescribing the manner in which a scheme is to be prepared under section 5, sub-section (1);
- (f) prescribing the manner of publication of a notice under section 6, a copy of the final statement of cost and the map under section 18, sub-section (2), and a copy of the detailed statement under section 20, sub-section (1), and of the republication of the detailed statement under section 21;
- (g) regulating the deposit of costs and the furnishing of security under clause (a) of section 7;
- (h) prescribing the manner in which the objections or suggestions referred to in section 7 shall be considered;
- (i) prescribing the manner in which a scheme may be modified, if necessary, under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 8, and the manner and conditions for financing and distributing the cost of the work involved in such scheme under sub-section (3) of that section;
- (j) determining the constitution of the committee referred to in section 9, and regulating the conduct of business at meetings of the committee;
- (k) prescribing the manner and conditions for financing and distributing the cost of the work involved in a scheme under section 11 and, if necessary, the manner in which a scheme may be modified under that section;
- (l) prescribing the method for carrying out the work involved in a scheme under section 14, sub-section (1);
- (m) prescribing the manner of depositing or giving security for the cost referred to in section 15, sub-section (1), and the manner in which the cost referred to in sub-section (2) of that section is to be advanced or met;
- (n) prescribing the manner in which the Collector is to prepare the detailed statement and apportion the share of the cost under section 19;
- (o) prescribing the manner for re-apportioning the cost of the work under section 21;
- (p) prescribing the manner in which the Collector shall recover costs under section 22;

Sanitary Improvement Bill, 1920.(Miscellaneous.—Clause 37.)

- (q) prescribing the conditions subject to which lands and works shall vest in a local authority or person under the proviso to section 30 ;
- (r) for the maintenance of works under section 31 ;
- (s) determining the manner in which the sums referred to in section 32 shall be administered ;
- (t) prescribing the forms of accounts, surveys, plans, maps, estimates, statements and reports ;
- (u) regulating the instalments by which, and the mode in which, sums payable under this Act shall be paid ; and
- (v) regulating the powers and duties of any officer or person under this Act.

Repeal.

37. The following enactments are hereby repealed, namely :—

(a) the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880 ;

(b) the Bengal Drainage (Amendment) Act, 1902 ;
and

(c) the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895 :

Ben. Act VI
of 1880.

Ben. Act II of 1902.

Ben. Act
VIII of 1895.

Provided that in the case of any scheme or work which has, at the commencement of this Act, been completed under the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880, or the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, the costs of such scheme or work shall be recoverable in accordance with the provisions of those Acts, as if this Act had not been passed :

Provided also that any scheme or work of whatever nature commenced under either of the aforesaid Acts, and not completed before the commencement of this Act, shall, so far as it is not inconsistent with this Act, be deemed to have been commenced thereunder.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN the Bengal Presidency, especially the Burdwan and Presidency divisions, there is a considerable demand for the execution of drainage projects for sanitary as well as agricultural purposes, both large and small. The legal mechanism for such projects is contained in various Acts, viz.:—the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885), the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883 (XIX of 1883), the Bengal Embankment Act, 1882 (Ben. Act II of 1882), the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880 (Ben. Act VI of 1880), and the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895 (Ben. Act VIII of 1895). These Acts are, however, neither sufficiently suitable or effective in every case, nor simple enough in the case of small schemes. The relevant sections of the Bengal Tenancy Act, even though coupled with the Land Improvement Loans Act, are practically inoperative; the application of the Bengal Embankment Act is necessarily limited. The procedure prescribed in the Bengal Drainage and the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Acts is more applicable to large schemes, whilst the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, as its name implies, cannot be utilised for purely agricultural projects. Moreover, even for large schemes, the procedure of these two Acts is unnecessarily rigid, cumbrous and dilatory. The Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act is the less elaborate of the two, but there are many matters in the Bengal Drainage Act which should be inserted in statutory rules rather than in the law. Neither Act contains provision for the execution of works initiated by private individuals or bodies of agriculturists registered under the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912 (II of 1912). Finally, the provisions of both Acts for the apportionment and recovery of costs are unnecessarily rigid. It is, therefore, desired to consolidate and amend the Bengal Drainage Act and the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act with a view to the promotion of agricultural and sanitary works of improvement generally.

From the above it will appear that the main fault of the present law on the subject is its lack of elasticity. The present Bill has, therefore, been drafted so as to contain only the essentials of the procedure; details have been relegated to statutory rules which can be altered in accordance with changes in conditions or experience. The Bill is designed to cover both large and small schemes which are initiated or can be executed by any person or body of persons, such as a Co-operative Society, or local authority.

For small schemes a simple procedure has been evolved, whilst a more elaborate procedure has been prescribed for large schemes, involving a reference to a committee appointed ad hoc, the Sanitary Board and Government. The Bill provides for the payment by the applicant or for an advance from public funds of the costs of the proposed improvement; and for the recovery of costs, or of a portion thereof, from the landlords and tenants of the area benefited by the improvement. In the latter case the rigid and sometimes inequitable provisions of the Bengal Drainage and Bengal Sanitary Drainage Acts have been avoided. On the analogy of section 114 of the Bengal Tenancy Act it is proposed that each apportionment order should follow the merits of each particular case, and that the costs should be recovered from the individual landlords and tenants of the area benefited.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 1.—Sub-clause (2) provides that the proposed Act shall extend to the whole of Bengal, with the exception of the town of Calcutta and municipal areas. The Act has, however, been made applicable to municipal areas in the case of a scheme which jointly affects any area to which the Act extends and a municipal area.

Sub-clause (3).—It has been provided that the Act shall be brought into force by notification in order to permit of rules being prepared before the Act comes into force.

Clause 2.—"agricultural work".—This definition empowers the Collector to certify what work is to be regarded as agricultural work.

"Collector".—This definition is based on the provisions of section 3 of the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880, but also provides for the selection by the Commissioner of an officer in the case of a scheme relating to land lying in more than one district. It also includes an officer appointed by the Local Government to discharge the functions of the Collector under the proposed Act.

"cost".—This definition follows to some extent the provisions of section 18 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, and enumerates the various items which make up the cost of a work under the proposed Act.

"Engineer".—This definition is based on the provisions of section 2(h) of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, but is somewhat wider. In very petty schemes it is possible for the applicant to be appointed his own Engineer.

"landlord".—This definition follows the definition of this term in section 3(4) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

"local authority".—This definition follows to some extent section 3(23) of the Bengal General Clauses Act, 1899, but includes a Local Board which may be entrusted by the Government to carry out schemes under the proposed Act.

"major scheme" and "minor scheme".—A major scheme is one in which more than one local authority is concerned or which the Local Government prescribe by rule as involving an expenditure exceeding a certain amount or which is certified by the Collector or Engineer to be a major scheme. All other schemes are to be treated as minor schemes.

"Sanitary Board".—This definition has been framed in such a way as to permit the Local Government to appoint the Board.

"tenant".—This definition is based on section 3(3) of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, but also includes a rent-free holder or temporary occupier of land and a shop-keeper.

Clause 3 prescribes the procedure to be followed by the Collector on receipt of an application for the consideration of any work for the improvement, or for the prevention of the deterioration, of the agricultural or sanitary condition of any area.

Clause 4.—This clause follows to some extent the provisions of section 11 of the Bengal Embankment Act, 1882, and provides for the action to be taken by the Collector after the necessary inquiries in connection with the proposed work have been completed. An appeal to the Commissioner is provided in a case when the Collector considers that the proposed work should not be done.

Clause 5 is based on section 6 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, and under its provisions the Collector can direct the Engineer to prepare a scheme for any work which it has been decided should be proceeded with.

Clause 6 requires a scheme to be published in order that any objections or suggestions thereon may be submitted.

Clauses 7 and 8 contain a brief and simple procedure in the case of small schemes, the idea being to avoid the unnecessary constitution of a committee with consequent references to Government. An appeal to the Commissioner is provided for against every order made by the Collector under sub-clause (1) of clause 8.

Clause 9.—By this clause provision is made for the appointment of a committee in the case of major schemes in which local authorities and landed and other interests are to be represented.

Clause 10 provides that the committee shall consider a major scheme and may accept or reject it, an appeal to the Sanitary Board being allowed against every such order made by the committee. Power is also given to the Local Government to appeal to the Sanitary Board when a scheme is rejected by the committee.

Clause 11 requires the committee to forward a scheme accepted under the provisions of clause 10 to the Sanitary Board for consideration.

Clause 12.—Under this clause the Sanitary Board will have to report to the Local Government after considering a scheme.

Clause 13 empowers the Local Government to reject the report of the Sanitary Board or to accept it with such modifications as they may consider necessary.

Clause 14.—Sub-clause (1) provides for the carrying out of a scheme by the Collector when it has been accepted under clause 8 or clause 13. In the case of major schemes the Collector has to proceed in accordance with Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, in regard to the preparation or revision of a record-of-rights.

Sub-clause (2) enables the Collector to acquire under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, any land required for the purposes of any work under sub-clause (1).

Clause 15.—This clause gives power to stay proceedings under the proposed Act until any requisition that may be made for the deposit or security for costs is complied with.

Clause 16 gives power to certain persons to enter into or upon lands to carry out works under the proposed Act.

Clause 17 is based on section 27 of the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880, and provides that on the completion of any work, the Engineer is to submit to the Collector a final report accompanied by a statement of the items of the cost of the work and a copy of the map of the local area benefited or improved.

Clause 18 prescribes the procedure to be followed by the Collector on receipt of a final report. The Collector is to prepare a final estimate of the cost of the work and to publish the same with a copy of the map submitted under clause 17.

Clause 19.—Under this clause the Collector is to prepare a detailed statement showing the distribution of costs between the parties concerned and to apportion the share of the costs recoverable from such parties.

Clause 20.—This clause prescribes the procedure as regards the publication of a detailed statement and the hearing of objections, etc., in respect of such statement.

Clause 21.—This clause provides that if the Collector proposes materially to modify the apportionment of the cost of any work, he is to republish the modified statement.

Clause 22 deals with the realization of costs due from the local authority or person concerned in a scheme.

Clause 23 gives power to a landlord to pay the cost apportioned against a tenant. In such cases the improvement effected by such work is to be deemed an improvement within the meaning of section 76 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

Clause 24.—This clause is based on section 113 of the Chittagong Port Act, 1914, and prescribes that the dues under the proposed Act shall be recoverable as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

Clauses 25, 26, 27 and 28.—These clauses are based on sections 38, 39, 40 and 41, respectively, of the Bengal Embankment Act, 1882, and deal with compensation for consequential damage and the method of assessment and determination of such compensation. Clause 26 prescribes a limitation of two years for a claim for compensation.

Clause 29.—This clause, which prescribes that drainage works shall be subject to the existing laws relating to public embankments, is based on section 26 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895.

Clause 30.—This clause corresponds to section 47 of the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880, and section 28 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895. It provides for the vesting of land and works in the Collector, but when the total cost of any work is paid by any local authority or person, the said land and works are to vest in such local authority or person.

Clause 31 corresponds to section 28 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, and provides for the maintenance of the works constructed.

Clause 32 authorises the Local Government to administer the capitalized cost of the maintenance of works constructed under the proposed Act.

Clause 33 is based on section 27 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, and prescribes a penalty for constructing weirs, etc., which obstruct any public drainage.

Clause 34 corresponds to section 29 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act 1895, and provides that the Commissioner, the Collector, the Sanitary Board and a committee appointed under section 9, shall have the powers of a Civil Court in respect of the attendance of witnesses and the production of evidence for the purposes of any inquiry or appeal under the proposed Act.

Clause 35 is based on section 30 of the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895, and the object of the clause is to prevent proceedings under this Act being invalidated by irregularities.

Clause 36.—This is a general rule-making clause in regard to the various matters dealt with under the proposed Act.

Clause 37 repeals Bengal Act VI of 1880, Bengal Act II of 1902 and Bengal Act VIII of 1895, but contains a saving clause in respect of the recovery of the costs of any scheme or work completed before the date when the proposed Act will come into operation. It also saves any scheme or work commenced but not completed before that date.

*Questions and Answers.The President said :—

"Before we proceed with the business that is before us, I have been asked to read to the Council the following letter which has been received by the Secretary to the Council from Lord Sinha of Raipur in reference to a resolution carried in this Council on the 3rd February last :—

17. ELYSIUM Row :
Calcutta, the 13th February 1920.

DEAR SIR,

I beg to acknowledge with thanks your letter No. 136L., of the 9th February, and shall feel obliged by your duly conveying to the Bengal Legislative Council my grateful thanks for their resolution of the 3rd February, 1920, conveying their congratulations to the British Parliament, the Right Hon'ble Mr. Montagu and myself on the passage of the recent Parliamentary Statute for the better government of India.

I remain,

Yours truly,

(Sd.) SINHA.

I am desired by His Excellency also to make mention of one other matter. It has probably been noticed by Hon'ble Members that subsequent to the publication of the report of the recent Rents Committee there has been a certain amount of criticism of their findings, particularly in the matter of the proposal for legislation. and the hope has been expressed in various quarters that at to-day's meeting of Council some pronouncement will be made as to the intentions of the Government of Bengal in the matter. I may say that while the details of legislation are under reference to the Government of India, and cannot be published pending receipt of their orders, it is the intention of the Bengal Government to propose in this Council legislation on the subject of rents in Calcutta, and we hope to make details of our proposals known in a very few days."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 2.

STARRED QUESTIONS. •

The following questions which had been starred were put and answered :—

By the Hon'ble Rai Radha Charan Pal Bahadur :—

(a) Are the Government aware of the fact that there was a very heavy mortality last year owing to cholera having broken out in an epidemic form in Saugor Island and in Calcutta, during the Ganga Saugor Mêla, for which no adequate medical and sanitary measures were, or could be, taken by the District Board of the 24-Parganas? Epidemics on the Ganga Saugor Mêla.

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state what precautions, if any, were taken to prevent an outbreak of cholera and other epidemics at these places during the said mêla this year?

(c) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the risk which the inhabitants of the locality and the surrounding areas run by being exposed to the danger of infection from the decomposition of the filth that accumulates during the mêla and which is left to rot?

(d) If so, are the Government considering the desirability of taking such action as they may think proper for the destruction of such filth either by burning or by any other suitable method?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

“(a) and (b) A statement containing the information asked for is laid on the table.

“(c) and (d) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the reply given under the head ‘Sanitary precautions adopted after the mêla.’ The remarks of the Hon'ble Member will be brought to the notice of the District Board of the 24-Parganas.”

Statement referred to in the answer to question No. 1 (a) and (b) (starred).

There was a severe outbreak of cholera at the mêla held in 1919 which caused regrettable mortality. Inquiry having shown that the arrangements hitherto made were not adequate to prevent the outbreak of epidemic disease and limit the spread of infection, Government intervened in order to ensure that satisfactory arrangements were made during the mêla held in January, 1920. The arrangements may be classified under four heads, viz:—

- (1) arrangements for the embarkation and disembarkation of pilgrims in Calcutta;
- (2) arrangements on board the steamers conveying pilgrims to and from Saugor Island;
- (3) arrangements at the mêla itself; and
- (4) sanitary precautions after the mêla.

(1) Arrangements in Calcutta.—The experience of previous years had shown that the congregation of sadhus and other pilgrims at different steamer ghats in Calcutta was open to grave objection from the public health point of view. Arrangements were accordingly made for the embarkation of the pilgrims at Matiabruz in Garden Reach under the control of the Port Health Officer. He was assisted by the Health Department of the Calcutta Corporation, which supplied doctors and attendants. The co-operation of the Marwari Association was secured and the labour corps from the depôt close by also gave valuable help in preparing and clearing the ground. With the help of the Executive Engineer, Kidderpore, a large plot of land was prepared for the use of pilgrims. Latrines were erected, shelters constructed and three drinking water tanks set up, a continuous supply of water being given by the Corporation: this supply was greatly appreciated by the pilgrims. A small hospital was erected, which was efficiently managed by the Bengali Company of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade. Medical officers inspected all passengers as they went on board, and several cases of small-pox, as well as of fever and leprosy, were detected and detained. As soon as each steamer was full, the Port Health Officer went on board and saw that there was no overcrowding.

Arrangements were also made for disembarkation at Matiabruz in the event of any outbreak of disease. An Assistant Port Health Officer met the steamers below Budge Budge on their return and telephoned to the Port Health Officer the condition of each vessel. They were examined by the Port Health Officer at the Surinam depôt, and all but two were allowed to proceed to the East Indian Railway jetty at Howrah and to Outram Ghat, where the passengers were disembarked. Two vessels were detained, of which one had two cases of small-pox and the other had two cases of cholera. These patients and their contacts were promptly removed and the patients sent to hospital by ambulance, the contacts being accommodated at the Surinam depôt. The rest of the passengers were allowed to proceed to their homes after medical examination.

Questions and Answers.

(2) Arrangements on the steamers.—Special rules for the medical relief and protection against epidemic disease of persons proceeding by steamers to mêlas were issued in notification No. 2 Marine, dated 6th January, 1920, of which a copy is laid on the table. The Surgeon-General supplied assistant surgeons and medical students to accompany the pilgrims on the steamers and flats; they were supplied with outfits of drugs chosen by the Port Health Officer and paid for by the steamer companies. A small hospital space was arranged for in each steamer and flat. Each flat and steamer was inspected and the number that each could carry was fixed; and before they were allowed to embark passengers, they were again inspected to see that the water supply and feeding arrangements were according to the rules. These arrangements were scrupulously carried out by the India General and River Steam Navigation Companies and by Messrs. Hoare, Miller & Co., whose co-operation Government desire to acknowledge.

(3) Arrangements at the Mêla.—The Sanitary Engineer, the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner for the Presidency Circle and the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner (Dr. Ghosh who was on special duty in connection with the mêla) visited Saugor Island during the Christmas holidays, and, in consultation with the Vice-Chairman of the District Board, settled on sites for a cistern for a pipe-water supply, latrines and cholera sheds. After his return Dr. Ghosh was in constant consultation with the District Board regarding medical and sanitary arrangements and with the Marwari Association, the Ramkrishna Mission and other charitable societies regarding medical help.

The Sanitary Commissioner deputed the following officers to the mêla:—a Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, two assistant surgeons, and five sub-assistant surgeons; the Sanitary Commissioner himself was also present at the mêla and supervised operations on the 15th January. An officer of the Sanitary Engineer's Department was in charge of the pipe-water supply, which Government installed at the instance of the Sanitary Commissioner. The District Board employed an assistant surgeon as medical officer in charge, a sub-assistant surgeon, a compounder and two sanitary inspectors, and also entertained two food inspectors, who were lent by the Calcutta Corporation. The District Board medical officer took over charge of the dispensary and hospital and the services of two steamer doctors were placed at his disposal.

The sanitation of the mêla was in charge of the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, and each sub-assistant surgeon was placed in charge of a certain area, for the cleanliness of which he was responsible. One hundred sweepers, four domes and eight sarkars were engaged. A certain number were detailed for duty at the hospital, and the remainder was divided into five gangs. The largest gang which was under Dr. Ganguli, of the District Board staff, assisted by one of the Government sub-assistant surgeons, looked after the latrine area. The other four gangs were allotted different areas, a Government sub-assistant surgeon being in charge of each. The sanitary inspector, Diamond Harbour subdivision, was in charge of stores and also helped in the disinfection of tanks and other work.

Special care was taken to protect the sources of water supply. Of the four tanks three, which were reserved for drinking water, were fenced round and disinfected once a day, while the fourth, which contained brackish water, was reserved for bathing and washing, and was disinfected twice or thrice a day. The District Board engaged 48 Brahmins to lift and distribute water from the tanks, and no pilgrim was allowed to dip private vessels into the water. Provision was also made to prevent waste water from flowing back into the tank. At one time the whole arrangement was endangered by the fact that the Brahmin water-carriers became tired out and were ready to throw up the work from fatigue. The situation was saved by the Sanitary Commissioner giving them extra help and by recourse to the pipe supply. The pumps were kept working from early morning to late at night, and an unending stream of pilgrims of all classes, including sadhus and high class

Questions and Answers.

Brahmins from up-country, drew water from the eight taps. The fact that pipe water was provided was greatly appreciated by the pilgrims.

Besides the disinfectants provided by the District Board the Sanitary Commissioner sent 50 gallons of chlorogen and a considerable amount of phenyle and crude petroleum. Subsequently the Sanitary Commissioner arranged for a further supply of 50 gallons of chlorogen for the purpose of disinfecting drinking water tanks along the boat and road tracks leading to the mêla. A supply of cholera vaccine was sent to the mêla, while lymph for vaccination was provided both on the steamers and at the mêla.

There were four cases of cholera at the mêla, but owing to the precautions adopted there was no spread of the disease; there were also three cases of small-pox among pilgrims returning from the mêla. There were only three deaths at the mêla, viz., two from cholera and one from pneumonia. It is estimated that there were 50,000 persons at the mêla and the result must be regarded as creditable to all concerned.

(4) Sanitary precautions adopted after mêla.—Every effort was made to leave the mêla ground as clean as possible. Excreta were buried as far as practicable; combustible material was disposed of by burning and other rubbish was collected in heaps and sprinkled with disinfectants. The District Board sanitary inspector was sent with a liberal supply of chlorogen to disinfect tanks at the halting places used by the pilgrims, while the Government sanitary staff disinfected tanks between Diamond Harbour and Shikarpar.

Rules referred to in the Statement to clauses (a) and (b) of Question No. 1 (starred) of the 5th March, 1920.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

The 6th January 1920.

No. 2 Marine.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 54 and 67 of the Inland Steam-vessels Act, 1917 (1 of 1917), the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following rules for the protection of passengers on inland steam-vessels or vessels propelled by electricity or other mechanical power proceeding to melas (fairs) against the spread of plague and other epidemic diseases by persons travelling in such vessels and for affording proper medical aid on board such vessels to those passengers who suffer from such epidemic or other diseases. These rules are supplementary to those published under notification No. 82 Marine, dated the 16th August 1918.

Rules.

1. Definition.—In these rules mêla means a periodical gathering of a large number of people for religious or other lawful purposes.

2. Every owner or master of a steam-vessel or vessel propelled by electricity or other mechanical power carrying passengers to melas shall have on board—

- (a) a duly qualified doctor with sufficient medicines and with the necessary transfusion apparatus for the treatment of cholera cases;
- (b) drinking water at one gallon per head per diem or such less quantity as the Local Government may prescribe for each passenger carried, for supply free of charge to the passengers: and
- (c) a supply of one of the disinfectants mentioned in the list maintained by the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, and in such quantity for every 100 passengers as may be prescribed in the said list.

Questions and Answers.

3. Every owner or master of a steam-vessel or vessel propelled by electricity or other mechanical power shall provide—

- (a) adequate segregation and hospital accommodation on deck at the stern of the steam-vessel to the satisfaction of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, or such officer as he may depute for the purpose before the steam-vessel proceeds on her journey;
- (b) proper facilities for the supply of wholesome food for passengers and the control of such supply of food by the sanitary or medical authorities; and
- (c) adequate latrine accommodation to the satisfaction of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, or such officer as he may depute for the purpose.

4. Any person committing a breach of any of the above rules excepting rule 2 (b) shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both, and in the case of a breach of rule 2 (b) with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(a) Is it a fact that a time scale of pay has recently been sanctioned in the lower grade for the Accounts offices, viz., the offices of the Accountant-General, Bengal, Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs, and Deputy Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs?

Sanction of a time scale pay in the Accounts offices.

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to state what are the rates of pay sanctioned in these offices and their maximum limit of increment ordinarily?

(c) Is it a fact that the work required of clerks in these offices in the lower grade is more onerous and responsible than that of the Bengal Secretariat in the same grade?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

“(a), (b) and (c) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the replies given to-day to similar questions asked by the Hon'ble Babu Brojendra Kishor Ray Chaudhuri.”

By the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri:—

(a) Is it a fact that of late two Sessions Judges have been employed on the trial of criminal cases at Rajshahi?

Crime in Rajshahi.

(b) Is it also a fact that the two Government pleaders in Rajshahi are finding themselves unable to cope with the Sessions business?

(c) Are the Government aware that crime has of late increased in the district of Rajshahi to an appalling extent?

(d) Have the Government instituted any inquiry into the causes of this increase in crime in the Rajshahi district?

(e) Is there any truth in the allegation that this increase is due in some measure to the inability of the Police to detect crime?

(f) Are the Government in a position to say to what other causes this increase of crime is due?

*Questions and Answers.Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“(a) Yes.

(b) Government are not aware, nor have they reason to believe, that the two Government pleaders are unable to cope with the work.

(c) An increase of crime occurred in the district of Rajshahi in the latter part of the year 1918, and continued during the first quarter of the year 1919, since when crime has steadily declined.

(d) Inquiry has been made by the Inspector-General of Police, the Deputy Inspector-General, Rajshahi Range, and the Deputy Inspector-General, Criminal Investigation Department.

(e) The allegation is too vague to permit of specific reply.

(f) The officers who examined the matter considered that the increase was primarily due to the effects of the flood which occurred in the latter half of the year 1918, which caused economic distress.”

Investigation of crime by Deputy Superintendents of Police.

(a) Is it a fact that deputy superintendents of police at headquarters of Districts are seldom sent to investigate into occurrences of crime, and that when they are sent they are not allowed to remain on this duty for any length of time?

(b) If the answer to clause (a) is in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state the reason why their experience is not availed of in the investigation of cases?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“(a) The functions of deputy superintendents of police are laid down in Police Regulations, Bengal, Volume I, Rule 125 (2). They are not generally employed in the investigation of cases, but are freely empowered by Superintendents of Police to supervise important investigations. Full discretion is given to them as to the time to be devoted to the supervision of specific cases.

(b) Their experience is utilised in the supervision of investigations.”

chaukidars.

(a) Is it a fact that village chaukidars are paid Rs. 5 only per month?

(b) Is it a fact that these village chaukidars are not whole-time men and that they are compelled to take up other occupations for their livelihood?

(c) Are the Government aware of an opinion that has been expressed that these chaukidars can hardly be expected under these conditions to work satisfactorily as police officers?

(d) Are the Government considering the desirability of appointing a committee or of taking such other steps as they may deem fit to examine the question of these chaukidars with a view to making them more serviceable by employing them as whole-time men on increased emoluments?

*Questions and Answers.Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

"(a) Under the Chaukidari Act the pay of chaukidars is fixed at a minimum of Rs. 2 and a maximum of Rs. 6. Under the Village Self-Government Act no maximum or minimum is imposed, but the pay is determined from time to time by the District Magistrate after consideration of the views of the union board. In most districts of the province the pay is now Rs. 6.

(b) and (d) Chaukidars are not whole time servants and their pay is fixed upon this basis. The question of making them whole time servants has been discussed on many occasions, and the conclusion arrived at was that the balance of advantage lies with the present system. It is not proposed to reopen the question now.

(c) The question of the sufficiency of the pay of chaukidars in Bengal on a part time basis was discussed in the report of the Bengal District Administration Committee, where it was shown that the pay in Bengal compared not unfavourably with that in other provinces."

*VI.

(a) Is it a fact that during the short absence during the Xmas holidays of Babu Becharam Lahiri, Pleader, Krishnagar, from his Krishnagar house, on his visit to Amritsar to attend the Indian National Congress as a Nadia delegate, both the General and Intelligence Branch Police annoyed his servants and children by repeatedly demanding his whereabouts from them on six different days?

Alleged police annoyance of Babu Becharam Lahiri.

(b) Are the Government aware of the fact that his departure from Krishnagar was announced in a Calcutta daily newspaper?

(c) Is it also a fact that the said Babu Becharam Lahiri, on his return to Krishnagar, complained to the Superintendent of Police, of Krishnagar about the occurrences referred to in clause (a) and that the Superintendent of Police offered a verbal apology to him on behalf of the Nadia Police and censured the officer in question?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to state whether the police had any authority to make the inquiries referred to in clause (a)?

(e) Are the Government considering the desirability of issuing instructions to the Police with a view to prevent the recurrence of such incidents in future?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

"(a) It is a fact that the Nadia police made certain inquiries at the house of Babu Becharam Lahiri during his absence. No inquiry was made by the Intelligence Branch.

(b) No.

(c) The Superintendent of Police immediately took up Babu Becharam Lahiri's complaint and found that unnecessary inquiries had been made in a tactless manner by his subordinates. He at once took disciplinary action and expressed his regret to Babu Becharam Lahiri for the trouble and annoyance caused to him.

(d) The police officers concerned exceeded their authority.

(e) Disciplinary action has been taken in this case, and Government do not consider it necessary to issue general instructions."

Strengthening
Provincial
Service.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are considering any proposal to strengthen the cadre of the Provincial Educational Service with a view to promote headmasters of Government high schools to that service?

(b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state when effect will be given to that proposal?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state whether they contemplate the inclusion of lecturers in Government Colleges in the Provincial Educational Service?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

"(a) and (b) Government have sanctioned, with effect from 21st September, 1919, the addition to the Provincial Educational Service cadre of 30 posts to be filled by headmasters of Government high schools.

(c) This measure is not at present contemplated by Government. The Hon'ble Member is referred to the explanation given by the Hon'ble Mr. Wordsworth on 15th March, 1918, in reply to a resolution on the subject moved by the Hon'ble Babu Kishori Mohan Chaudhuri."

Promotions to
Educational Service.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state—

(i) whether it is a fact that a graduate of the Calcutta University, who may specially distinguish himself as a member of the Provincial Civil Service, has a fair prospect of promotion to a post in the Indian Civil Service and of rising to a pay of Rs. 1,500 a month;

(ii) whether it is a fact that a graduate of the Calcutta University, who may specially distinguish himself as a member of the Provincial Educational Service, has now very poor prospects of promotion to a post in the Indian Educational Service and of rising to a pay of even Rs. 1,000 a month; and

(iii) whether it is a fact that none of the eight officers of the Provincial Educational Service recently promoted to the Indian Educational Service will be able, even at the age of 55, to rise to the maximum pay of the incremental scale recently sanctioned for the Indian Educational Service (viz., Rs. 1,250)?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state whether in future (after the Services have been reorganised in accordance with the recent orders of the Secretary of State) a deserving Provincial Educational Service Officer who may be promoted to the Indian Educational Service will be given a suitable increment of pay at the time of his appointment to the Indian Educational Service so as to enable him to reach before retirement the maximum pay of the incremental scale of the Indian Educational Service (Rs. 1,250), and, if possible, to have also an opportunity of rising to a selection grade before superannuation?

*Questions and Answers.Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

" (a) (i) An officer of the Provincial Civil Service who specially distinguishes himself has a prospect of promotion to one of the eleven superior posts of Magistrate or Judge which are listed as open to members of that service. The maximum pay at present attaching to these posts is Rs. 1,600 (executive) and Rs. 2,000 (judicial); the minimum is Rs. 1,000 (executive) and Rs. 1 200 (judicial)

(ii) and (iii) Until recently, the Indian Educational Service and the Provincial Educational Service were held to be parallel services though on different rates of pay and prospects. The former service was manned almost exclusively by Europeans and the latter by Indians. While this arrangement lasted a graduate of the Calcutta University had no prospects of promotion to the Indian Educational Service, even though he might specially distinguish himself as a member of the Provincial Educational Service, and his pay could not rise above Rs. 700, which is the maximum pay of the Provincial Educational Service. When, a short while ago, the above principle was discarded and a few members of the Provincial Educational Service had to be selected for the Indian Educational Service, the officers selected were naturally senior members of the service many of whom are about to attain the age of superannuation. It is therefore probable that none of the officers recently promoted from the Provincial Educational Service to the Indian Educational Service will attain the pay of Rs. 1,250 by the time of their retirement.

(b) It appears probable from such orders of the Secretary of State as have already been received on the subject that a considerable number of the Provincial Educational Service officers who will hereafter be promoted to the Indian Educational Service will attain the maximum pay of the Indian Educational Service and also have the opportunity of rising to a selection grade before superannuation, but no prediction can be made in a matter of this kind with any degree of certainty, because the age at which the Provincial Educational Service officer concerned is selected for promotion to the Indian Educational Service will be a determining factor."

(f) Is it a fact that the clerks of the offices of Heads of Departments have received no increase of pay since 1911?

(g) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any steps are contemplated to increase their pay?

Questions and Answers.

(h) Is it a fact that Government have recently revised the pay of lower grade clerks of the Bengal Secretariat?

(i) If so, is there any special reason for not sanctioning a revised scale of pay to the clerks of the Heads of Departments located in Calcutta?

(j) Is it a fact that recruitment in the clerical service in the Bengal Secretariat and attached offices is regulated under Bengal Government Notification No. 13603-Mis., dated the 14th November, 1919?

(k) If so, will the Government be pleased to state whether there is any special reason for differentiating between the minimum pay of the clerks of the attached offices and that of the Secretariat clerks?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

“(a) Yes.

(b) The clerks were informed that owing to financial stringency the proposals could not be entertained at present. The question of raising the minimum pay in the offices of Heads of Departments in Calcutta to Rs. 40 is now under the consideration of Government.

(c) Yes, in the offices named and in the Eastern Bengal, East Indian and Bengal Nagpur Railways. No information is available in respect of other Railways.

(d) The pay of Lower Division clerks has been revised by Government order No 608 T.—F., dated the 25th September, 1919.

Sessions Judge, Barisal.

(a) Is it a fact that on the 5th February, 1920, Mr. Fraser, I.C.S., Additional Sessions Judge, Barisal, ordered a Muhammadan gentleman sitting in his Court to stand up with his hands uplifted and face turned towards the wall and nose actually touching it?

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to state what steps they are taking in the matter?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

"(a) Government have inquired into the matter, and the facts are as follows:—

A witness for the Crown, who had been declared hostile, was seen to look at one Hamez Khan, who was sitting in the Court, before answering the questions put to him. The prosecution pleader drew the Court's attention to this and stated that Hamez had nodded his head to the witness. Mr. Fraser ordered the man to stand up and asked him in Bengali to explain his conduct. Mr. Fraser pointed out that he was liable to prosecution for his conduct, but, instead of instituting proceedings, he ordered a chaprassi to put Hamez in a corner of the room with his face to the wall and his hands above his head, and directed that he should remain in that position for half an hour. Hamez Khan actually remained in that position for twenty minutes, and was then released. Hamez Khan is a villager who was looking after the case for the accused.

(b) Mr. Fraser has been informed that his conduct in this matter was undignified and unwarrantable and that it is viewed by Government with grave displeasure."

Erosion of the
Noakhali.

(a) Is it a fact that the Montear Ghona or Noakhali Khal, which runs along the east of the town of Noakhali, has washed away a large tract of land, including many houses and a road of the District Board leading to the railway station, rendering many residents in the neighbourhood homeless?

(b) Is it also a fact that it is now threatening the new road to the station constructed by the District Board, the new Zilla School site, the Jail compound, and other public and private properties in the north of the town?

(c) Is there any proposal before the Government for straightening the bend of the khal at a place called Bariaghona, which is expected to stop further erosion of the town?

(d) If so, will the Government be pleased to say when the work is to be carried out?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) In November, 1916, and again in 1919, certain inhabitants of the town and adjoining villages submitted a petition to the Commissioner of the Division praying for the diversion of the khal at Bariaghona. It was then decided by the local Engineering and Civil officers that any short-circuiting of the khal at or near the town would, apart from any question of cost, increase the velocity of the stream in a shorter channel, and almost certainly lead to still more dangerous erosion either above or below the present erosion. The matter was accordingly dropped.

(d) The question does not arise."

(a) Are the Government aware that there is at present an epidemic outbreak of beri-beri in the town of Howrah?

Outbreak of
Howrah.

(b) If so, have any steps been taken by Government to check the spread of the disease?

(c) Have the Government made any inquiry as to the cause of the epidemic and as to whether it is due to the use of mustard oil adulterated with another oil extracted from pakru seeds, which contains the deadly poison known as "Hydrocyanic Acid"?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

"(a) There is no outbreak of beri beri at present in the town of Howrah, but there is an outbreak of epidemic dropsy to which the Hon'ble Member probably refers.

(b) The exact cause of epidemic dropsy is not understood and the Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India has been asked to move the Indian Research Fund Association to depute a skilled bacteriologist for work in connection with the outbreak. A Deputy Sanitary Commissioner is already at work in Howrah, the Municipal Health Officer is exercising the closest supervision over foodstuffs, and four extra medical officers have also been appointed for the detection and treatment of the disease.

(c) Inquiries are being made as to the cause of the epidemic, but opinions are at present divided as to whether it is due to the use of impure mustard oil or not. A copy of circular No. 74, dated 27th August, 1919, issued by the Sanitary Commissioner on the subject of mustard oil adulterated with oil expressed from pakru seeds is laid on the table."

CIRCULAR NO. 74.

FROM

DR. C. A. BENTLEY, M.B., D.P.H., D.T.M. & H.,

Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal.

To

THE CHAIRMEN OF ALL MUNICIPALITIES IN BENGAL

Dated Calcutta, the 27th August 1919.

SIRS,

The Calcutta Municipal Corporation has notified that it has been brought to the notice of its Health Department that mustard oil adulterated with oil expressed from paka (otherwise known as pakra, kusum or bera) seeds is being sold as mixed mustard oil. This mixed oil is unwholesome and unfit for human consumption, being injurious to health. Vomiting and other disagreeable toxic symptoms supervene on its use. The local public have been warned against the use of such a mixture and measures initiated for dealing with traders selling it. As the distribution of the adulterated oil may probably spread beyond Calcutta, I have the honour to suggest that you will be so good as to take steps to caution the people of your town, by beat of drum and issue of notices, against the use of the mixed oil. Subject to the payment of a small fee to be prescribed by the local Government under the Bengal Food Adulteration Act, 1919, any sample may be sent to my laboratory at No. 2, Convent Lane, Intally, Calcutta, and the result of the analysis will be reported for such further action as may be considered necessary. Intimation of the despatch of samples to the laboratory should be simultaneously made separately to me.

I have the honour to be,

Your most obedient servant,

CHAS. A BENTLEY, M.B., D.P.F., D.T. M., & H.,

Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal.

Railway.

(a) Are the Government aware of the serious inconvenience suffered by the travelling public on the East Indian Railway, Nailhati Branch, at Garifa station, arising mainly from the following circumstances:—

(i) there are no waiting-rooms for the several classes of passengers, and

(ii) there are no platforms?

(b) Are the Government considering the desirability of suggesting to the railway authorities that action be taken for the removal of these grievances?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

"(a) No.

(b) The attention of the East Indian Railway authorities will be drawn to the alleged inconvenience."

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state what are the educational qualifications of the present officiating Director of Agriculture?

Agriculture.

(b) Is it a fact that the Public Services Commission has recommended that the post of Director of Agriculture should be held by an expert?

(c) Have the Government accepted this recommendation?

(d) If so, what interpretation do they attach to the word expert?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

“(a) Bachelor of Science. He took two courses, one in Agriculture and the other in Science. •

(b) The Public Services Commission recommended that officers of the Indian Civil Service should cease to be appointed Directors of Agriculture and that rural commissionerships to control the work of the agricultural and civil veterinary departments, the co-operative credit movement, and the measures taken for the improvement of arts and crafts should be appointed from the Indian Civil Service in provinces where effective control is not already or cannot otherwise be provided. •

(c) The matter is understood to be under the consideration of the Government of India and the Secretary of State. Since, however, the year 1916 the post of Director of Agriculture in this Province has been held successively by Messrs. Milligan and Finlow, both of whom are expert officers of the Agricultural Department and neither of whom is a member of the Indian Civil Service. Mr. Finlow is now acting for Mr. Milligan, the permanent incumbent.

(a) Are the Government aware of the gradual artificial accretions to both banks of the river Hooghly caused by the building up of walls by mill owners?

Artificial
the Hooghly.

(b) What steps (if any) are the Government taking to prevent the building up of these walls?

(c) Are the Government taking steps to assess revenue upon the lands already encroached upon? If not, why not?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

“(a) Yes

(b) Within the limits of the Port of Calcutta the Port Commissioners take the necessary steps to prevent such erections without the specific approval of Government. Outside the limits of the Port the Commissioners of the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions are under Government Order responsible for the conservation of the river. The question of the issue of a Notification under section 4 (1) (a) of the Indian Ports Act (XV of 1908), conferring on the Port Commissioners the power of Conservators of navigable river channels of the Hooghly leading to the Port of Calcutta, north of the northern limits of the Port, is under the consideration of Government.

(c) Revenue on encroachments will be generally assessed during regular diara surveys under Act IX of 1847. Above Naihati such surveys are being undertaken in accordance with Notification No. 785 L R, dated the 21st January, 1918, published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 23rd January, 1918, along with the survey and settlement proceedings now in progress in the district of Nadia. Below Naihati such surveys will be undertaken along with the survey and settlement operations in the districts of Hooghly, Howrah and the 24-Parganas. According to the present programme settlement operations in the Howrah and Hooghly districts are expected to commence in the year 1922, and those in the 24-Parganas are expected to commence in 1923. Government, however, reserve the right to charge rent for encroachments on the foreshore at any time.”

Messrs Martin
& Co.'s line
in Howrah

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state how many accidents have been caused on the line of Messrs Martin & Co., in the town of Howrah, during the last five years?

(b) What precautions have been adopted to prevent such accidents happening?

(c) Are the Government considering the desirability of ascertaining whether these precautions are adequate and are strictly followed?

(d) Have the Government considered the advisability of removing the line to a safer place, such as the East Indian Railway yard at Howrah?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley:—

“(a) The total number of accidents of all kinds during the past five years was 59. Of these, 33 were of a technical nature, e.g., derailments, etc., not involving injuries to persons. The remaining 26 were accidents resulting in injuries which in six cases proved fatal, viz:—

To passengers	5
To railway servants	3
To public wayfarers and trespassers	15
To animals	3

The six cases in which accidents proved fatal consist of—

Railway servants	2
Cartman	1
Male trespasser	1
Female trespasser	2

(b) The working of the railway is governed by certain sections of the Railway Act which provide such precautions as are considered necessary.

(f) Is it a fact that among the officers promoted eight are clerks who are employed in less responsible offices than the Head Clerk of a first grade college who has been superseded?

(g) Are the Government aware that such cases of supersession have produced a widespread feeling of discontent amongst the officers concerned?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

(a) A statement is laid on the table. It does not include the name of Babu Sukha Ranjan Bose (No. I) who had been promoted under a previous notification. In the notification in question his promotion was only given effect to from an earlier date.

(b) Yes.

Questions and Answers.

(c) It will appear from column 9 of the statement, laid on the table, that the officers who superseded those mentioned in the question, were drawing Rs. 50 per mensem for a longer term than those superseded. The order in which officers are considered for promotion is determined by the dates from which they have been drawing their present rate of pay whether inside or outside the grades. The principle involved in the procedure was explained in the answers of Government to clauses (f) and (g) of unstarred question No. 29 asked by the Hon'ble Maulvi A. K. Fazlul Haq at the Council meeting of 19th November, 1919.

(d) Promotions are not determined by academical qualifications alone. Length of service and meritorious work have to receive full consideration.

(e) Yes. But the clerk had been drawing Rs. 50 per month for a longer period than those whom he superseded.

(f) There are 8 clerks among the officers promoted but all of them had been drawing Rs. 50 per month for longer terms than those whom they superseded.

(g) No."

25.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state why the establishment of a district agricultural farm at Pabna for which the District Board has contributed liberally has not yet been taken up this year?

Establishment of Agricultural farms in certain places.

(b) Is it a fact that a large provision was made in the Budget for the current year for two other district farms?

(c) If so, will the Government be pleased to state the reasons why these farms have not been started?

(d) Is it a fact that the money referred to in clauses (a) and (b) will lapse in time?

(e) Has any other scheme, either in the Agricultural or Sericultural section, for which money was allotted by Government, been abandoned for the current year, and if so what are the causes of such abandonment?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

(a) Although provision for this work was made in the budget, no preliminary steps had, at the time provision was made, been taken towards the construction of the buildings nor were bricks available. A project for the work has now been drawn up and sanctioned: and instructions have been issued to arrange for bricks this cold weather. Proceedings for the acquisition of land are now in progress. The buildings will be constructed by the Public Works Department next financial year.

(b) Yes.

(c) The necessary preliminaries of the selection of the site, the acquisition of the land and the preparation of initial and detailed plans and estimates in consultation with the Agricultural Department, the Public Works Department and other officers or bodies interested as well as the actual construction of the buildings by the Public Works Department naturally take time. Therefore the preliminaries of a scheme up to the preparation of initial plans and estimates have ordinarily to be settled before provision is made in the budget for it. In order, however, to expedite matters, Government, in accordance with what is understood to be the general wish, made the necessary budget provision in anticipation of these preliminaries in the case of these farms. But, owing to the difficulty of accelerating the ordinary preliminary work, and for the fact that the Public Works Department have in hand an exceptionally large programme of building operations which had been postponed owing to the war, it has not been found possible to accelerate the work to the extent Government hoped would be done. In the case of the two other farms referred to by the Hon'ble Member, the sites for the Bakarganj farm at Sagardi and the Birbhum farm at Suri have now been acquired; and Rs. 5,000 will be spent during the year on the buildings on the former farm. The Director of Agriculture has already been requested to settle the preliminaries of future farms in anticipation of budget provision.

(d) This is not altogether correct. Money has already been spent as indicated in the answer to (c). The balance for the Pabna and Bakarganj farms will be provided next year by the Public Works Department from their grant for works in progress and for the Birbhum farm from the grant for the establishment of farms.

(e) No scheme has been actually abandoned for the current year."

(b) What facilities are there for hostel accommodation for the said College?

(c) What is the capacity of the present Muhammadan hostel there, i.e., how many Muhammadan boys are able comfortably to reside in the said hostel?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

“(a) Forty-three.

(b) There are two hostels, one for Hindus and the other for Muhammadans, which together afford accommodation for 188 students.

(c) The present Muhammadan hostel has accommodation for 50 boarders.”

Establishment of a Medical School in the Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the conditions that are required to be fulfilled before it is considered that a case has been made out for the establishment of a medical school in a district or a division?

(b) Have the Government approved of the necessity for the establishment of such an institution in each division of the province?

(c) If the answer to clause (b) is in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state why the Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions have not been provided with any such schools up to now?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

“(a) and (b) No specific conditions can be laid down. Government are in agreement with the desirability of offering additional facilities for medical education in Bengal outside Calcutta, but in connection with any particular scheme it is necessary to consider the facilities offered by the particular centre proposed, the opportunities it affords for supervision and hospital practice, and the area from which it is likely to draw both patients and pupils, as well as other incidental factors. The financial aspect has also to be considered, and Government must see whether funds can be provided before committing themselves to any scheme

(c) The question does not arise.”

governing bodies of Government and aided Colleges.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state what is the principle adopted in nominating the governing bodies of Government and aided colleges?

(b) Is it not a fact that the main principle is that it should be representative of the different communities?

Questions and Answers.

(c) Are the Government aware that in some cases this principle is not observed, as when the Divisional Commissioner is the Chairman of the governing body, it happens that such body also includes the Deputy Magistrate of the district?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

"(a) In making appointments to the governing bodies of Government colleges Government endeavour to select gentlemen who, owing to their position, qualifications and interest in the colleges are likely to prove useful members. Appointments to the governing bodies of aided colleges are not made by Government.

(b) The answer is in the negative.

(c) In view of the answer to clause (b) this question does not arise."

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state the reasons for the appointment of a superannuated Maulvi from the United Provinces to the post of Head Maulvi of the Calcutta Madrassa in supersession of the claims of the Maulvis in the Education Department of this Presidency?

Filling up of the post of Head Maulvi of the Calcutta Madrassa.

(b) Are the Government aware that the appointment of Shams-ul-Ulama M. A. Tonki, as also of his predecessor, Shams-ul-Ulama Maulvi Abdul Haq, directly to class III of the Provincial Educational Service (Rs. 500) was a source of dissatisfaction among the members of the Provincial Educational Service?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'Malley:—

"(a) Pending the appointment of a permanent successor to Shams-ul-Ulama Mufti Muhammad Abdulla Tonki, Shams-ul-Ulama Maulvi Nazir Hussain, temporary assistant Head Maulvi of the Arabic Department of the Calcutta Madrassa, has been appointed to act as Head Maulvi of the Madrassa. He was appointed temporarily, for the present session only, because no other suitable teacher of Hadis was available and it was necessary to prevent interruption of the studies of the title class students in the middle of the session.

(b) Shams-ul-Ulama Abdul Haq Haqqani was appointed Head Maulvi of the Calcutta Madrassa in 1913 and after his death Shams-ul-Ulama Mufti Abdulla Tonki was appointed Head Maulvi in 1917. In both cases Government carefully reviewed the claims of officers of the Education Department of this Presidency and the merits of the various applicants for the post, and they eventually selected the gentlemen named above in consideration of their experience, attainments and reputation for learning. It is possible that their appointment led to disappointment among officers of the Provincial Educational Service who desired the post, but Government have no information on the subject."

(a) Has the scale of pay of the lower division clerks been revised in the offices of the Accountant-General, Bengal, Controller of Currency, Controller, India Treasuries, Accountant-General, Post and Telegraphs, Deputy Accountant-General, Post and Telegraphs?

Scale of pay of the lower division clerks in the Accounts offices.

Questions and Answers.

(b) What are the minimum and maximum rates of pay and increment under the new scale introduced in these offices?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to say whether the work in those offices is considered to be superior to that of the Secretariat?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

“(a) In the offices named, there is no separation of the clerical service into upper and lower divisions exactly corresponding to that which exists in the Secretariat. The pay of the clerical service, which resembles the lower division of the Secretariat, has been revised in the offices of the Accountant-General, Bengal, Controller, India Treasuries, Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs, Deputy Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs. Proposals for the revision of pay of the clerks of the Controller of Currency's office are under the consideration of Government.

(b) Accountant-General, Bengal, and Accountant-General, Central Revenues, formerly known as Comptroller, India Treasuries.—Rs. 44—4—120—5—150, with efficiency bars at Rs. 80 and Rs. 120. Clerks who pass the departmental examination receive increments at Rs. 5 instead of Rs. 4 or Rs. 3, and the maximum for these clerks is Rs. 170.

Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs, and Deputy Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs.—Rs. 30—3—45—2—55—1—65 and thereafter Rs. 70 after 5 years.

(b) Have the Government under their contemplation the establishment of training classes in ships for the training of Indians as Leadsman, Mate Pilot, etc.?

“(a) The recommendation of the Public Services Commission regarding the amendment of the existing rule on the subject together with the remarks thereon of the local Government and of the Government of India is still under the consideration of the Secretary of State.

(b) Government have had under their consideration the question of establishing a Nautical Institute in Calcutta for the training of Indian seamen in the elements of the theory of navigation and for the training of Indians in the art of navigation on a scientific basis; and they have appointed a small committee to consider the question. GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

No. 478 Mne.

RESOLUTION.

Calcutta, the 3rd February 1920.

The Government of Bengal have for some time past had under their consideration the question of establishing a school or nautical institute in Calcutta for the training of Indian seamen in the elements of the theory of navigation and for the training of Indians in the art of navigation on a scientific basis. No facilities at present exist in this Presidency for Indians to qualify themselves for certificates of competency for higher posts in the mercantile marine. The Governor in Council is inclined to the view that an institute or academy on the lines of training institutions in European countries might prove beneficial to a section of Indians of average education who might be encouraged to take up the sailor's profession in future. Enquiries made by Government show that there is at present no actual demand for such an institution in Calcutta but the Governor in Council thinks that the matter might be discussed with advantage at the present time. The question requires to be very carefully considered. It is necessary in the first place to ascertain definitely whether there is scope for such an institution in Calcutta. If so, the matter should be examined in fuller detail, viz. the course of training, the probable number of boys desirous of going to sea, the shipping companies willing to employ them, the educational and other qualifications required for such employment and any other relevant points. The Government of Bengal consider that the matter should be examined by a representative Committee, as in Bombay and Madras, where a similar question is already under consideration. The Governor in Council is accordingly pleased to appoint a Committee consisting of the following gentlemen to consider the question with special reference to the points mentioned above. The Committee should report their conclusions to Government as early as practicable:—

President.

The Port Officer, Calcutta.

Members.

Captain P. de St. Croix, Marine Superintendent, British India Steam Navigation Company, Limited.

Captain G. R. Simpson, Marine Superintendent, India General Navigation and Railway Company Limited.

A representative of the Asiatic Steam Navigation Company.

A representative of the firm of Senaton Nittyanundo Roy, 2/1 Mission Row, Calcutta.

Munshi Abdool Rahaman, Dubash. of Chittagong.

The time and place for the meeting of the Committee will be arranged by the Port Officer, Calcutta.

By order of the Governor in Council,

C. B. BAYLEY,

Deputy Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Distribution of

affected areas.

- (a) Will the Government be pleased to state—
(i) the quantity of pulse seeds of the different kinds purchased by the Agricultural Department for distribution in the cyclone affected areas in Eastern Bengal and Khulna;
(ii) the quantity of different pulses actually distributed, centre by centre, in the different districts;
(iii) the losses in the course of distribution in the different districts;
(iv) the actual net balance in hand in the different districts and how it has been disposed of, and at what price. If the entire amount has not been disposed of, (a) how much has been disposed of, and (b) at what price;
(v) whether it is a fact that the defective quality of the seeds stood in the way of their disposal;
(vi) the quantity of rabi oilseeds of different varieties purchased by the department for distribution in Dacca and other Eastern Bengal districts and Khulna;
(vii) the quantity actually distributed, district by district; and
(viii) total areas under mustard and linseed cultivation in all the districts concerned?

(b) Is it a fact that there was not a great demand for mustard and linseed seeds in any of the districts, and that the District Collectors of certain districts refused to take the seeds indented for by the Agricultural Department for these districts?

(c) Who were the officers submitting the district indents and who was responsible for the consolidation of the same?

(d) Was the entire arrangement nothing but an experiment?

(e) If not, what considerations led the department to go in for the scheme?

(f) Will the Government state on which dates the indents from the subordinates were received by Director, on which date the order was placed with the firm or firms for the supply, and on which dates the seeds were actually supplied?

(g) From which firm or firms were the seeds purchased?

Questions and Answers.

(h) Was any public tender called for, for the supply?

(i) What endeavours were made by the Department to consult the local rates?

(j) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a comparative statement giving the prices current locally for these seeds and the prices charged by the firms, including freight and other charges?

(k) What have been the contingent charges incurred by the department in connection with this distribution?

(l) What expenditure has been incurred by the Government on the following items in connection with the seed distribution—

(i) travelling allowance of all the officers employed, rank by rank, from the Director to the Demonstrators;

(ii) pay and travelling allowance of any temporary establishment.

(m) How many officers, rank by rank, were employed in the work, and for how long, and what are the respective pays of these officers?

Sonamung	at Rs. 7	„
Kala-mung	at Rs. 10	„
Peas	at Rs. 6-8	„
Khesari	at Rs. 6-12	„
Lentils	at Rs. 6-10	„

Questions and Answers.

(r) No. The quality of seed was excellent and far superior to that of any other seed locally available.

(vi)—

			Mds.	Srs.	Ch.
Mustard 10,513	27	11
Linseed 400	7	7

(vii) A statement, district by district, is laid on the Library table.

(viii) The Hon'ble Member is referred to pages 247-51 of the supplement to the Calcutta Gazette, March 3, 1920.

(b) There was but a limited demand for mustard and linseed in all the affected districts except Faridpur, where mustard was in some demand. It is not a fact that the District Collectors of certain districts refused to take the seeds indented for by the Agricultural Department. An indent for some seed was received for southern Mymensingh; but the Collector subsequently decided that loan distribution was not necessary in that district.

(c) Agricultural officers reported serious damage; and consolidated indents were prepared with the approval of local officers and of Government.

(d) It was not an experiment. The same kind of work had been successfully accomplished in the year 1918 on a smaller scale in connection with the relief of distress caused by the floods in Rajshahi and Bogra. The seeds were generally given in the form of loans.

(e) The question does not arise; but the objects were to replace immediately the stocks of rabi seeds reported to have been damaged by the cyclone and to stabilize the price of seeds in the affected tracts. These objects were achieved.

Promotion list
Civil Service.

(a) Is it a fact that the promotion list of the members of the Provincial Civil Service has not been gazetted although there are about 30 vacancies in the cadre?

Questions and Answers.

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state when the last promotions were made, and how long the existing vacancies have remained unfilled?

(c) Are the Government aware that, consequent on the delay in publishing the list, many officers have retired without having knowledge as to whether they were promoted although their promotion was due long before the date of their retirement?

(d) What is the reason for not publishing the promotion list quarterly as used to be done before?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

“(a) No. There are now only two vacancies to be filled.

(b) The last promotions were made in November last and included all promotions due up to the 31st October last. The existing vacancies date from that month.

(c) Only one officer has retired since the 31st October last, causing one of the vacancies; no question of promotion arises in his case.

(d) The publication of promotions that have fallen due since the 31st October last was deferred owing to the uncertainty of the date of introduction of the expected time-scale of pay. That date has now been fixed as the 1st December, 1919, and the promotions that fell due during November last will shortly be made.”

(i) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any efforts were made to secure a suitable man in the place of the Khan Sahib, in the Alipur Central Jail Press or outside it, before reappointing him or giving extensions of service to him?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

(a) Khan Sahib Munshi Ismat Ali entered Government service in 1877. He retired on pension in December, 1908, from the position of substantive pro tempore deputy superintendent of the jail press.

(b) Yes. No officer of the jail was competent to fill the vacancy caused by his retirement. The recently appointed deputy superintendent, Mr. Gray, was new to India and unacquainted with the customs and languages of Indian prisoners. At the time the press had only recently been transferred to the Jail Department, and the Press and Forms Department was about to be reorganised.

(c) Yes.

(d) and (e) As Mr. Gray fell ill at this time, the services of the Khan Sahib were retained for a further period of four months to the 31st December, 1919, by the Inspector-General of Prisons.

(f) Owing to the sudden death of Mr. Gray, the press and forms manager, the Khan Sahib's service has been extended by the Inspector-General of Prisons up to the 31st December, 1921, subject to continued fitness.

(g) Yes.

(h) Owing to his long experience in the jail press, the Khan Sahib has special qualifications for this work.

(i) No suitable man was available in the jail press. No effort was made to get an outside man.

The local Government have instructed the Inspector-General that arrangements must be made forthwith to terminate these repeated extensions by the selection of a suitable candidate."

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"A copy of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the proposed Bill is laid on the table."

Questions and Answers.Statement of Objects and Reasons to the Bengal Agricultural and Sanitary Improvement Bill referred to in the answer to question No. 37 (unstarred) of the meeting of 5th March, 1920.

In the Bengal Presidency, especially the Burdwan and Presidency divisions, there is a considerable demand for the execution of drainage projects for sanitary as well as agricultural purposes, both large and small. The legal mechanism for such projects is contained in various Acts, viz:—the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885), the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883 (XIX of 1883), the Bengal Embankment Act, 1882 (Ben Act II of 1882), the Bengal Drainage Act, 1880 (Ben. Act VI of 1880), and the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, 1895 (Ben. Act VIII of 1895). These Acts are, however, neither sufficiently suitable or effective in every case, nor simple enough in the case of small schemes. The relevant sections of the Bengal Tenancy Act, even though coupled with the Land Improvement Loans Act, are practically inoperative; the application of the Bengal Embankment Act is necessarily limited. The procedure prescribed in the Bengal Drainage and the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Acts is more applicable to large schemes, whilst the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act, as its name implies, cannot be utilised for purely agricultural projects. Moreover, even for large schemes, the procedure of these two Acts is unnecessarily rigid, cumbrous and dilatory. The Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act is the less elaborate of the two, but there are many matters in the Bengal Drainage Act which should be inserted in statutory rules rather than in the law. Neither Act contains provision for the execution of works initiated by private individuals or bodies of agriculturists registered under the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912 (II of 1912). Finally, the provisions of both Acts for the apportionment and recovery of costs are unnecessarily rigid. It is, therefore, desired to consolidate and amend the Bengal Drainage Act and the Bengal Sanitary Drainage Act with a view to the promotion of agricultural and sanitary works of improvement generally.

● From the above it will appear that the main fault of the present law on the subject is its lack of elasticity. The present Bill has, therefore, been drafted so as to contain only the essentials of the procedure; details have been relegated to statutory rules which can be altered in accordance with changes in conditions or experience. The Bill is designed to cover both large and small schemes which are initiated or can be executed by any person or body of persons, such as a Co-operative Society, or local authority.

For small schemes a simple procedure has been evolved, whilst a more elaborate procedure has been prescribed for large schemes, involving a reference to a committee appointed ad hoc, the Sanitary Board and Government. The Bill provides for the payment by the applicant or for an advance from public funds of the cost of the proposed improvement; and for the recovery of costs, or of a portion thereof, from the landlords and tenants of the area benefited by the improvement. In the latter case the rigid and sometimes inequitable provisions of the Bengal Drainage and Bengal Sanitary Drainage Acts have been avoided. On the analogy of section 114 of the Bengal Tenancy Act it is proposed that each apportionment order should follow the merits of each particular case, and that the costs should be recovered from the individual landlords and tenants of the area benefited.

What action has been taken by Government in regard to the recent scarcity of coke and the abnormal rise in its price in Calcutta and other places?

Scarcity of coke.

*Questions and Answers.Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Marr:—

" In May, 1918, the Corporation of Calcutta established depôts in the four municipal markets in Calcutta for the sale of coke and coal for domestic consumption at fixed prices. These depôts are still being maintained under the control of the Corporation. The selling prices at these depôts, fixed in consultation with the Coal Controller, are annas 9-6 per maund, and annas 10 per maund for quantities below 20 seers. The demand upon these depôts has largely increased of late owing to the prices which are being charged in outside shops. Arrangements have, however, been made to meet all demands on these depôts for domestic consumption. The Coal Transportation Officer has already acted upon the recommendations of the Calcutta Corporation as regards priority treatment for coal supplies to depôts under their control. A scheme for giving priority treatment to depôt holders at places like Howrah, Sealdah, Ultadanga, etc., is in course of being brought into operation. The demand for wagons, however, prevents similar treatment being granted at present to depôt holders in the mufassal. But all supplies, preferential or otherwise, depend upon the number of wagons available from day to day. The Railway Board have under consideration the question of giving the Coal Transportation Officer larger powers to ensure that wagons shall be available in the coal-fields to comply as far as possible with demands for coal. The above measures have, it is believed, to some extent checked profiteering and further increase in the prices charged elsewhere."

Strength and expenses of the Special Intelligence Department of the Criminal Intelligence Department.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson:—

" The cessation of violent crime of a political character which resulted from the use of Bengal Regulation III of 1818 and the Defence of India Act against active members of the revolutionary movement enabled the Governor in Council towards the end of 1919 to decide upon a reduction in the strength of the Intelligence Branch of the Criminal Investigation Department of the officers and men noted below:—

With reference to the answer to my unstarred question No. 42 at the last meeting of the Council, will the Government be pleased to state:—

The rice-question.

- (a) whether the estimate of outturn of rice as given therein is not based on the usual statistical returns and forecasts which were alleged by Government to be unsatisfactory and unreliable in connection with certain questions of mine in this Council last year; and what special steps, if any, have been taken by Government to ascertain their accuracy this year;
- (b) whether the attention of Government has been drawn to a recent press telegram from Rangoon in which it has been pointed out that the outturn of rice in Burma this year is estimated to fall far below that of last year;
- (c) the names of districts where speculation is stated to exist, together with the purport of the reports received up to date from the District Officers concerned, regarding such speculation;
- (d) where and to what extent from each locality, "stocks have been acquired in any quantities by large traders" and in what places are such stocks held at present;
- (e) whether they are in a position to give a list of these large traders, together with the approximate extent of their present stocks of rice;
- (f) what steps, if any, were taken by the local or other officers to discourage these large traders or their purchasing agents from making these large purchases, or to point out the erroneous character of their impression that they would be enabled freely to export to other provinces and abroad under which the said purchases are stated by Government to have been made;
- (g) whether forward sale of standing crops was reported from any district and to what extent mahajani loans were granted on the security of rice crops this year in each district as compared with the past few years; and
- (h) whether they are considering the desirability of publishing regularly the reports of the different district economic intelligence officers on the food situation of the respective districts.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) The estimate under reference is based on the usual forecasts, which on this last occasion were prepared with more than usual care. For the purposes of the Hon'ble Member's question on the 3rd February, 1920, Government consider these statistics adequate.

Questions and Answers.

(b) Government are aware that according to the final forecast the out-turn of rice in Burma is estimated to be 11 per cent. less than the last year. For the whole of India the estimate of this year is, however, 45 per cent. in excess of the last year.

(c), (d), (e) and (g) Government have already announced the general trend of their information; they do not propose to publish details. According to the information possessed by Government the acquisition of stocks by large traders is not abnormal.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

PRESS COMMUNIQUE.

Dated the 24th December 1919.

As announced in a Press communiqué of the 31st October last the Government of India have had under consideration the question of retaining control over exports of rice in 1920. The prospects of the rice crop throughout India are generally good but prices are still high. Further, though the price of rice in India runs high, world prices owing to the failure of the crop in other rice-producing countries are very much higher. In these circumstances, if exports from India were not restricted, the demand of foreign countries for rice would probably draw out stocks which are required for replenishing reserves and would force up prices to such a level as to cause hardship to the Indian consumer. The Government of India have, therefore, decided that it is necessary to continue control over exports of rice from India during the ensuing year. As regards exports from India proper, the existing form of control will be continued. The quantities allowed for export will be restricted to the minimum requirements of foreign countries which are dependent on India for supplies. These will be rationed according to quarterly allotments which will be communicated to the Collectors of Customs at the Ports of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Karachi and will be distributed by them amongst established shippers on the basis of previous shipments to the country concerned. Conditions in Burma have entailed the enforcement of a more stringent scheme of control over exports from that province. In order to keep down internal prices, exports to foreign countries will be restricted to the surplus estimated to be available for export after providing for the needs of India. All sales and purchases for export from Burma will be made through the Rice Commissioner who will not purchase rice throughout 1920 at a higher rate than the equivalent of rupees one hundred and eighty per hundred baskets of paddy. It is considered that this figure, which has been fixed after consultation with the local Government and the trade, is the highest limit to which prices in Burma can be allowed to rise without detriment to the consumer, but that it is at the same time a price which will afford an ample return to the cultivator. The result of fixing this maximum price would, in the absence of special measures, be to concentrate large profits in the hands of exporting merchants, and it is clearly desirable that these profits should be shared by the community at large. The Rice Commissioner will, therefore, sell rice to foreign countries either by tender or at such prices as he considers fair with reference to prevailing rates, and the difference between the purchase and sale price will be realised for Government. It is impossible to estimate the probable extent of the profits, but it is recognized they will be made partly at the expense of producers in Burma who would, if control were removed, derive large profits from the present condition of world markets and world prices. For this reason the Government of India have decided that the net profits of the scheme should be made over to the Burma Government, subject to a limit of one crore, on condition that the money will be expended for the benefit of the cultivator. The scheme of control which has been designed to attain the desired objects and which will come into effect from the first January, 1920, is as follows:—(1) No exports will be permitted except under license from the Rice Commissioner. (2) All importing countries will be rationed and given fixed quarterly allotments. (3) The Rice Commissioner will periodically invite tenders from foreign purchasers for the amounts allotted, fixing a minimum price which may be varied on each occasion at his discretion, but in the case both of purchases and sales he will have a margin of discretion whether in making allotments to millers and shippers or in accepting offers from foreign exporters. (4) The maximum price to be paid by the Rice Commissioner throughout the year will not exceed the equivalent for big mills specials of rupees one hundred and eighty per hundred baskets of paddy. The prices of other qualities of rice will be settled on a fixed ratio in proportion to the price of big mills specials and no tenders at any higher prices will be accepted. (5) The quantity of rice which will be allotted for export to India will be fixed monthly and will be supplied by the Rice Commissioner at cost price, and in order to prevent undue profits being made by Indian importers the present system of control at Indian ports will for the present be continued. (6) The headquarters of the Rice Commissioner will be at Rangoon, but arrangements have been made for purchasers and sales also at Moulmein, Akyab and Bassein through his representatives.

Calcutta the 11th February 1920.

It is intimated for public information that the following control over the movements of rice from Bengal is in force:—

- (1) All exports of rice from Bengal by rail to other provinces are restricted to controlled amounts in the interests of the consumer in Bengal.
- (2) All exports of rice from Bengal to other countries outside India are prohibited except by permission to such countries as are absolutely dependent upon India for their requirements, and then only in minimum quantities and provided that the requirements of those countries cannot be met from Burma.

(a) With reference to the tabular statement (B) appended to the answer to the unstarred question No. 42 of the last meeting of the Council, ~~and the~~ Government in a position to explain the all-round increase of about Rs. 1-10 per maund in the price of rice over that of last year, in view particularly of a favourable rice crop?

(b) What steps are Government taking to investigate the causes of the increase?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

(a) The main reason underlying the rise in the price of rice, despite the favourable rice crop of the present year, is that the purchasing value of money has changed throughout the world owing to special causes generated by the war. Not only has the price of rice risen in Bengal, but the prices of almost all articles have risen all over the world. A statement is laid on the table showing the percentages by which the average price of foodstuffs has risen in different countries since the commencement of the war. In this connection the Hon'ble Member is referred to a recent speech made by the Right Honourable Mr. Lloyd George in the House of Commons and reported in a Reuter's telegram of the 10th February, in which the Prime Minister stated that the real explanation of dear living was the devaluation of money and that this devaluation existed throughout the world.

(b) In the circumstances no separate investigation is deemed necessary; but all the economic facts and any new tendencies are always under examination, so that any local causes, if any, may be analysed and if possible and necessary met by administrative action."

*Questions and Answers.By the Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray:—*42.

Will the Government be pleased to refer to the statements of wholesale and retail prices published in the Gazette of India and say whether they are in a position to explain the reason why the index prices of rice lately show a greater increase over those of corresponding periods of last year in the case of Bengal, than in most other provinces, in spite of a favourable outturn in Bengal this year?

Increase in the index prices of rice.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"The Hon'ble Member is referred to summary table No. 3 in the supplement to the Gazette of India dated the 14th February, 1920. From this it will be apparent that the price of rice at the corresponding period last year in other parts of India with the exception of Bihar and Orissa, Burma and a few stations in the United Provinces was higher than in Bengal. There was, therefore, room for a greater increase in Bengal than in most other provinces."

By the Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray:—43.

(a) Will the Government be pleased to make a detailed statement about the steps they propose to take for controlling movements of rice to other provinces and abroad, giving particularly the maximum quantities up to which export will be allowed (i) to each of the Indian provinces and (ii) abroad, as at present arranged, and the extent to which the stocks of the different surplus districts will be allowed to be drawn upon for the purpose?

Control of export of rice from Bengal.

(b) What other steps, if any, are the Government taking for discouraging cornering and holding up of stocks of rice for speculative purposes?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. McAlpin:—

"(a) (i) Movements of Bengal rice by rail and sea to other provinces continue to be regulated by the Director of Civil Supplies in accordance with allotments made in favour of such provinces by the Deputy Foodstuffs Commissioner to the Government of India. The total quantity of Bengal rice allotted for such export is fixed monthly by the Government of India in consultation with the Government of Bengal. In the interests of the consumer in Bengal only such allotments have been allowed as will not have any appreciable effect on the market. The allotment for January was 850 tons, that for February 4,500 tons, and that for March is 10,350 tons against an import in the same month into Chittagong of 5,000 tons of Burma rice which is partially for the Assam trade.

Government have no intention of determining the amount up to which different districts will be drawn upon. Normal trade movements between districts render this undesirable

(ii) Movements of Bengal rice abroad are controlled by the Government of India; and the Hon'ble Member is referred to the communiqué issued by the Government of India on the 24th December, 1919, of which a copy has been laid on the table. Such exports are prohibited except by permission to such countries as are absolutely dependent upon India for their requirements, and then only in minimum quantities and provided that the requirements of those countries cannot be met from Burma. Allotments of exports from India are made quarterly. The allotment for exports of rice from Bengal ports for the current quarter is nil.

Questions and Answers. The Eastern Frontier Rifles (Bengal Battalion) Bill, 1920.

(b) From the above it will appear that the action which Government are taking is directed to the stabilisation of prices throughout the province by the conservation of stocks within it and by giving publicity to this policy—vide the answer to the Hon'ble Member's question No. 43 (f). It naturally follows that individuals within the province should also conserve their surplus stocks, but there is very little evidence of actual cornering or of the holding up of stocks deliberately for speculative purposes."

"When the Eastern Bengal Volunteer Rifles (Bengal Battalion) Bill was introduced into Council the Hon'ble Member in charge explained the genesis of the Bill. After the last partition in 1912 the Military Police in both Bengal and Assam were governed by the provisions of the Eastern Bengal and Assam Military Police Act of 1912. The Assam Government propose to revise this Act in order to emphasise the military position and duties of the Assam Military Police of which the Force were proud, and it was decided that the opportunity should be taken to get rid of the anomaly of the military police in Bengal being governed by the Assam Act. Enquiries showed that the force in Bengal were equally proud of its military record and it was decided to fall into line with Assam in giving a military title to the force. The present Bill effects this and reproduces the provisions which have governed the force practically since it came into existence, the only alterations made being those necessitated by the new military title of the force. The Bill has been published and criticism invited, and it is a tribute to the suitability of the organisation as a whole, that practically no criticism has been forthcoming. The Select Committee which considered the Bill were unanimously of opinion that no change was necessary in any of its provisions. I, therefore, now move that the Report of the Select Committee on the Eastern Frontier Rifles (Bengal Battalion) Bill, 1920, be taken into consideration."

THE BENGAL ALLUVIAL LANDS BILL, 1920.LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 5.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming introduced a Bill to prevent disputes concerning the possession of certain lands in Bengal gained by alluvion, or by dereliction of a river or the sea.

He said :—

"Sir, I beg leave to introduce the Bengal Alluvial Lands Bill, 1920. This Bill is intended to prevent riots in connection with lands gained by alluvion or by the dereliction of a river or the sea in the deltaic tracts in Bengal. This is a problem which has long been under the consideration of Government. In fact, so far back as the commencement of the 19th century, in view of the serious nature of the problem the solution was put forward that all such lands should be placed under the direct control of the Collector. That solution, some Hon'ble Members will be relieved to hear, Government have not adopted. Of the more recent negotiations, the history will be found in the Statement of Objects and Reasons attached to the Bill, which I shall briefly recapitulate. In 1905, a Bill dealing with the problem was prepared and circulated for criticism. Its general policy met with the approval of 9 associations out of 13 who were consulted. But Government did not proceed with it, because the amendment of the Criminal Procedure Code was then under consideration. In 1910, it was, however, decided that the problem was peculiar to Bengal; and, therefore, no provision could be made in an all-India Act for its solution. The question of legislation was then left pending the completion of the riverain surveys of the province. These have now, so far as the principal areas are concerned, namely, the alluvial lands in the

The Bengal Alluvial Lands Bill, 1920.Mr. Cumming.

Dacca and Chittagong Divisions and some other areas along the Ganges, been completed. There is now no reason for further delay and Government have therefore decided to take action. A Bill has accordingly been drafted in which an attempt has been made to correct the defects of the Bill of the year 1905.

Now what is the problem which we desire to solve? Put briefly, it is that of the prevention of riots on alluvial land for the purpose of obtaining possession of that land by force. I need hardly take up the time of the Council with an elaboration of the intensity and frequency of these riots. In the words of the Evidence Act I think this may be taken to be a fact of which the Council might take judicial notice. But, if any member of this Council desires detailed information, I would refer him to the final Settlement Reports of the districts of Dacca and Faridpur, paragraph 343 of the former Report and paragraphs 115—120 of the latter. These will give him an idea of the lawlessness which prevails on account of the impossibility of exact knowledge of title when a char appears in the Ganges,—of the ease with which valuable crops can be grown on these chars,—and of the advantage which is gained by the strong man who can enforce initial possession. One settlement officer says that the crime of rioting is a blot on the administration of the district; and the other says that the law has failed in every respect.

But it may be asked why there should be any necessity for a separate law, as there is already provision in section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code for the settlement of such disputes on the basis of possession. But that is precisely where the trouble comes in. In the ordinary land dispute some one is in possession, and it is the duty of the criminal courts to maintain that person in possession. In disputes regarding newly formed chars no one is in possession; the land is a pure gift of Nature and the advantage lies with the person who by physical force is able to enforce initial possession. In fact the law as stated in section 145 is practically the exact opposite of what it ought to be for the present purpose; for far from stopping riots in connection with chars it simply promotes them. Any law, therefore, which we frame must ignore possession. It must only take account of title. That is the first essential.

The second essential is that some one must have power to intervene before a dispute actually comes to a head in order to prevent a riot taking place. We may legislate for effecting a decision in a dispute on the question of title instead of on that of possession; but the prospect of growing valuable crops on these chars or of obtaining rent from them would still form an attraction whether the would-be land owners consider they have a right to Nature's gift of alluvial land or not. We have accordingly proposed to give to the Collector the power to step in and intervene before a riot actually takes place by attaching the land when he is credibly informed that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists or is likely to arise in regard to any alluvial land. This is the second essential.

If these two essentials be conceded, it is obvious that there must be some connecting link between the two. This link it is proposed to create by the direction in the Bill that the Collector should refer the dispute to the Civil Court who will decide it as if it were an ordinary title suit. Regarding details I may add that it is proposed to protect the person who may be ultimately held by the Civil Court to be the legitimate landlord of any alluvial land, from losses of any bonus on the settlement of land, by making provision under the rules under clause 2 of section 7 for the levy by the Collector of such bonus from any tenants on behalf of such person.

The echoes of this rural rioting which Government desire to prevent may not be heard in urban Calcutta; but it is a very real evil. A century's experience has shown that neither the Civil Courts nor the Criminal Courts nor a detailed survey of a constantly changing tract can stop this lawlessness; and it is incumbent upon Government to devise some other method.

With these remarks, Sir, I beg leave to introduce the Bengal Alluvial Lands Bill."

The motion was put and agreed to.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 6.

The Hon'ble Mr. Marr presented the amended draft Financial Statement for Bengal for 1920-21.¹

He said :—

"Sir, I have the honour to present to the Council the Amended Draft Financial Statement for the year 1920-21. My remarks may be brief, as Hon'ble Members have already received copies of the papers and the general financial situation of the Presidency in the current and coming year has been explained at some length in them.

We started the current year with a balance which was Rs. 1,48,000 better than we expected. The outstanding feature of the year, however, is that the receipts have far exceeded our expectations. We expect to get from Stamps Rs 22½ lakhs, Income-tax Rs 66½ lakhs, Registration Rs 8 lakhs, Jails Rs 7½ and from Scientific and Miscellaneous, on account of sale of quinine to the military authorities, about Rs 7½ lakhs, over the budget figures. On the expenditure side also, the sanctioned estimates, so far as can be foreseen at present, are likely to be exceeded by over Rs 14 lakhs for reasons fully explained in the memorandum.

As for the coming year, our revenue estimates have been framed in the hope that the industrial and commercial activity of the current year will continue.

During the period of the war the most rigid economy had to be exercised. The obvious consequence, however, has been that all branches of the administration have suffered as the result of the financial stringency, which prevented the continuance of the progressive policy initiated in 1914-15, and there is therefore, much leeway to make up. The result of this economy for the last four years has been a large increase in our balances, the bulk of which, however, represents unspent balances of earmarked Imperial grants. This places us at any rate in the possession of some ready money for expenditure on schemes involving non-recurring expenditure with which again to initiate a progressive policy now that hostilities have ceased.

A sum of Rs. 22,63,000 has been allowed to give effect to the recommendations of the Public Services Commission, and provision has also been made in the next year's budget to meet the urgent demands of all the departments, with the result that the expenditure estimates exceed the revenue estimates of the year by Rs. 63,65,000.

It is still impossible to give any forecast of what the financial future of the province will be under the Reforms Scheme. The financial relations between the Government of India and the different Provincial Governments are still under consideration and, when the Committee on Financial Relations, provided over by Lord Meston, visited Calcutta last month, we pressed Bengal's claims as strongly as we could. In this we were very ably assisted by the non-official members of the Finance Committee. Nothing more can now be done until the Committee on Financial Relations has come to its conclusions.

Hon'ble Members will of course remember that the figures as now furnished are only provisional and that they will not be final until the budget is finally presented.

He said :—

"Sir, I have the honour to introduce the main heads under 'Land Revenue' and its connected subjects. As the Financial Statement has been prepared in much detail, I shall not intrude on much of the time of the Council.

The estimate for receipts under the head 'Land Revenue' was prepared last year on the assumption that the year 1919 would be a good agricultural year. This expectation has on the whole been fulfilled, and a small increase of revenue is anticipated, although there has been distress in Bankura and Brahmanbaria and in certain Eastern Bengal districts on account of the cycles of September last. For next year, the estimate of such receipts has also been formed on the assumption that agricultural conditions will continue to be good. On the expenditure side, the budget estimate is about 12½ lakhs in excess of the revised estimate for the current year.

This is due to—

- (1) a provision of Rs. 2½ lakhs in pursuance of the policy of appointing circle officers ;
- (2) the payment of a debt to the Government of India of nearly Rs. 3 lakhs for expenditure incurred by them in the land revenue settlements conducted during the settlement operations in the district of Bakarganj ;
- (3) the provision of over Rs. 10 lakhs to give effect to the recommendations of the Public Services Commission for the improvement of the pay and prospects of the Indian and Provincial Civil Services ; and
- (4) the provision of Rs. 2½ lakhs for the development of Kalimpong as a hill station.

In the case of the Forest Department, we may congratulate ourselves on an expected increase of revenue during the current year of over Rs. 2½ lakhs more than was anticipated, whilst the estimate for expenditure will probably be only exceeded by a little over a lakh and a half. This is due to the fact that departmental operations are being conducted on a more extensive scale than has hitherto been the case and to an increased demand for raw materials. Next year, we anticipate still larger revenues, in all Rs. 20 lakhs, for the same reasons. The estimate for expenditure for next year is, however, over Rs. 4 lakhs in excess of the revised estimate for the present year. This is due to the necessity for making provision for communications, buildings, improvements, etc., expenditure on which had been rigorously curtailed during the war. Much of this will repay itself. Half a lakh has also been provided for the reorganization of the Subordinate Forest Service. The net surplus has been expanded to the extent of three and a half lakhs in three years.

Under the head 'Scientific and Miscellaneous Departments,' the large increase in the revised estimate of nearly Rs. 6 lakhs is chiefly due to the large quantity of quinine supplied for the frontier campaign. In the estimate for 1920-21 a normal provision has been made for the Cinchona Plantations.

A sum of Rs. 10,000 has been provided in the budget for Fisheries as the first instalment of the money required for the establishment of a carp-cultural station near Calcutta with a view to the proper investigation of the various problems connected with the breeding, development and growth of carp.

The general agricultural budget includes the Co-operative Department, the Veterinary Department, as well as the Agricultural Department proper. These departments are not large revenue-paying departments, but the revenue head is remarkable for an increase of sales of silk cocoons from the sericultural nurseries since the year 1917-18 by over half a lakh of rupees ; and a further advance of half a lakh is anticipated next year. On the expenditure side, provision has been made for the proper expansion of the agricultural department by the provision of Rs. 2½ lakhs more than the original budget for the current year. Provision has been made for the establishment of four more farms in accordance with the policy adopted by Government of gradually establishing a farm in every district, for the appointment of another botanical expert and for giving effect to the revision of the pay of Imperial officers in accordance with the recommendations of the Public Services Commission. There is also provision for the Dacca vernacular agricultural school which was started on the 15th January last and for the Ohinsura school which it is hoped will be completed in June. There is at present no provincial provision for the Agricultural Institute at Dacca; for the initial expenditure of Rs. 75,000 for the acquisition of land was met from an Imperial grant. We shall try to obtain another grant, but, failing that, we shall rely on savings in order to commence its construction next year. The increased expenditure of about a lakh of rupees for Co-operative Societies is due to the development of that Department and to the necessity of the creation of an adequate staff to keep pace with that development in accordance with the statutory obligations of the State.

Revenue—

XVIII.—Ports and Pilotage.

Expenditure—

21.—Ports and Pilotage.

I also beg to introduce the subject 'Ports and Pilotage' under the Marine Department. Owing to shipping difficulties during the war 'pilotage receipts' fell. It is now hoped that the tonnage of the Port of Calcutta will gradually increase and that a rapid recovery in the receipts will be effected.

As regards the Port of Chittagong the position has been altered since last year. It has been settled in consultation with the Government of India that the Imperial Government will take over the administration of the Port of Chittagong as the terminal of the Assam-Bengal Railway; but it has been recently intimated that it will not be possible to undertake at present the necessary legislation in the Imperial Council. In the meantime, therefore, the existing arrangement will continue."

Expenditure—

45. Civil works in charge of Civil officers.

He said :—

" Expenditure—

19A.—Courts of Law.

Sir, I rise to introduce the figures relating to Courts of Law. The total budget estimate for 1919-20 was Rs. 1,04,35,000, but the revised estimate was raised to Rs. 1,06,33,000. This increase is due mainly to the additional temporary courts which it has been found necessary to open, to cope with the steady increase in judicial work, and partly to the payment of war allowances to menials and to larger expenditure under 'Supplies and Services' and 'Contingencies.'

The Amended Draft Financial Statement.The Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.

The total expenditure for 1920-21 has been estimated at Rs. 1,14,37,000 which, besides providing for a further increase in the volume of judicial work, includes provision of Rs. 2,50,000 for the improvement of the pay of the officers of the Provincial Judicial Service, against a lump provision of Rs. 1,25,000 for the same purpose in the current year's budget, and a provision of Rs. 52,788 for an additional Judge of the High Court and his establishment for the whole year, as well as Rs. 10,668 for the re-organization of the record-room of the Appellate Side of that Court.

Provision has also been made in the budget for 1920-21 for the additional Judge of the Small Cause Court and his establishment throughout the year. Proposal for the permanent retention of this additional Judge has been recommended to the Government of India, because the existing staff of Judges is unable to cope with the volume of work which comes before the Court and also because it is proposed to relieve the Registrar of his judicial functions. Provision has also been made for the Additional Legal Remembrancer and his establishment, the term of whose appointment has been provisionally extended. There has been, however, a considerable reduction under the head "Charges under the Defence of India Act" from Rs. 50,000 in 1919-20 to Rs. 5,000 in 1920-21.

It has not been found possible to make provision in the Provincial Civil Works Budget for any new judicial major works for the year 1920-21, though a sum of Rs. 50,000 has been provided in the budget for judicial minor works as was done in this year's budget.

24B.—Sanitation.

Sir, I now have the honour to introduce for the consideration of Council the figures relating to Sanitation. The expenditure for the current year was originally estimated at Rs. 18,66,000 and has now been reduced to Rs. 15,00,000 owing largely to the transfer, to the Irrigation Department, of funds for expenditure on anti-malarial works. The Department acts as the agent of the Sanitary Department in regard to those schemes and there is no diversion of funds from sanitation. The chief items of expenditure sanctioned during the current year from the grants for sanitary improvement are shown in page 41.

As regards the expenditure for the coming year the statement given in Appendix C on page 104 of the amended draft Financial Statement shows that we are budgetting for the large sum of Rs. 19,30,000 to be spent on anti-malarial works, to schemes of sanitary engineering and certain recurring charges and that we propose to supplement the 9½ lakhs grant by drawing on the accumulated balances of Imperial grants to the extent of nearly 10 lakhs in order to provide for developments of public health work.

Under the head of 'Recurring Sanitary Charges' I may draw attention to the large provision for quinine grants. During the current year the sum of Rs. 50,000 was allotted for this purpose and the amount is to be doubled in the coming year. Another item of particular interest is that of Rs. 45,000 for contributions by Government towards the pay of district health officers. It is hoped that this allotment will enable Government to provide half the pay of the Health Officers who are to be appointed by District Boards next year. The entry of Rs. 10,000 for a Subordinate Sanitary Service calls for a brief explanation. Hitherto subordinate medical officers, such as Sub-Assistant Surgeons, who are required for the Sanitary Department, have been lent by the Medical Department under the Surgeon-General; but there has been increasing difficulty in obtaining their services, and consequently it has been thought advisable to provide for their separate recruitment and on that account a separate allotment has been made.

A lakh has been provided for continuing the campaign against hook worm disease which was initiated last year under His Excellency's auspices.

The Amended Draft Financial Statement.Mr. Cowley.

Provision has been made for the establishment at Dacca of a laboratory for the analysis of food and water which it is hoped will relieve the pressure on the Sanitary Commissioner's laboratory in Calcutta. Rupees 30,000 have been allotted for child-welfare work which is now the subject of enquiry by a special committee appointed by Government. Their report has not yet been received, but it is considered advisable to provide money to enable a forward movement to be made, e.g., by having dais trained by medical men in the mufassal. A large sum, viz., Rs. 50,000, has also been set aside for a publicity bureau, the object of which is to develop and extend public health propaganda.

Revenue—

XXX.—Civil Works in charge of Civil Officers.

Expenditure—

45.—Civil Works in charge of Civil Officers.

I shall now introduce the figures relating to Civil Works in charge of Civil Officers.

The budget estimate of receipts for the current year was Rs. 1,69,300, but in the revised estimate this has been reduced to Rs. 1,45,000. The decrease has been made mainly with reference to the actuals of the first nine months of the current year under the head "Tolls". The budget estimate for 1920-21 is Rs. 4,45,000.

As regards expenditure, the decrease of Rs. 3,95,000 in the revised estimate is mainly attributable to the transfer to the head "21.—Ports and Pilotage" of a sum of Rs. 3,25,000 for payment of a grant to the Port Commissioners for the improvement of the Port of Chittagong.

The estimate for 1920-21 is Rs. 12,50,000 of which details for Rs. 11,17,000 are given on page 53 of the Financial Statement."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 9.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cowley introduced the following heads:—

Revenue—

42. Irrigation—Major Works—Working Expenses.

Revenue—

XXX.—Minor Works and Navigation.

Expenditure—

43. Minor Works and Navigation.

Revenue—

XXXI.—Civil Works in charge of the Public Works Department.

45. Civil Works in charge of the Public Works Department.

The Amended Draft Financial Statement.Mr. Cowley.

He said :—

Sir, I have the honour to introduce for the consideration of Council the Public Works heads of the budget entitled—

Irrigation—Major Works—

XXIX—Receipts.

42—Expenditure ; also

Minor Works and Navigation—

XXX—Receipts.

43—Expenditure.

The major works included within this Presidency comprise the Midnapore and Hijli Tidal Canals. The chief sources of revenue are the water rate collections on account of the areas irrigated from the Midnapore Irrigation Canal system and tolls received from navigation on the Midnapore and Hijli Tidal Canals. The revenue derived from Irrigation remains more or less a constant figure, whereas the receipts from navigation vary. The small total increase in the revised estimates for the current year is due to the increased receipts under navigation, owing to the shortage of railway wagons and the diversion of railway goods traffic to boat traffic on the Hijli Tidal Canal. The budget estimate for 1920-21 follows the revised estimate for the current year, on the assumption that this boat traffic will continue during that year.

In regard to expenditure under the major head 42, I have nothing to add to the statement made on page 51 of the amended draft Financial Statement.

In regard to minor works and navigation, the chief sources of revenue are the tolls received from navigation on the Calcutta Canals, the Sunderbans steamer route and the Madaripur Bil Canal which together form the navigable route for boats and inland steamers between Calcutta and Eastern Bengal. During the past 3 years the net revenue received from the Madaripur Bil Canal has been in excess of 6 per cent. on the Capital expenditure. During 1918-19, 5,880 steamers and flats made use of this route for the transportation of 424 lakhs of maunds of cargo. Owing to this large increase in traffic, work on the widening of the Canal has been commenced and will be continued during the coming year. A provision of Rs. 4,70,000 has been made in the current year's revised budget for expenditure on this work ; and for next year a sum of Rs. 7,00,000 has been provided. The total cost of widening is estimated at Rs. 17,00,000 ; and the work will be pushed on as rapidly as possible.

An estimate amounting to Rs. 10,25,354 inclusive of the usual percentage charges for establishment and tools and plant has been sanctioned for the reconstruction of the Kidderpore bridge. During the current year a sum of Rs. 70,000 has been provided in the revised budget for expenditure during the year, and, for expenditure during 1920-21, a sum of Rs. 6,50,000 has been included in the budget estimate.

A project for the partial canalisation of the Tolly's Nullah has been initiated and a sluice is now under construction at Samukpotha, at the junction of the Tolly's Nullah with the Bidyadhari river. A sum of Rs. 1,00,000 has been provided in the revised estimates for the current year for expenditure on this work and the work is now nearing completion. The amount provided for expenditure in the budget estimates for 1920-21 is Rs. 5,000. When introducing for the consideration of Council the Public Works heads of the budget for the year 1919-20, I pointed out that the efforts of Government in the Irrigation Department were largely expended in the conservation and improvement of waterways, and that inextricably bound up with this question was the question of drainage. I further stated that data were being collected to enable Government to deal effectually with the whole problem of river improvement; and as an example of a project of this character, I alluded to the work of the improvement of the Bidyadhari river. During the current year, work in connection with the improvement of the Bidyadhari river has been continued, and the revised estimates for the current year provide for an expenditure of Rs. 2,10,000 on this work. A further sum of Rs. 80,000 has been provided for expenditure during 1920-21.

Measures already begun for mitigating the effects of the Damodar floods by the improvement of the exit channels of the flood water into the Rupnarain river have been continued during the year and the probable expenditure during the current year will be Rs. 2,38,000. A further provision of Rs. 1,76,000 has been made in the budget estimate for 1920-21.

Investigations which were taken up in connection with the construction of reservoirs in the catchment of the Damodar river have been concluded during the current year, and we now have available the necessary data for the preparation of a project for the control of the floods of the river for the consideration of Government. During the current year a sum of Rs. 8,000 is likely to be expended on these investigations; and a provision of Rs. 2,000 has been made in the next year's budget estimate to permit of further investigations if found necessary.

During the year, work in connection with the Amirabad and Pichabani drainage projects in the Contai subdivision of the district of Midnapore has been started, and it is expected that a sum of Rs. 1,00,000 will be expended during the current year on these two projects; work will be continued during the year 1920-21, and it is hoped that it may be possible to complete these two projects during the year. For these works a sum of Rs. 1,90,000 has been provided for expenditure during the year 1920-21.

A provision of Rs. 1,00,000 has also been made for the improvement of the drainage conditions of the Bullee Bil in the 24-Parganas.

In regard to measures of anti-malarial drainage, the following works have been either completed or are nearing completion :—

- (1) Banka scheme.
- (2) Improvement of the Saraswati river.
- (3) Baragachi project.
- (4) Monikhali project.

The expenditure involved on these works is not provided for in the Public Works Department budget, but is provided in the Civil Department budget under sanitation. The sum required for expenditure during the year is, however, transferred to the Public Works Department for expenditure. Under the Sanitary Drainage Act the following projects are now under construction :—

- (1) Arul Bil (Jessore).
- (2) Amta (Howrah).
- (3) Jaboona (Jessore, Nadia and 24-Parganas).
- (4) Nawi Sunthi (24-Parganas).

These works will be continued, and I hope that the Arul Bil scheme will be completed and considerable progress made on the others, in the course of next year. Surveys in connection with anti-malarial drainage projects are continuing, and new projects are being developed. Provision for the general maintenance of works in efficient condition and for small original works of an important nature have also been included in the revised estimates for the current year, and for expenditure on similar works during 1920-21.

45.—Civil Works in charge of the Public Works Department.

Sir, I have to introduce for the consideration of the Council the Budget for Civil Works in charge of the Public Works Department.

On the receipt side I have nothing to add to the remarks in the amended draft financial statement.

The grant for 'Works in progress' for the next year includes provision for relaying the surface of some of the roads on the Calcutta Maidan with tar macadam, continuing the improvements of the Duars Roads, and providing a water-supply and new roads in connection with the development of Kalimpong as a hill station. Provision is also made for protecting the river bank at Pabna against erosion of the river Ganges."

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 10.

The Hon'ble Mr. Hornell introduced the following heads :—

Revenue—

XIX.—Education.

Expenditure—

22. Education.

He said :—

"Mr. President, I rise to lay before the Council the heads of Revenue and Expenditure of the Education Budget for the coming financial year.

Revenue.

The receipts are growing—Rs. 9,47,392 in 1916-17 and Rs. 9,83,109 in 1918-19 and the estimate I now place before you is Rs. 11,00,000. The increase is mainly due to the larger income derived from fees paid in Government Colleges and Schools.

Expenditure.

The expenditure side has also grown—from Rs. 76,87,152 in 1916-17 to Rs. 1,21,42,000—the amount which it is proposed to spend during the coming financial year. The figures on page 35 of the Financial Statement illustrate the stages of this growth.

The sanctioned budget for the current financial year stands at Rs. 97,86,000. Looking to the actual expenditure during the first nine months of the financial year, as also to the fact that no capital expenditure will be incurred during the period from the grant provided for giving effect to the recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission, it is anticipated that the expenditure during the year will fall short of the sanctioned estimate by Rs. 2,78,000, and will be in fact Rs. 95,08,000.

The budget for the period in prospect has been fixed at Rs. 1,21,42,000, a figure which exceeds the budget estimate for the current financial year by more than 23½ lakhs and the anticipated expenditure of the current financial year by nearly 26½ lakhs. The new items included in the programme of educational expenditure for the coming financial year are explained in the Financial Statement on pages 35-38 and 82-88. I do not therefore repeat them.

Besides the expenditure proposed under the main head it is anticipated that Rs. 10,30,000 will be spent by the Public Works Department, in original building works for the Education Department and provision has been made accordingly. Details are to be found on page 58 of the Financial Statement.

The various recurring Imperial grants which have been sanctioned from time to time have been provided in full. These grants include, as I shall show later, the Imperial recurring assignment of Rs. 5,45,000 for the Dacca University.

The Finance Member has already shown that a sum of Rs. 1,22,23,000 still stands to the credit of the Bengal Education Department, by reason of the balances of the various Imperial grants, which balances are still outstanding. During the coming financial year it is proposed to spend about Rs. 23,90,000 from these balances.

I will now add a few words as to the various purposes on which this sum of Rs. 23,90,000 is to be spent.

The Dacca University.

It is proposed to devote from this amount a sum of Rs. 4,55,000 to buildings and other capital charges necessary for the realisation of this long pending scheme. This assignment is not the only amount which is made available for this purpose in the budget estimates which I am now laying before you. In the years 1912-13 and 1913-14 Imperial recurring grants to the extent of Rs. 5,45,000 were sanctioned for the Dacca University Scheme. This amount has been provided in the estimates. We are now busily engaged in making such preparations as must be completed before the University can actually begin work.

The provision of a hostel in connexion with the Apprentices' Technical School, Kanchrapara, Eastern Bengal State Railway.

This Council will remember that as a result of a resolution brought forward about this time year before last by the Hon'ble Sir R. N. Mukerjee and accepted by the Council, a sum of Rs. 45,000 was provided in the current year's budget for the establishment of a hostel in connexion with the Apprentices' Technical School Kanchrapara. I need not repeat the details of the scheme. It is necessary to devote Rs. 31,000 of the balances to the completion during the coming financial year of this hostel.

The establishment of a Technical Institute in Calcutta.

The question of the training of engineering apprentices has indeed been bulking large during the last year. In addition to the Kanchrapara scheme the conference recently convened by His Excellency is formulating a scheme for a technical institute in Calcutta. This institute will be confined, to start with, to the instruction of apprentices in practically every branch of engineering other than mining engineering, but its subsequent expansion into something more like a technological institute is contemplated. In order that a start, long over-due, may be made in the direction of meeting this need, it is proposed to devote 6 lakhs of the balances to the purchase of a site and to provide from the balances a further sum of 2 lakhs with which to make a good start with the buildings.

*The Amended Draft Financial Statement.Mr. Hornell.The Engineering College, Sibpur.

The development of the Engineering College at Sibpur has long been delayed by various suggestions that it should be moved from its present location. It has now been definitely decided that it will remain where it is, but the site and the general sanitary condition of the compound of the college need improvement and this improvement is a necessary preliminary to the further development of the college. A sum of 2 lakhs has been provided from the balances for this purpose.

Primary Education.

Turning to primary education, it is proposed to assign 3 lakhs of the balances to the inauguration of the new scheme which has recently been worked out as between the Education Department and the Corporation for the improvement of primary education in Calcutta. This scheme involves contributions from the Corporation as well as from funds at the disposal of Government.

When the Bengal Primary Education Act (Act IV of 1919) was passed the municipalities of the Presidency other than the Calcutta Corporation were called upon to submit the statements required by section 3 of that Act. Only a few of these statements have been received and Government are not aware of what the general resources of the municipalities are as compared with their needs. It has not therefore been possible as yet to formulate any general scheme of Government assistance, but it was thought that a sum of at least one lakh should be provided from the balances so that if any municipality in the mufassal found itself in a position to go ahead under the Bengal Primary Education Act Government would be able to help it to do so.

The establishment of a Muhammadan College in Calcutta.

It is proposed to devote Rs. 50,000 of the balances to making a start in the direction of the establishment of a Muhammadan College in Calcutta. This is a proposal of which this Council has heard more than once and it is one to which the Government of Bengal are committed. Some years ago a site was purchased in Wellesley Street, but no further progress was made with the scheme partly because of the appointment of the Calcutta University Commission. The Commission's Report is now before the public. It recommends the establishment of an Islamic College in Calcutta as a constituent college of the University; and its scheme of reorganisation would also probably involve either the development of the Anglo-Persian Department into an Intermediate College or the creation of an Intermediate College for Mussulmans in Calcutta. It is impossible for us to say when these proposals will be carried out, if ever. But Government are unwilling that their promise should remain any longer unredeemed. What therefore we propose to do is to begin with this sum of Rs. 50,000 the construction of a building on the Wellesley Street site which would accommodate a First Grade College, comprising, as first grade colleges do now comprise, both Intermediate and Post Intermediate classes. This building could be without difficulty converted in future, should the occasion for this conversion arise, either into an Intermediate or into a Constituent college. We have a plan of a building already.

Madrassahs.

It is proposed to provide from the balances a sum of Rs. 81,000 for improving the buildings of private Madrassahs. This expenditure is very necessary in the general interests of the Moslem community. I may add that the Madrassahs to receive assistance from this provision will be those which are trying to meet the demands of the reformed Madrassah Scheme.

*The Amended Draft Financial Statement.Mr. Hornell.The Victoria Boys' School, Kurseong.

The Victoria Boys' School, Kurseong, is an institution which is especially intended to meet the needs of the less wealthy members of the domiciled community who educate their children in India. The school is in serious and urgent need of improvement and expansion. The Council will recall a resolution which the Hon'ble Mr. Irwin brought before the Council last year with regard to this school. I trust that the Council will see eye to eye with Government in this their attempt to improve the educational facilities of this particular section of the community. Those members who have read the recent report on the domiciled community will not, I venture to hope, oppose this proposed expenditure as either unnecessary or of comparative unimportance.

The Chittagong Collegiate School.

The Chittagong Collegiate School, one of the most promising Zilla Schools of the Presidency, is at present housed in what was formerly an office. A scheme for providing the school with buildings of its own was worked out in 1914 and a fine site has been acquired. The scheme should not be indefinitely postponed and it has consequently been decided to provide Rs. 75,000 from the balances. With this money it will be possible to make a start with this much-belated and urgent scheme.

Manual instruction classes in Indian High Schools.

In 1915-16 a scheme was sanctioned for the opening of manual training classes at 24 selected High and Zilla Schools and one Middle English School. These classes have been successful in 21 of the schools, but all the existing classes are badly in need of adequate and suitable accommodation. It is proposed therefore to devote Rs. 74,000 of the balances to the provision of better accommodation for this promising and all-important branch of school-work. An amount of Rs. 34,100 has also been provided in the budget from Provincial Revenues for starting new manual instruction classes. I feel that I shall have the Council with me in this effort towards the general improvement of secondary school training. Manual work is now universally accepted as an essential element in a sound school curriculum and there are special reasons why Bengal should not at this juncture be without this advantage.

The Bethune College.

The Bethune College buildings are in a dreadful state of congestion. A scheme for constructing a separate building for the college was mooted as long ago as 1907. The congestion cannot be tolerated any longer. Various big schemes for dealing with the future development of the college and its connected school have been put forward during the last seven years, but all these schemes involve large expenditure, and until we know what, if anything, is coming out of the Calcutta University Commission's report it is not possible to come to an ultimate and final decision. It is proposed to provide Rs. 50,000 from the balances, and with this amount available it will be possible to relieve the existing congestion in the class-rooms by means of buildings of a temporary nature, and to carry out some expansion of the college's work.

Grant to the Calcutta University for the construction of hostels of affiliated colleges in Calcutta.

The Council will remember that in the year 1915-16 the Government of India sanctioned a grant of ten lakhs for the construction of hostels. To this was added a sum of Rs. 2,00,000, the balance of previous Imperial grants. On the strength of these receipts a programme of hostel construction was undertaken by the University and carried out. It is proposed to provide Rs. 94,000 from the balances to meet the last instalment of the balance due to the University.

The Amended Draft Financial Statement.Khan Bahadur Aminul Islam.

To summarise the purposes to which it is proposed to devote the sum of Rs. 23,90,000 which is to be taken from the Imperial balances. These purposes are :—

	Rs.
(1) Dacca University	4,55,000
(2) The provision of a hostel in connexion with the Apprentices' Technical School, Kanchrapara, Eastern Bengal Railway	31,000
(3) The establishment of a Technical Institute in Calcutta (for construction of buildings)	2,00,000
(For acquisition of site)	6,00,000
(4) The Engineering College, Sibpur	2,00,000
(5) Primary Education in Calcutta	3,00,000
Ditto outside Calcutta	1,00,000
(6) The establishment of a Muhammadan College in Calcutta	50,000
(7) Madrasahs	81,000
(8) The Victoria Boys' School, Kurseong	80,000
(9) The Chittagong Collegiate School	75,000
(10) Manual Instruction Classes in Indian High Schools	74,000
(11) Improvement of the Bethune College buildings	50,000
(12) Grant to the Calcutta University for the construction of hostels for affiliated colleges in Calcutta	94,000
Total	23,90,000

At the close of the financial year 1920-21 we shall, if we spend all the amount which I have just named, have to our credit an Imperial balance of Rs. 98,33,000 of which an amount of Rs. 57,36,000 will be earmarked for the Dacca University. Thus, the money provided for the Dacca University apart, we may anticipate that on the 31st March 1921 we shall still have a balance of Rs. 40,97,000 for general educational purposes. Let me explain in conclusion that, as regards this last-named balance at any rate, it will not be possible to spend it save on objects of a non-recurring nature—practically buildings and equipment. The pace at which we can carry out any large construction programme is set by the rate at which the Public Works Department can get the work done.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 11.

The Hon'ble Khan Bahadur Aminul Islam introduced the following heads :—

Revenue—

X.—Registration.

Expenditure—

12. Registration.

SIR,—I have the honour to introduce for the consideration of the Council the Budget heads of Receipts and Expenditure of the Registration Department.

The actual receipts in 1918-19 amounted to Rs. 19,17,737. The sanctioned estimate for the current year is Rs. 19,00,000. But during the first nine months there has been a gradual increase almost every month and receipts are already Rs. 4,84,420 over those of the corresponding period of the last year. It is anticipated that, on this basis, the total collection during the year will be Rs. 27,00,000. This large increase of Rs. 8,00,000 over the sanctioned estimate is due to the abnormal rise in the number of registrations owing to various causes. In the mofussil it was due to rise in the price of foodstuffs and to the last cyclone in East Bengal; but in Calcutta and its suburbs, it was mainly due to an abnormal increase in the price of house property and a consequent speculation in land. The budget estimate for next year has accordingly been placed at Rs. 27,00,000 on the basis of the revised estimate for the current year.

On the expenditure side the sanctioned estimate for the present year is Rs. 12,21,000 and the revised estimate with reference to the actual charges for the first nine months of the year has been fixed at Rs. 13,00,000. The increase of Rs. 79,000 is due mainly to larger expenditure on temporary copying establishment both in Calcutta and in the mofussil. The budget estimate for the next year, which has been framed as economically as possible, has been placed at Rs. 13,89,000. This is in advance of the revised estimate by Rs. 89,000 and of the sanctioned estimate by Rs. 1,68,000.

On pages 64 and 65 of the Financial Statement the items of expenditure are shown, the outstanding features of which, I am glad to note, are that it has been found possible to provide for two long-deferred projects, viz :—

	Rs.
1. Revision of the strength and pay of the ministerial establishment of district headquarters and rural registration offices	90,339

The main features of this scheme are (a) the increase of the pay and the strength of the district headquarters establishment and the enhancement of pay of the clerks and mohurrirs employed in the mofussil registration offices from Rs. 20 and Rs. 15 to Rs. 25 and Rs. 20, respectively. The scheme, which was sanctioned by the Secretary of State in 1916, will cost about Rs. 1,38,339, of which Rs. 48,000 was provided last year to give partial effect to the scheme and the balance of Rs. 90,339 has been provided for in next year's budget.

	Rs.
2. Revision of the cadre of Sub-Registrars	42,300

The revised cadre which has been based on Sir David Barbour's scale provides for a larger proportion of appointments in the higher grades and is expected to quicken the rate of promotion.

Rupees 2,160 has been provided for raising the pay of Probationers from Rs. 30 to Rs. 40.

Turning to heads, Revenue V and Expenditure 7—Excise, with a view to check consumption, the duty on country spirit for different strengths was enhanced in the districts of Hooghly, Howrah, the 24-Parganas, Calcutta and Jalpaiguri in January 1919, and in March last the retail prices of country spirit were increased throughout the Presidency. The opening hour also of premises for the retail vend of foreign liquor for consumption therein was fixed at 11 A.M. in July 1918. As a result of these restrictive measures there has been an appreciable fall in consumption this year. Owing to better shipping facilities, there has been a larger supply of imported liquor, which has caused a fall under the head, "Liquors and spirits made in India after European methods." For these reasons, it is expected that the receipts this year will fall short of the original estimate by Rs. 6 lakhs.

In January last the duty on country spirit for different strengths was again raised with effect from the 1st April 1920 in the districts of Burdwan, Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Dacca, Mymensingh and Darjeeling. The price per seer of ganja was also raised from Rs. 60 to Rs. 75, and the rate of duty on bhang was uniformly fixed at Re. 1 per seer for all districts. These measures will perhaps further check consumption next year, but with the cessation of hostilities, the commercial and industrial prosperity of the province are likely to increase, which will conduce to the consumption of excisable articles. The extension of the fixed fee system to the districts of Burdwan, Dacca, Mymensingh, Jalpaiguri, Rangpur and Darjeeling, with effect from the 1st April 1920, will also tend to increase the license fee and duty receipts and the coming year's estimate has, therefore, been fixed at Rs. 1,87,00,000.

Besides making provision for additional establishment for the introduction of the fixed fee system, the expenditure budget provides for normal growth and calls for no remarks.

As for expenditure under Income-Tax, the figures represent the cost of establishments for the collection of taxes under the Super-tax Act VIII of 1917 and the new Income Tax Act VII of 1918. Owing to the introduction of these new Acts the work of the department has materially increased and the establishment, especially in Calcutta, has had to be strengthened accordingly. On the other hand, a large increase in revenue is looked for.

XXA and 24 A.—Medical.—To meet to some extent the growing need for qualified medical practitioners in Bengal, increased accommodation has been provided in the Campbell and Dacca Medical Schools. This, together with the enhancement of the school fees in these two institutions, mainly accounts for the increase in receipts both in the revised and budget estimates under XXA—Medical.

It was announced last year that provision had been made for the construction of the Hygiene Institute attached to the School of Tropical Medicine, of a new medical school at Burdwan and of the new Eye Hospital at the Medical College, Calcutta. These works have been commenced this year and the Hygiene Institute is nearing completion. Necessary provision for their completion has been made in next year's Public Works Department budget. At present there are no facilities for the treatment of diseases of the eye, throat, ear and nose in the Campbell Hospital, nor is there any provision for the education of students in those special branches in that School. Provision has, therefore, been made for the opening of indoor and outdoor wards in that Hospital for the treatment of those diseases. All preliminary arrangements have been completed for the transfer of the administrative control of the Mitford Hospital from the 1st April to Government, and necessary provision for the upkeep of the Hospital for the whole year has been made in next year's budget. Another important item is the provision of Rs. 4 lakhs for payment of a non-recurring grant to the authorities of the Belgachia Medical Institute for reasons explained in the memorandum. To comply with the regulations of the Calcutta University, pending the construction of permanent hostels, attached messes have been started in hired houses for the accommodation of the students of the Medical College. As it is desirable to have permanent boarding houses as soon as possible, a sum of Rs. 4,30,000 has been spent this year out of the unspent balances of the Imperial non-recurring grant for Medical Education given some years ago, for the acquisition of a site for the construction of a hostel, and a sum of Rs. 2,75,000 has been provided in the next year's Public Works Department budget for the completion of the acquisition. In accordance with the recommendations of the Medical Services Committee, provision has been made for the improvement of the pay of the Provincial and Subordinate Service officers.

30.—Stationery and Printing.—The principal items are the expenditure on Government presses and stationery supplied from central stores. During the year a war allowance has had to be sanctioned for the employees of the press, and this will have to be continued next year also. There has been a very great increase in the amount of printing work which necessitates longer working hours for the employees and therefore larger payment of overtime allowances. These account for the increase in the revised estimate for 1919-20 and the budget estimate for 1920-21. As printing work is bound to increase very considerably with the formation of the enlarged council under the Reforms Scheme, provision for the purchase of more linos and printing machines has been made. The construction of the new press building on the site acquired for the purpose at Chetla has already been taken in hand and necessary provision for its continuance has been made in next year's Public Works Department budget. It is hoped that the building will be completed and that it will be possible to remove the press to the new building in June or July, 1921.

32.—Miscellaneous.—Owing to the increase in the cost of living, the sanction of the Government of India has been asked to a scheme for raising the pay of the menials. In the expectation that sanction will be accorded early next year a provision of Rs. 11 lakhs has been made for this. The contract contingent allotments of the various departments were fixed for five years with effect from 1918-19 in this Government's Finance Department Resolution No. 9927-9984-F., dated the 15th December 1917. Consequent on the rise in price of all articles of stationery and on the enhancement in the rates of postal and telegram charges, it has been impossible for some of the controlling officers in charge of growing departments to keep expenditure within the funds allotted. A provision of Rs. 2 lakhs has, therefore, been made for giving additional contract grants, where necessary, and a provision of Rs. 1,50,000 has also been made to meet the initial expenditure likely to be incurred in the introduction of the Reforms Scheme, though the estimate is necessarily of rather a rough description.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 13.

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephenson introduced the following heads :—

Revenue—

XVI B.—Jails.

Expenditure—

19B. Jails.

Revenue—

XVII.—Police.

Expenditure—

20. Police.

The Amended Draft Financial Statement.—Resolutions.Mr. Stephenson ; Maulvi Abul Kasem.

He said :—

Revenue—XVI—Jails—Expenditure—19B—Jails.—The estimates of the Jail Department reflect the high prices in the current year and that may be expected in the immediate future. There is an increase of 4 lakhs under the head of jail manufactures representing the increased cost of the purchase of raw materials. As a set-off against this, there is a rise of over 7 lakhs in the revised estimate of receipts for this year from jail manufactures. In the coming year we estimate for a partial return towards normal conditions, and the total both on the expenditure and receipt sides is less than the revised. There is an increase in expenditure under the heading Jails of 6 lakhs this year, and we anticipate very much the same expenditure in the coming year; nearly 3 lakhs of this is under the head Dietary charges, nearly one lakh under the head Clothing and Bedding of Prisoners, while half a lakh is provided as a lump provision for revision of the Jailor establishment.

Revenue—XVII—Police—Expenditure—20—Police.—Turning to the Police Budget, increased receipts are estimated chiefly from Arms Act licenses, and receipts under the Motor Vehicles Act. In the Presidency Police on the expenditure side the revised estimate is $\frac{3}{4}$ lakh higher than the budget, and the budget for next year is a lakh and a half higher than the revised, excluding the provision of 5 lakhs for the removal of the Arms House. The chief increase is $1\frac{1}{2}$ lakh under the heading Calcutta Police which is accounted for by the revised pay of European Sergeants, the establishment of a Public Vehicles Department and Clothing. In the General Police the excess in the revised is 5 lakhs over the budget, and a slight increase on the revised is proposed for next year. This increase is accounted for by the increased cost of the new time scale of the superior officers, and a very large increase under the head allowances and supplies and services including chiefly increase under travelling allowance, building charges to repair damage done by the cyclone, an increase of a lakh in clothing charges, and of half a lakh under the heading Railway Warrants. Against this, there is a decrease of a lakh under the Criminal Investigation Department. Next year's budget includes a lump provision of 5 lakhs for additional force and police reforms; in this is included 2 lakhs for improving the pay of head constables, Rs. 1,29,000 for strengthening the cadre of sub-inspectors and Rs. 74,000 for raising the ordinary reserve of constables.

RESOLUTIONS*(under the rules for the discussion of matters of general public interest).LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 14.*The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a separate and independent municipality be established at Jiaganj, district Murshidabad, comprising the whole area of the Azimganj Municipality on the left bank of the Ganges.

Resolutions.Maulvi Abul Kaseem.

He said :—

"Sir, in moving this resolution I have to place before the Government and this Council a few facts; firstly, the geographical position of the Azimganj Municipality." The river Ganges runs through this municipality dividing it into two parts—Jiaganj and Baluchar being on the left bank and Azimganj proper on the right bank, and the municipal office is also located at Azimganj. So it is very inconvenient for the people of Manoola Bazar and Jiaganj to go over to the municipal office because they have to cross the river by boat and their difficulties are greatly enhanced during the rains. But that is not the only grievance. As the municipality is constituted at present it is run by people who live in the Azimganj ward of the town and, therefore, Jiaganj and Baluchar are the most neglected parts of that municipality. I need not elaborate the point because the District Magistrate, the Divisional Commissioner and Sanitary Commissioner and other high officials of Government have in their inspection notes repeatedly drawn the attention of the people and the municipal authorities to this, and it has been intimated that no amount of warning has been of any avail. The natural consequence will be that after one or two more warnings Government will come down on the citizens with the accusation that the Municipal Commissioners have failed to discharge their duties efficiently and that Government are going to take action under section 65. That is no doubt a remedy; and if the circumstances are not what they are, I think the Municipality of Azimganj would have deserved such treatment, but the fact is that the citizens are not responsible for the present state of affairs. In the first place the area is large and scattered and the municipal executive cannot on account of the geographical position of the municipality take proper care and exercise proper supervision over its work. Besides, there is the other fact that the constitution of the municipality is such that the Baluchar and Manoola Bazar parts of the town, which comprise about $\frac{2}{3}$ of the population, contribute $\frac{2}{3}$ of the income of the municipality, and also if the area is taken into consideration these two wards are entitled to elect more members. At present they elect 6 Commissioners, whereas Azimganj which has one-third of the total population elect 4 Commissioners. This gives a disproportionate importance to the Azimganj Municipality and from the constitution of the present municipality it will be found that Government have appointed 5 members who almost all belong to the Azimganj ward. For this reason and for the fact that the administration of the municipality is going from bad to worse, and specially to avoid the catastrophe which befell the unfortunate municipalities of Burdwan and Hooghly, I humbly submit to Government and to this Council that the proper course would be to divide the present municipality into two parts as the rate-payers desire so that there may be proper supervision. The residents of Baluchar and Jiaganj will thus be able to manage their own business well. The income, I think, will be sufficient. According to the ordinary calculation the Jiaganj municipal area will have an income of Rs. 20,000, and Azimganj Rs. 10,000. There is no doubt then that there should be two small municipalities, and I think efficient and well worked small municipalities are better than large and badly managed ones. The Azimganj railway junction station is now a growing town and has a growing population. I think that ought to be included in the Azimganj Municipality, and if this is done the population and income of Azimganj will greatly increase. Thus, both the Municipalities of Azimganj and Jiaganj will be able to work satisfactorily and will not be so bad as at present. The fact that accounts at present are not properly kept is due to the lack of supervision and this matter has been severely criticised by Government officials. I, therefore, beg to move, Sir, that the Azimganj Municipality be divided into two parts and a separate municipality be established on the other side of the river."

*Resolutions.Babu Surendra Nath Ray ; Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan.The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray said :—

"Sir, I am sorry to have to oppose this resolution. It may be that the grievances of which my friend, the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem, has spoken are all correct, but there is a legal defect to this resolution being accepted. My friend most probably has read section 9 of the Bengal Municipal Act which expressly lays down that the local Government may, on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting, by notification published in the Calcutta Gazette, and in such other manner as it may determine, declare its intention among other things to exclude from a municipality any local area comprised therein and defined in the notification ; or to include within a municipality any local area contiguous to the same and defined in the notification ; or to subdivide any municipality into two or more municipalities. If my friend wants to exclude a portion of the Azimganj Municipality from Jiaganj or wants to subdivide the present Azimganj Municipality into two municipalities that division can take place only when the Commissioners at a meeting so resolve and send up their recommendation to Government for confirmation. So unless the recommendation comes from the Commissioners the Government practically has no hand in the matter. There is another thing which ought to be taken into consideration. Even if the recommendation is made the Government reserves to itself the discretion either to sanction it or to refuse it, but at present there is no recommendation from the Commissioners at a meeting to Government. My friend simply moves that the municipality ought to be divided, but how ? Government cannot do it ; there is that legal bar and there being that legal bar, I think Government have no hand in the matter and cannot accept the resolution.

"Then my friend has said that there are 6 Commissioners in the Jiaganj and 4 Commissioners in the Azimganj side of the Municipality and 4 Commissioners are nominated by Government. I think this discussion will produce some effect on Government because when the next election takes place Government may take good care that all parties are properly represented and not simply nominate some powerful men of one locality. For these reasons, Sir, I cannot support this resolution."

The Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan said :—

"Sir, the legal difficulty which I wanted to point out to the Hon'ble Member has already been mentioned by the Hon'ble Member who has just spoken. It is certainly sporting of the Maulvi Saheb to champion the cause of a municipality from which he does not hail himself or even to which district he does not belong. But as has been already pointed out by Babu Surendra Nath Ray, no municipality can be partitioned under the Bengal Municipal Act except on the recommendations of the Commissioners at a meeting. The initiative must be taken by the Commissioners themselves. If the people of Jiaganj, Baluchar and Azimganj are in favour of partition, they must move Government to have the partition effected ; and if Government entertain the proposals favourably after due inquiry, it will then be for the Government to publish a notification declaring their intention. This is an essential preliminary to establishing any new municipality. Further, local opinion has also got to be invited even if the Commissioners at a meeting were to resolve in favour of such a partition, and it is open to any rate-payer to object. Government must take all such objections into consideration before coming to a final decision. This being the existing law and no proposal having been received by Government for the partition of the Azimganj Municipality, I think it must be apparent to this Council that it is quite impossible to give effect to the resolution moved by the Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem, and I would therefore advise him to withdraw his resolution." Op the other hand, if it really be the fact that the nominated members of this municipality come only from one portion of that municipality, I shall certainly draw the attention of the local officers to the fact when the next election takes place. Sir, I am unable to accept the resolution."

Resolutions.Maulvi Abul Kasem.

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem said :—

"Sir, after what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge and from the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray, I have no other alternative but to withdraw the resolution ; but in doing so I have only got to say that as the law stands there is no other remedy but for the Municipal Commissioners to take the initiative, and as the majority of them come from one portion of the municipality, and as they have the advantage of collecting money from Jiaganj and Baluchar and spending it in Azinganj, I do not think we can safely hope that they will like to be deprived of their good food. What I wanted to do by moving this resolution was to draw the attention of Government to the fact that it would be a great hardship to the rate-payers if the municipality was not divided into two as the different wards are very inconveniently situated. With these few words I beg to withdraw my resolution."

• The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 15.The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that early steps be taken to protect the areas in the Ketugram and Mangalkote thanas of the Burdwan district from damages caused by the normal floods of the Ajai river and to mitigate the effects of the inundation.

He said :—

"Sir, since this Council has been constituted, I have been moving resolutions on this subject in one form or another from year to year, and it may be pointed out to me that this is one of our hardy annuals. But in this particular case, Sir, I beg to submit that whenever I have moved a resolution on this subject I have received a very sympathetic reply from the Government, and I gratefully acknowledge what has been done to mitigate the effects of the flood in the district of Burdwan. Good progress has been made with reference to the Damodar and also with reference to the Ajai, but on the other side of the railway lines nothing has been done. Last year when I moved a resolution, I was told by the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming, the Member in charge, and hopes were held out, that provision would be made in the budget which would prevent anything less than abnormal floods and that the whole area would be protected. I then, as I do now, refer to the areas in the Ketugram and Majogram thanas ; but at the same time, as stated by Government, and from operations carried out, I submit that these two areas are not included in those operations. The embankments as well as the activities of the Public Works Department are confined from Sagarputul to Bagshi Bazaar and on the other side of the railway lines from Bhedia down to these two thanas. These two areas have suffered from the effects of the flood for over 30 years. I am not speaking of the abnormal floods of 1916-17, or even of the floods of 1913. The fact is that these floods were of an abnormal character, accompanied with loss of life and cattle. The attention of the Government was drawn to that and gratuitous relief was given and the whole question came into consideration. But in these two areas, the abnormal condition is such that for

Resolutions.Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur.

30 years this area has had no rice crop. If the people have lived and managed to live for so long, it is due to other crops, meagre crops no doubt, which they got from their land. I am told by some people that the proper course would be for these people to give up their land, but in an agricultural country, especially in a purely agricultural district like Burdwan, it is very hard for the people to give up their lands. They live in hope and expectation. Even if they part with their land, what are they going to do? Their position is very miserable and so I have to bring this motion forward every year. The position of Ketugram is very peculiar. There is only one breach at Chandkhali which if properly looked after and repaired, the whole area would be protected, and in Mongolkote thana there are only two breaches on the banks of the river which once repaired the whole area would be protected, in the same way as damages caused by the overflowing of the Ajai river near Kunur have been made good by the measures taken by the Public Works Department, that portion is safe now. So far as I have been able to ascertain we are now protected to a very great extent from abnormal floods of the kind which we had in 1916-17, but unfortunately the embankments on the banks of the river which has caused damage to the rice crop are still there throughout the whole area, and this area is not small. I want it to be clearly understood that I do not want either any embankments to be made on the Ajai, or any protection of that nature, but simply to see that the breaches caused on the Ajai on account of certain breaches above the river are repaired. I have been told that they are zemindari embankments, and therefore Government are not responsible for their repair or maintenance, but even if they are zemindari embankments, where are the people to go for protection? I do not know. I do not know who is to do these repairs—either the Government or the zemindars. I have been told that the Raj contributes some amount of money to Government for the upkeep of these embankments—the Burdwan Raj is the zemindar of the entire area. I have heard it said that there are some embankments made on this side of the river. These embankments were made by the indigo-planters and not by the zemindars; they used to keep them repaired and since they left the land, there have been breaches in the banks of the river and the result is that great damage is caused to the rice crop and the land round about is damaged by the sand deposited there. It affects sanitation as well because the water that flows in cannot get out and it stagnates. We have been assured, and that assurance gives me hope, that something will be done to mitigate the effect of the floods in these two areas. I hope and trust that Government will be pleased to expedite action, and that effect will be given to it. The cost is very small as I have ascertained. I do not think there can be any engineering or scientific difficulty in the matter, because when the indigo-planters were there no damage was done either to the east side or to any other portion. If these three breaches are repaired, one at Chandkhali, another at Ketugram and the other at Nowpara and Mejgaon, the whole area will be protected from the effects of normal floods as well as from abnormal floods.

With these words I commend this resolution to the Government as well as to this Council."

The Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur said:—

My Lord, I beg to support this resolution. For the last two years letters have been written to me as the representative of the District-Boards in the Burdwan Division to move in this matter in the Council. As I have no experience of the locality, I thought over the matter, and considered it necessary that I should not lose the opportunity of giving my humble support to the resolution. It has a limited scope. It speaks for itself. The object is to protect the areas in question from damage caused by the normal floods of the river. Therefore, I support this resolution."

*Resolutions.Mr. Cumming.The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming said :—

" Sir, it is somewhat difficult to deal with a resolution of this kind which requires a geographical knowledge which all the Members of Council do not possess ; and it is desirable to deal more definitely than the Hon'ble Member has done with the question of policy which his proposal involves. Put shortly, the position is this ; there is a river with a steep gradient, in parts upwards of seven feet a mile, which comes down and passes under the East Indian Railway bridge on the loop line, and after some distance joins the Bhagirathi river. There are four Government embankments which, under the Embankment Act, Government are bound to maintain—three on the west side of this railway bridge, and one on the east side. It is to the east side of the railway bridge to which the Hon'ble Member has directed the attention of the Council.

Last year it was stated that Government on the advice of their engineers would do something on the west side of this railway bridge, by the creation of an escape for excessive floods, and by the provision of a repaired embankment to keep normal floods under control, to alleviate the circumstances of any flooding of the whole area on both sides of the railway. I am glad the Hon'ble Member is prepared to recognise that Government in this respect are doing good ; and that when this work which will be finished in the ensuing year is completed something definite will have been done. But the Hon'ble Member goes further and says something more should be done to mitigate the effects of the inundation, and he has invited the attention of Government to two breaches which he desires should be filled up. I may say at once that an enquiry will be made regarding these particular breaches, but he seems to be under a misapprehension as to the policy of Government regarding the treatment of the land on the banks of the Ajai river.

Now, Sir, a question of this kind must have a history ; and this question has a history, a very definite history: a recorded history of at least 80 years. If the Hon'ble Member means that the Ajai river between the East Indian Railway and the Bhagirathi should be confined by means of embankments within a fixed course, then I say that the engineers of Government who are experts in the matter, have advised against this in 1836, 1858, 1883 and in 1916, and possibly on other occasions of which I have no immediate record. If the Hon'ble Member means that small minor breaches should be put in order in embankments which are at present under zemindari control, then, as I have said, that matter will be examined ; but if he means that the whole length of the river is to be kept in confined limits then I say he is fighting against nature, and he is asking Government to reproduce the same conditions as those which exist on the Damodar river. Now what is the example of the Damodar river ? The example there is that on account of the embankment the level of the bed of the river has been gradually raised and the natural spill of the river has been impeded. It is of course very easy to obtain some respite perhaps for a few years ; but the consequential harm in the raising of the level of the bed of a stream of this nature, and the damage caused when its embankments do break, are greater than if no measures had been taken at all. It is, I declare, a short-sighted policy which, as the experience and the advice of our professional advisers over this long period have shown, should not be adopted. It gives a temporary relief, but causes still greater damage ; nay more, it may be that any further prevention of the spill in places where there is at present a spill, may cause harm in places where even now excessive damage is not done by normal floods. Of course, there is the still further possibility that, if the river is kept confined within a definite channel, an abnormal flood may come and the embankment may give way, and then the damage done will be still greater than ever. This policy was announced by my predecessor who was in charge of this department, the Hon'ble Sir Nicholas

Resolutions.Sir Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari.

Beatson-Bell ; and he pointed out that what was required in the matter of zemindari embankments was the entire removal of all such embankments. I can therefore only say with reference to this resolution that regarding the individual points which he has raised, Government are prepared to examine them further—he has not previously brought them to the notice of the Public Works Department—but if his intention is by confining the river channel to reproduce the circumstances which are found to-day in the Damodar river, Government cannot possibly accede to such a proposition. In view of these remarks, I would ask him whether he will be prepared to withdraw his resolution.”

The Hon'ble Sir Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari said :—

“ I should have thought Government would be prepared to accept the recommendation contained in this resolution. The resolution does not seek to commit Government to any definite measure ; it merely asks that early steps may be taken. What those steps may be the Hon'ble Member has indicated and Government have been good enough to promise an inquiry. If the case was so hopeless as some of the observations of the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming would indicate, it would be difficult to see what good there would be in having any inquiry into the matter at all. So far as the recommendations themselves are concerned, there is no question of large policy, but suggestions for relief at certain points are all that he has indicated. I should have thought that more vigorous steps should have been taken for relief to the areas affected by the Ajoy and Damodar floods now that and public opinion has been making itself felt as strongly as possible. Within the last few days that I had an opportunity of going over some of the tracts in that part of the country, particularly the area flooded by the Damodar. The need for special action is imperative. Government have been good enough to begin some relief measures and all whom I had the opportunity of consulting were unanimous that they will bring temporary relief undoubtedly, but whether such relief will have the disastrous results that the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming apprehends is what the ordinary people cannot possibly express an opinion upon. It is remarkable, Sir, while in much smaller countries with much smaller problems, they have been able, sufficiently and completely, to grapple with the situation, we, with our comparatively larger resources—though not as large as they ought to be—have not been able to make any impression upon what is certainly a great public inconvenience and worse, a great public danger. We have indication, Sir, as to how the mischief arose. The railway bridge came, the gradient of the river was there ; and those who constructed the bridge must have known what they were bargaining for. It is no good however quarrelling with the past, but what is possible now and what ought to be done is for the Government to decide on a course and then pursue it. Reference has been made to what was done at the time that the indigo-planters were there—I am glad the Hon'ble Maulvi Sahib has been able to put in a good word for them—surely we can do now what they were able to do then. The bridge was there and questions of “ policy ” were also there, and yet it was possible then to give relief. There has been no material change in the river gradient or in the physical circumstances of the country. It is difficult enough to get a scheme ; it is still more difficult when you have got a scheme to push it through vigorously. We must draw the attention of the Government and of the Council to the need of the relief measures, and if any have already been decided on, they should be pushed forward with as great vigour as possible. The Bakshikhal and Hoorhook Khal schemes, I am told, cannot be pushed forward for want of good dredgers. Our Government have been in communication with the Government of India, not however to much immediate purpose ; here we have got some relief measures decided on, but they cannot be completed—no want of funds, but for want of appliances that are lying idle elsewhere and that ought to be available for our purposes as soon as possible. We trust and beg that immediate attention of the Government may be drawn to this supreme necessity and of pushing on the Howrah-Vishnupur Chord Scheme. In the same way the Ajai relief work which this resolution asks for is possible without unduly interfering with the question of policy and of protecting railway embankments. I do hope—whether this resolution is withdrawn or pressed and meets with the usual fate—the inquiry which Government have promised will lead to relief.

"Sir, I am thankful to the Hon'ble Member in charge for the hope held out this time that an inquiry will be made into my complaint. I can assure him that it was never my intention, nor of the people whom I represent, that an embankment should be made all along the river from the railway lines up to where it meets the Bhagirathi, nor do we want the river to flow through a particular channel. What I really suggested, and what I meant was that the breaches on the banks of the river, not the embankments, should be repaired, and that on account of the embankments being made, there have been certain breaches on the banks of the river, and that these should be repaired. True it is that the repairs made to the scheduled embankments will protect a large area, but these repairs of these scheduled embankments will cause a greater rush of water through these breaches if they are not repaired in time. The areas mentioned are not really small areas, but they are very unfortunately situated because they are far away from the railway lines, and on account of the floods there can be no roads or public thoroughfares and it is impossible for a motor-car to go into them, and so these roads and these breaches are not visited or seen by high officials or responsible members of Government. However, I am grateful that a hope has been held out that an inquiry will be made, and I am sure that the case is such that if an inquiry is made by a responsible officer, and his recommendations are accepted, our grievances will be removed. However, I hope something will be done, especially as the Hon'ble Sir Deba Prasad Sarbadhikari has pointed out that there is no definite demand in my resolution. I only want some protection and mitigation of the effects of the Ajai flood. I would not be to the credit of the Public Works Department if in a small river like the Ajai and the small breaches mentioned their engineering skill cannot provide a remedy. With these words I beg to withdraw my resolution."

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 16.

The Hon'ble Maulvi Abul Kasem was to have moved the following resolution:—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that early steps be taken to establish a city Civil Court at Calcutta.

He said:—

"Sir, in the first place I beg to ask that I may be permitted to withdraw the resolution that stands in my name. The resolution has not been properly worded, and the amendments which were sent in have been declared to be out of order, so I do not think any good purpose will be served by moving this resolution, especially as some time back we passed a similar resolution in this Council. My object in giving notice of this resolution was only to expedite the work of giving effect to the former resolution. I beg to withdraw it, especially as the Government, in reply to a question put this morning, have been pleased to declare that no effect will be given to the former resolution."

Resolutions.Maulvi Abul Kasem.

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

ADJOURNMENT.

The Council was then adjourned to Saturday, the 13th March, 1920, at 11 A.M., at Government House, Calcutta.

Acts of the Indian Legislative Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Indian Legislative Council received the assent of the Governor General on the 25th February, 1920, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. IV OF 1920. ●

[AS PASSED IN COUNCIL.]

An Act to provide for certain matters in connection with the taking of the Census.

WHEREAS it has been determined to take a census of British India during the year 1921, and it is expedient to provide for certain matters in connection with the taking of such census; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Short title and extent. Census Act, 1920.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, inclusive of British Baluchistan, the Sonthal Parganas and the Pargana of Spiti.

2. (1) The Local Government may appoint any person to take, or aid in, or supervise the taking of, the census within any specified local area.

(2) Persons so appointed shall be called census-officers.

(3) The Local Government may delegate such authority, as it thinks fit, the power of appointing census-officers which is conferred by section.

3. (1) A declaration in writing, signed by any officer authorised by the Local Government in this behalf, that any person has been duly appointed a census-officer for any local area shall be conclusive proof of such appointment.

(2) All census-officers shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

4. (1) (a) Every officer in command of any body of men belonging to His Majesty's naval, military or air forces or to His Majesty's Indian Marine Service or of any vessel of war,

(b) Every person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having charge or control of a vessel,

(c) every person in charge of a lunatic asylum, hospital, workhouse, prison, reformatory or lock-up or of any public, charitable, religious or educational institution,

(d) every keeper, secretary or manager of any sarai, hotel, boarding-house, lodging-house, emigration depôt or club, and

(e) every occupant of immoveable property who has at the time of the taking of the census not less than twenty persons living on or in such property, and every manager or officer of a railway or other commercial or industrial establishment who has at such time not less than ten persons employed under him, shall, if so required by the District Magistrate or by such officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, perform such of the duties of a census-officer in relation to the persons who at the time of the taking of the census are under his command or charge, or are inmates of his house or present on or in such immoveable property or are employed under him as such Magistrate or officer may, by written order, direct.

(2) All the provisions of this Act relating to census-officers shall apply, so far as they can be made applicable, to all persons while performing such duties under this section, and any person refusing or neglecting to perform any duty which he is directed under this section to perform shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 157 of the Indian Penal Code.

5. (1) The District Magistrate, or such officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf for any local area, may, by written order, which shall have effect throughout the limits of his district or of such local area, as the case may be, call upon—

(a) all owners and occupiers of land, tenure-holders, farmers, assignees of land-revenue and lessees of fisheries under the Burma Fisheries Act, 1905, or the Upper Burma Land and Revenue Regulation, 1889, or their agents,

(b) all village-officers and servants in estates as defined in the Madras Proprietary Estates' Village Service Act, 1894, and

(c) all members of panchayats appointed under the Village Chaudidari Act, 1870, or the Sylhet and Cachar Rural Police Regulation, 1883, or members of union boards established under the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919, all ghatwals, Unit-tahsildars and members of a panchayat appointed under the Chota Nagpur Rural Police Act, 1914, all members of Village Authorities constituted under the Assam Local Self-Government Act, 1915, and all village-headmen in the Kumaun Division of the United Provinces, to give such assistance as he needs towards the taking of a census of the persons who are at the time of the taking of the census on the lands of such owners, occupiers, holders, farmers and assignees, or within the limits of such fisheries or in the villages or other areas for which such village-officers and servants, panchayats, union boards, Village Authorities, ghatwals, Unit-tahsildars or village headmen are appointed, as the case may be.

(2) Such order shall specify the nature of the assistance required, and such owners, occupiers, holders, farmers, assignees and lessees, or their agents, and such village-officers and servants the members of such panchayats, union boards and Village Authorities, and such ghatwals, Unit-tahsildars and village-headmen shall be bound to obey it.

6. Every census-officer may ask all such questions of all persons within the limits of the local area for which he is appointed as, by instructions issued in this behalf by the Local Government and published in the official Gazette, he may be directed to ask.

7. Every person of whom any question is asked under the last foregoing section shall be legally bound to answer such question to the best of his knowledge or belief:

Provided that no person shall be bound to state the name of any female member of his household, and no woman shall be bound to state the name of her husband or deceased husband or of any other person whose name she is forbidden by custom to mention.

8. Every person occupying any house, enclosure or place shall allow access thereto as they may require for the purposes of the census, and as, having regard to the customs of the country, may be reasonable, and shall allow them to paint on or affix to the place such letters, marks or numbers as may be necessary for the purposes of the census.

9. (1) Subject to such orders as the Local Government may issue in this behalf, any census-officer may leave, or cause to be left,

(a) at any dwelling-house within the local area for which he is appointed, or

(b) with any manager or officer of any commercial or industrial establishment who has at the time of the taking of the census not less than ten persons employed under him, a schedule for the purpose of its being filled up by the occupier of such house or of any specified part thereof, or by such manager or officer with such particulars as the Local Government may direct regarding the inmates of such house or part, or the persons employed under such manager or officer at the time of the taking of the census, as the case may be.

(2) When any such schedule has been so left the occupier of the house or part to which it relates or the manager or officer with whom it is left shall fill it up, or cause it to be filled up, to the best of his knowledge or belief, so far as regards the inmates of such house or part, or the persons employed under him at the time aforesaid, as the case may be, and shall sign his name thereto, and when so required, shall deliver the schedule so filled up and signed to the census-officer or to such person as the census-officer may direct,

10. In any of the following cases, namely—Penalties.

- (a) if a census-officer or a person lawfully required to give assistance towards the taking of a census refuses or neglects to use reasonable diligence in performing any duty imposed upon him or in obeying any order issued to him in accordance with this Act or with any rule duly made thereunder,
- (b) if a census-officer intentionally puts any offensive or improper question or knowingly makes any false return, or, without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, discloses any information which he has received by means of or for the purposes of a census return,
- (c) if any person refuses to answer to the best of his knowledge or belief any question asked of him by a census-officer which he is legally bound by section 7 so to answer,
- (d) if any person occupying any house, enclosure, vessel or other place refuses to allow a census-officer such reasonable access thereto as he is required by section 8 to allow,
- (e) if any person removes, obliterates, alters or injures before the 31st day of March, 1921, any letters, marks or numbers which have been painted or affixed for the purposes of the census,
- (f) if any occupier of a dwelling-house or part thereof or any person with whom a schedule is left under section 9 knowingly and without sufficient cause fails to comply with the provisions of section 9 or makes any false return under that section, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

11. (1) The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, declare before what classes of Magistrates prosecutions under this Act may be instituted.

(2) Unless and until a notification is published under sub-section (1) all prosecutions under this Act shall, in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, be instituted before a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere, before the District Magistrate.

(3) No prosecution under this Act shall be instituted except with the previous sanction of the Local Government or of some officer authorised by the Local Government in this behalf.

12. No person shall have a right to inspect any book, register or record made by a census-officer in the discharge of his duty as such officer or any schedule delivered under section 9, and, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, no entry in any such book, register, record or schedule shall be admissible as evidence in any civil proceeding or any proceeding under Chapter XII or Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

13. Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or rule with respect to the mode in which a census is to be taken in any municipality, the municipal authority may, at the time appointed for the taking of the census of British India during the year 1921, cause the census of the municipality to be taken wholly or in part by any method authorised by this Act.

14. Notwithstanding anything in any enactment or rule, in regard to municipal, local, union or village funds, the Local Government may direct that the whole or any part of any expenses incurred for anything done in accordance with this Act may be charged to any municipal, local, union or village fund constituted for, and on behalf of, the area within which such expenses were incurred.

15. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, the Governor General in Council may make rules providing—

- (a) for the appointment of census-officers and of persons to perform any of the duties of census-officers or to give assistance towards the taking of a census, and for the general instructions to be issued to such officers and persons;
- (b) for the enumeration of persons employed on railways and their families, and other classes of the population whom it may be necessary or expedient to make special provision; and
- (c) for the enumeration of persons travelling on the night when a census is taken.

(3) The Governor General in Council may, by general or special order, direct that all or any of the powers conferred upon him by this section may also be exercised by any Local Government with respect to the territories administered by it.

A. P. MUDDIMAN,

Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Indian Legislative Council received the assent of the Governor General on the 25th February, 1920, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. V OF 1920.

[AS PASSED IN COUNCIL.]

An Act to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Insolvency in British India, as administered by Courts having jurisdiction outside the Presidency-towns and the Town of Rangoon.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to insolvency in British India, as administered by Courts having jurisdiction outside the Presidency-towns and the Town of Rangoon; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Provincial Short title and extent. Insolvency Act, 1920.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, except the Scheduled Districts.

2. (1) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "creditor" includes a decree-holder, "debt" includes a judgment-debt, and "debtor" includes a judgment-debtor;

(b) "District Court" means the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in any area outside the local limits for the time being of the Presidency-towns and of the Town of Rangoon;

(c) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

(d) "property" includes any property over which or the profits of which any person has a disposing power which he may exercise for his own benefit;

(e) "secured creditor" means a person holding a mortgage, charge or lien on the property of the debtor or any part thereof as a security for a debt due to him from the debtor; and

(f) "transfer of property" includes a transfer of any interest in property and the creation of any charge upon property.

(2) Words and expressions used in this Act and defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, and not hereinbefore defined shall have the same meanings as those respectively attributed to them by the said Code.

PART I.

CONSTITUTION AND POWERS OF COURT.

3. (1) The District Courts shall be the Courts having jurisdiction under this Act in insolvency jurisdiction.

Provided that the Local Government may, by notification in the local official Gazette, invest any Court subordinate to a District Court with jurisdiction in any class of cases, and any Court so invested shall within the local limits of its jurisdiction have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court under this Act.

(2) For the purposes of this Act, a Court of Small Causes shall be deemed to be subordinate to the District Court.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act the Court shall have full power to decide all questions whether of title or priority, or of any nature whatsoever, and whether involving matters of law or of fact, which may arise in any case of insolvency coming within the cognisance of the Court, or which the Court may deem it expedient or necessary to decide for the purpose of doing complete justice or making a complete distribution of property in any such case.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act and notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, every such decision shall be final and binding for all purposes as between, on the one hand, the debtor, the debtor's estate and, on the other hand, claimants against him or it and all persons claiming through or under them or any of them.

(3) Where the Court does not deem it expedient or necessary to decide any question of the nature referred to in sub-section (1), but has reason to believe that the debtor has a saleable interest in any property, the Court may without further inquiry sell such interest in such manner and subject to such conditions as it may think fit.

5. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Court, in regard to the General powers of Courts. proceedings under this Act, shall have the same powers and shall follow the same procedure as it has and follows in the exercise of original civil jurisdiction.

(2) Subject as aforesaid, High Courts and District Courts, in regard to proceedings under this Act in Courts subordinate to them, shall have the same powers and shall follow the same procedure as they respectively have and follow in regard to civil suits.

PART II.

PROCEEDINGS FROM ACT OF INSOLVENCY TO DISCHARGE.

Acts of insolvency.

A debtor commits an act of insolvency in each of the following cases, namely :—

- (a) if, in British India or elsewhere, he makes a transfer of all or substantially all his property to a third person for the benefit of his creditors generally ;
- (b) if, in British India or elsewhere, he makes a transfer of his property or of any part thereof with intent to defeat or delay his creditors ;
- (c) if, in British India or elsewhere, he makes any transfer of his property, or of any part thereof, which would, under this or any other enactment for the time being in force, be void as a fraudulent preference if he were adjudged an insolvent ;
- (d) if, with intent to defeat or delay his creditors,—
 - (i) he departs or remains out of British India,
 - (ii) he departs from his dwelling-house or usual place of business or otherwise absents himself,
 - (iii) he secludes himself so as to deprive his creditors of the means of communicating with him ;
- (e) if any of his property has been sold in execution of the decree of any Court for the payment of money ;
- (f) if he petitions to be adjudged an insolvent under the provisions of this Act ;
- (g) if he gives notice to any of his creditors that he has suspended, or that he is about to suspend, payment of his debts ; or
- (h) if he is imprisoned in execution of the decree of any Court for the payment of money.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section act of an agent may be the act of the principal.

Petition.

7. Subject to the conditions specified in this Act, if a debtor commits an act of insolvency, an insolvency petition may be presented either by a creditor or by the debtor, and the Court may on such petition make an order (hereinafter called an order of adjudication) adjudging him an insolvent.

Explanation.—The presentation of a petition by the debtor shall be deemed an act of insolvency within the meaning of this section, and on such petition the Court may make an order of adjudication.

8. No insolvency petition shall be presented against any corporation or association or company registered under any enactment for the time being in force.

9. (1) A creditor shall not be entitled to present Conditions on which an insolvency petition creditor may petition. against a debtor unless—

- (a) the debt owing by the debtor to the creditor, or, if two or more creditors join in the petition, the aggregate amount of debts owing to such creditors amounts to five hundred rupees, and
 - (b) the debt is a liquidated sum payable either immediately or at some cert in future time, and
 - (c) the act of insolvency on which the petition is grounded has occurred within three months before the presentation of the petition.
- (2) If the petitioning creditor is a secured creditor, he shall in his petition either state that he is willing to relinquish his security for the benefit of the creditors in the event of the debtor being adjudged insolvent, or give an estimate of the value of the security. In the latter case, he may be admitted as a petitioning creditor to the extent of the balance of the debt due to him after deducting the value so estimated in the same way as if he were an unsecured creditor.

10. (1) A debtor shall not be entitled to present Conditions on which an insolvency petition, unless debtor may petition. he is unable to pay his debts and—

- (a) his debts amount to five hundred rupees ; or
- (b) he is under arrest or imprisonment in execution of the decree of any Court for the payment of money ; or
- (c) an order of attachment in execution of such a decree has been made, and is subsisting, against his property.

(2) A debtor in respect of whom an order of adjudication made under this Act has been annulled, owing to his failure to apply, or to prosecute an application for his discharge, shall not be entitled to present an insolvency petition without the leave of the Court by which the order of adjudication was annulled. Such Court shall not grant leave unless it is satisfied either that the debtor was prevented by any reasonable cause from presenting or prosecuting his application, as the case may be, or that the petition is founded on facts substantially different from those contained in the petition on which the order of adjudication was made.

11. Every insolvency petition shall be presented to a Court having jurisdiction under this Act in any local area in which the debtor ordinarily resides or carries on business, or personally works for gain, or if he has been arrested or imprisoned, where he is in custody :

Provided that no objection as to the place of presentation shall be allowed by any Court in the exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction unless such objection was taken in the Court by which the petition was heard at the earliest possible opportunity, and unless there has been a consequent failure of justice.

12. Every insolvency petition shall be in writing and shall be signed and verified in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 of 1908, for signing and verifying plaints.

13. (1) Every insolvency petition presented by a debtor shall contain the following particulars, namely:—

- (a) a statement that the debtor is unable to pay his debts;
- (b) the place where he ordinarily resides or carries on business or personally works for gain, or, if he has been arrested or imprisoned, the place where he is in custody;
- (c) the Court (if any) by whose order he has been arrested or imprisoned, or by which an order has been made for the attachment of his property, together with particulars of the decree in respect of which any such order has been made;
- (d) the amount and particulars of all pecuniary claims against him, together with the names and residences of his creditors so far as they are known to, or can by the exercise of reasonable care and diligence be ascertained by, him;
- (e) the amount and particulars of all his property, together with—
 - (i) a specification of the value of all such property not consisting of money;
 - (ii) the place or places at which any such property is to be found; and
 - (iii) a declaration of his willingness to place at the disposal of the Court all such property save in so far as it includes such particulars (not being his books of account) as are exempted by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or by any other enactment for the time being in force from liability to attachment and sale in execution of a decree;
- (f) a statement whether the debtor has on any previous occasion filed a petition to be adjudged an insolvent, and (where such a petition has been filed)—
 - (i) if such petition has been dismissed, the reasons for such dismissal, or
 - (ii) if the debtor has been adjudged an insolvent, concise particulars of the insolvency, including a statement whether any previous adjudication has been annulled and, if so, the grounds therefor.

(2) Every insolvency petition presented by a creditor or creditors shall set forth the particulars regarding the debtor specified in clause (b) of sub-section (1), and shall also specify—

- (a) the act of insolvency committed by such debtor, together with the date of its commission; and
- (b) the amount and particulars of his or their pecuniary claim or claims against such debtor.

14. No petition, whether presented by a debtor or by a creditor, shall be withdrawn without the leave of the Court.

15. Where two or more insolvency petitions are presented against the same debtor, or where separate petitions are presented against joint debtors, the Court may consolidate the proceedings or any of them, on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

16. Where the petitioner does not proceed with Power to change due diligence on his carriage of proceedings. tion the Court may substitute as petitioner any other creditor to whom the debtor may be indebted in the amount required by this Act in the case of a petitioning creditor.

17. If a debtor by or against whom an insolvency petition has been presented dies, the proceedings in the matter shall, unless the Court otherwise orders, be continued so far as may be necessary for the realisation and distribution of the property of the debtor.

18. The procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, with respect to the admission of petitions, shall, so far as it is applicable, be followed in the case of insolvency petitions.

19. (1) Where an insolvency petition is admitted, the Court shall make an order fixing a date for hearing the petition.

(2) Notice of the order under sub-section (1) shall be given to creditors in such manner as may be prescribed.

(3) Where the debtor is not the petitioner, notice of the order under sub-section (1) shall be served on him in the manner provided for the service of summons.

20. The Court when making an order admitting the petition may, and where the debtor is the petitioner ordinarily shall, appoint an interim receiver of the property of the debtor or of any part thereof, and may direct him to take immediate possession thereof or of any part thereof, and the interim receiver shall thereupon have such of the powers conferable on a receiver appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as the Court may direct. If an interim receiver is not so appointed, the Court may make such appointment at any subsequent time adjudication, and the provisions of this sub-section shall apply accordingly.

21. At the time of making an order admitting the petition or at any subsequent time before adjudication, the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any creditor, make one or more of the following orders, namely:—

(1) order the debtor to give reasonable security for his appearance until final orders are made upon the petition, and direct that, in default of giving such security, he shall be detained in the civil prison;

(2) order the attachment by actual seizure of the whole or any part of the property in the possession or under the control of the debtor, other than such particulars (not being his books of account) as are exempted by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or by any other enactment for the time being in force from liability to attachment and sale in execution of a decree;

(3) order a warrant to issue with or without bail for the arrest of the debtor, and direct either that he be detained in the civil prison until the disposal of the petition, or that he be released on such terms as to security as may be reasonable and necessary :

Provided that an order under clause (2) or clause (3) shall not be made unless the Court is satisfied that the debtor, with intent to defeat or delay his creditors or to avoid any process of the Court,—

(c) has absconded or has departed from the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or is about to abscond or to depart from such limits, or is remaining outside them, or

(cc) has failed to disclose or has concealed, destroyed, transferred or removed from such limits, or is about to conceal, destroy, transfer or remove from such limits, any documents likely to be of use to his creditors in the course of the hearing, or any part of his property other than such particulars as aforesaid.

22. The debtor shall on the making of an order

Duties of debtors. admitting the petition produce all books of account, and shall at any time thereafter give such inventories of his property, and such lists of his creditors and debtors and of the debts due to and from them, respectively, submit to such examination in respect of his property or his creditors, attend at such times before the Court or receiver, execute such instruments, and generally do all such acts and things in relation to his property as may be required by the Court or receiver, or as may be prescribed.

23. (1) At the time of making an order

Release of debtor. admitting the petition or at any subsequent time before adjudication, the Court may, if the debtor is under arrest or imprisonment in execution of the decree of any Court for the payment of money, order his release on such terms as to security as may be reasonable and necessary.

(2) The Court may at any time order any person who has been released under this section to be re-arrested and re-committed to the custody in which he was released.

(3) At the time of making any order under this section, the Court shall record in writing its reasons therefor.

24. (1) On the day fixed for the hearing of the petition, or on any subsequent day to which the Procedure at hearing. hearing may be adjourned, the Court shall require proof of the following matters, namely :—

(a) that the creditor or the debtor, as the case may be, is entitled to present the petition:

Provided that, where the debtor is the petitioner, he shall, for the purpose of proving his inability to pay his debts, be required to furnish only such proof as to satisfy the Court that there are prima facie grounds for believing the same and the Court, if and when so satisfied, shall not be bound to hear any further evidence thereon;

(b) that the debtor, if he does not appear on a petition presented by a creditor, has been served with notice of the order admitting the petition; and

(c) that the debtor has committed the act of insolvency alleged against him.

(2) The Court shall also examine the debtor, if he is present, as to his conduct, dealings and property in the presence of such creditors as appear at the hearing, and the creditors shall have the right to question the debtor thereon.

(3) The Court shall, if sufficient cause is shown, grant time to the debtor or to any creditor to produce any evidence which appears to it to be necessary for the proper disposal of the petition.

(4) A memorandum of the substance of the examination of the debtor and of any other oral evidence given shall be made by the Judge, and shall form part of the record of the case.

25. (1) In the case of a petition presented by a creditor, where the Court is not satisfied with the proof of his right to present the petition or of the service on the debtor of notice of the order admitting the petition, or of the alleged act of insolvency, or is satisfied by the debtor that he is able to pay his debts, or that for any other sufficient cause no order ought to be made, the Court shall dismiss the petition.

(2) In the case of a petition presented by a debtor, the Court shall dismiss the petition if it is not satisfied of his right to present the petition.

26. (1) Where a petition presented by a creditor is dismissed under sub-section (1) of section 25, and the Court is satisfied that

Award of compensation. the petition was frivolous or vexatious, the Court may, on the application of the debtor, award against such creditor such amount, not exceeding one thousand rupees, as it deems a reasonable compensation to the debtor for the expense or injury occasioned to him by the petition and the proceedings thereon, and such amount may be realised as if it were a fine.

(2) An award under this section shall bar any suit for compensation in respect of such petition and the proceedings thereon.

Order of Adjudication.

27. (1) If the Court does not dismiss the petition, it shall make an order of adjudication, and shall specify in such order the period within which the debtor shall apply for his discharge.

(2) The Court may, if sufficient cause is shown, extend the period within which the debtor shall apply for his discharge, and in that case shall publish notice of the order in such manner as it thinks fit.

28. (1) On the making of an order of adjudication, the insolvent shall aid to the utmost of his power in the realisation of his property and the distribution of the proceeds among his creditors.

(2) On the making of an order of adjudication the whole of the property of the insolvent shall vest in the Court or in a receiver as hereinafter provided, and shall become divisible among the creditors, and thereafter, except as provided by this Act, no creditor to whom the insolvent is indebted in respect of any debt provable under this Act shall during the pendency of the insolvency proceedings have any remedy against the property of the insolvent in respect of the debt, or commence any suit or other legal proceeding, except with the leave of the Court and on such terms as the Court may impose.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (2), all goods being, at the date of the presentation of the petition on which the order is made, in the possession, order or disposition of the insolvent in his trade or business, by the consent and permission of the true owner, under such circumstances that he is the reputed owner thereof, shall be deemed to be the property of the insolvent.

(4) All property which is acquired by or devolves on the insolvent after the date of an order of adjudication and before his discharge shall forthwith vest in the Court or receiver, and the provisions of sub-section (2) shall apply in respect thereof.

(5) The property of the insolvent for the purposes of this section shall not include any property (not being books of account) which is exempted by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or by any other enactment for the time being in force from liability to attachment and sale in execution of a decree.

(6) Nothing in this section shall affect the power of any secured creditor to realise or otherwise deal with his security, in the same manner as he would have been entitled to realise or deal with it if this section had not been passed.

(7) An order of adjudication shall relate back to, and take effect from, the date of the presentation of the petition on which it is made.

29. Any Court in which a suit or other proceeding is pending against a debtor shall, on proof that an order of adjudication has been made against him under this Act, either stay the proceeding or allow it to continue on such terms as such Court may impose.

30. Notice of an order of adjudication stating the name, address and description of the insolvent, the date of the adjudication, the period within which the debtor shall apply for his discharge, and the Court by which the adjudication is made, shall be published in the local official Gazette and in such other manner as may be prescribed.

Proceedings consequent on order of adjudication.

31. (1) Any insolvent in respect of whom an order of adjudication has been made may apply to the Court for protection, and the Court may on such application make an order for the protection of the insolvent from arrest or detention.

(2) A protection order may apply either to all the debts of the debtor, or to any of them as the Court may think proper, and may commence and take effect at and for such time as the Court may direct, and may be revoked or renewed as the Court may think fit.

(3) A protection order shall protect the insolvent from being arrested or detained in prison for any debt to which such order applies, and any insolvent arrested or detained contrary to the terms of such an order shall be entitled to his release:

Provided that no such order shall operate to prejudice the rights of any creditor in the event of such order being revoked or the adjudication annulled.

(4) Any creditor shall be entitled to appear and oppose the grant of a protection order.

32. At any time after an order of adjudication has been made, the Court may, if it has reason to believe on the application of any creditor or the receiver, that the debtor has absconded or departed from the local limits of its jurisdiction with intent to avoid any obligation which has been, or might be, imposed on him by or under this Act, order a warrant to issue for his arrest, and on his appearing or being brought before it, may, if satisfied that he was absconding or had departed with such intent, order his release on such terms as to security as may be reasonable or necessary, or if such security is not furnished, direct that he shall be detained in the civil prison for a period which may extend to three months.

33. (1) When an order of adjudication has been made under this Act, all persons alleging themselves to be creditors of the insolvent in respect of debts provable under this Act shall tender proof of their respective debts by producing evidence of the amount and particulars thereof, and the Court shall, by order, determine the persons who have proved themselves to be creditors of the insolvent in respect of such debts, and the amount of such debts, respectively, and shall frame a schedule of such persons and debts:

Provided that if, in the opinion of the Court, the value of any debt is incapable of being fairly estimated, the Court may make an order to that effect, and thereupon the debt shall not be included in the schedule.

(2) A copy of every such schedule shall be posted in the Court-house.

(3) Any creditor of the insolvent may, at any time before the discharge of the insolvent, tender proof of his debt and apply to the Court for an order directing his name to be entered in the schedule as a creditor in respect of any debt provable under this Act, and not entered in the schedule, and the Court, after causing notice to be served on the insolvent and the other creditors who have proved their debts, and hearing their objections (if any) shall comply with or reject the application.

34. (1) Debts which have been excluded from the schedule on the ground that their value is incapable of being fairly estimated and demands in the nature of unliquidated damages arising otherwise than by reason of a contract or a breach of trust shall not be provable under this Act.

(2) Save as provided by sub-section (1), all debts and liabilities, present or future, certain or contingent, to which the debtor is subject when he is adjudged an insolvent, or to which he may become subject before his discharge by reason of any obligation incurred before the date of such adjudication, shall be deemed to be debts provable under this Act.

Annulment of adjudication.

35. Where, in the opinion of the Court, a debt-Power to annul ad- or ought not to have been judication of insolven- adjudged insolvent, or where cy. it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the debts of the insolvent have been paid in full, the Court shall, on the application of the debtor, or of any other person interested, by order in writing, annul the adjudication.

36. If, in any case in which an order of adjudi-Power to cancel one cation has been made, it of concurrent orders of shall be proved to the Court adjudication. by which such order was made that insolvency proceedings are pending in another Court against the same debtor, and that the property of the debtor can be more conveniently distributed by such other Court, the Court may annul the adjudication or stay all proceedings thereon.

37. (1) Where an adjudication is annulled, all Proceedings on an- sales and dispositions of propnulment. erty and payments duly made, and all acts theretofore done, by the Court or receiver, shall be valid ; but, subject as aforesaid, the property of the debtor who was adjudged insolvent shall vest in such person as the Court may appoint, or, in default of any such appointment, shall revert to the debtor to the extent of his right or interest therein on such conditions, (if any) as the Court may, by order in writing, declare.

(2) Notice of every order annulling an adjudication shall be published in the local official Gazette and in such other manner as may be prescribed.

Compositions and schemes of arrangement.

38. (1) Where a debtor, after the making of an Compositions and order of adjudication, sub-schemes of arrange- mits a proposal for a comment. position in satisfaction of his debts, or a proposal for a scheme of arrangement of his affairs, the Court shall fix a date for the consideration of the proposal, and shall issue a notice to all creditors in such manner as may be prescribed.

(2) If, on the consideration of the proposal, a majority in number and three-fourths in value of all the creditors whose debts are proved and who are present in person or by pleader, resolve to accept the proposal, the same shall be deemed to be duly accepted by the creditors.

(3) The debtor may at the meeting amend the terms of his proposal if the amendment is, in the opinion of the Court, calculated to benefit the general body of creditors.

(4) Where the Court is of opinion, after hearing the report of the receiver, if a receiver has been appointed, and after considering any objections which may be made by or on behalf of any creditor, that the terms of the proposal are not reasonable or are not calculated to benefit the general body of creditors, the Court shall refuse to approve the proposal.

(5) If any facts are proved on proof of which the Court would be required either to refuse, suspend or attach conditions to the debtor's discharge, the Court shall refuse to approve the proposal unless it provides reasonable security for payment of not less than six annas in the rupee on all the unsecured debts payable against the debtor's estate.

(6) No composition or scheme shall be approved by the Court which does not provide for the payment in priority to other debts of all debts directed to be so paid in the distribution of the property of an insolvent.

(7) In any other case the Court may either approve or refuse to approve the proposal.

39. If the Court approves the proposal, the Order on approval terms shall be embodied in an al. order of the Court, and the Court shall frame a schedule in accordance with the provisions of section 88, the order of adjudication shall be annulled, and the provisions of section 37 shall apply, and the composition or scheme shall be binding on all the creditors entered in the said schedule so far as relates to any debts entered therein.

40. If default is made in the payment of any Power to re- instalment due in pursuance of adjudge debtor in- the composition or scheme, or solvent. if it appears to the Court that the composition or scheme cannot proceed without injustice or undue delay, or that the approval of the Court was obtained by fraud, the Court may, if it thinks fit, re-adjudge the debtor insolvent and annul the composition or scheme but without prejudice to the validity of any transfer or payment duly made or of anything duly done under or in pursuance of the composition or scheme.
 When a debtor is re-adjudged insolvent under this sub-section, all debts provable in other respects which have been contracted before the date of such re-adjudication shall be provable in the insolvency.

Discharge.

41. (1) A debtor may, at any time after the Discharge. order of adjudication, and shall, within the period specified by the Court, apply to the Court for an order of discharge, and the Court shall fix a day, notice whereof shall be given in such manner as may be prescribed, for hearing such application, and any objections which may be made thereto.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this section, the Court may, after considering the objections of any creditor and, where a receiver has been appointed, the report of the receiver—

(a) grant or refuse an absolute order of discharge; or

(b) suspend the operation of the order for a specified time; or

(c) grant an order of discharge subject to any conditions with respect to any earnings or income which may afterwards become due to the insolvent, or with respect to his after-acquired property.

42. (1) The Court shall refuse to grant an absolute order of discharge under section 41 on proof of any of the following facts, namely—

(a) that the insolvent's assets are not of a value equal to eight annas in the rupee on the amount of his unsecured liabilities, unless he satisfies the Court that the fact that the assets are not of a value equal to eight annas in the rupee
 on the amount of his unsecured liabilities has arisen from circumstances for which he cannot justly be held responsible;

Cases in which Court must refuse an absolute discharge.

(b) that the insolvent has omitted to keep such books of account as are usual and proper in the business carried on by him and as sufficiently disclose his business transactions and financial position within the three years immediately preceding his insolvency;

(c) that the insolvent has continued to trade after knowing himself to be insolvent;

(d) that the insolvent has contracted any debt provable under this Act without having at the time of contracting it any reasonable or probable ground of expectation (the burden of proving which shall lie on him) that he would be able to pay it;

(e) that the insolvent has failed to account satisfactorily for any loss of assets or for any deficiency of assets to meet his liabilities;

(f) that the insolvent has brought on, or contributed to, his insolvency by rash and hazardous speculations, or by unjustifiable extravagance in living, or by gambling, or by culpable neglect of his business affairs;

(g) that the insolvent has, within three months preceding the date of the presentation of the petition, when unable to pay his debts as they became due, given an undue preference to any of his creditors;

(h) that the insolvent has on any previous occasion been adjudged an insolvent or made a composition or arrangement with his creditors;

(i) that the insolvent has concealed or removed his property or any part thereof, or has been guilty of any other fraud or fraudulent breach of trust.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the report of the receiver shall be deemed to be evidence; and the Court may presume the correctness of any statement contained therein.

(3) The powers of suspending, and of attaching conditions to, an insolvent's discharge may be exercised concurrently.

43. (1) If the debtor does not appear on the day fixed for hearing his application for discharge, or on such subsequent day as the Court may direct, or if the debtor does not apply for an order of discharge within the period specified by the Court, the order of adjudication shall be annulled, and the provisions of section 37 shall apply accordingly.

(2) Where a debtor has been released from custody under the provisions of this Act and the order of adjudication is annulled under sub-section (1), the Court may, if it thinks fit, re-commit the debtor to his former custody, and the officer in charge of the prison to whose custody such debtor is so re-committed shall receive such debtor into his custody according to such re-commitment, and thereupon all processes which were in force against the person of such debtor at the time of such release as aforesaid shall be deemed to be still in force against him as if no order of adjudication had been made.

44. (1) An order of discharge shall not release the insolvent from — charge.

(a) any debt due to the Crown;

(b) any debt or liability incurred by means of any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust to which he was a party;

(c) any debt or liability in respect of which he has obtained forbearance by any fraud to which he was a party; or

(d) any liability under an order for maintenance made under section 498 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1894. V of 1898.

(2) Save as otherwise provided by sub-section (1), an order of discharge shall release the insolvent from all debts provable under this Act.

(3) An order of discharge shall not release any person who, at the date of the presentation of the petition, was a partner or co-trustee with the insolvent, or was jointly bound or had made any joint contract with him or any person who was surety for him.

PART III.

ADMINISTRATION OF PROPERTY.

Method of proof of debts.

45. A creditor may prove for a debt not payable when the debtor is adjudged an insolvent as if it were payable presently, and may receive dividends equally with the other creditors, deducting therefrom only a rebate of interest at the rate of six per centum per annum computed from the declaration of a dividend to the time when the debt would have become payable, according to the terms on which it was contracted.

46. Where there have been mutual dealings between an insolvent and a creditor proving or claiming to prove a debt under this Act, an account shall be taken of what is due from the one party to the other in respect of such mutual dealings, and the sum due from the one party shall be set off against any sum due from the other party, and the balance of the account, and no more, shall be claimed or paid on either side respectively.

47. (1) Where a secured creditor realises his security, he may prove for the balance due to him, after deducting the net amount realised.

(2) Where a secured creditor relinquishes his security for the general benefit of the creditors, he may prove for his whole debt.

(3) Where a secured creditor does not either realise or relinquish his security, he shall, before being entitled to have his debt entered in the schedule, state in his proof the particulars of his security, and the value at which he assesses it, and shall be entitled to receive a dividend only in respect of the balance due to him after deducting the value so assessed.

(4) Where a security is so valued, the Court may at any time before realisation redeem it on payment to the creditor of the assessed value.

(5) Where a creditor, after having valued his security, subsequently realises it, the net amount realised shall be substituted for the amount of any valuation previously made by the creditor, and shall be treated in all respects as an amended valuation made by the creditor.

(6) Where a secured creditor does not comply with the provisions of this section, he shall be excluded from all share in any dividend.

48. (1) On any debt or sum certain whereon interest is not reserved or agreed for, and which is overdue when the debtor is adjudged an insolvent, and which is provable under this Act, the creditor may prove for interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum,—

(a) if the debt or sum is payable by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, from the time when such debt or sum was payable to the date of such adjudication; or,

(b) if the debt or sum is payable otherwise, from the time when a demand in writing has been made giving the debtor notice that interest will be claimed from the date of the demand until the time of payment to the date of such adjudication.

(2) Where a debt which has been proved under this Act includes interest or any pecuniary consideration in lieu of interest, the interest or consideration shall, for the purposes of dividend be calculated at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, without prejudice to the right of a creditor to receive out of the debtor's estate any higher rate of interest to which he may be entitled after all the debts proved have been paid in full.

49. (1) A debt may be proved under this Act by delivering, or sending by post in a registered letter, to the Court an affidavit verifying the debt.

(2) The affidavit shall contain or refer to a statement of account showing the particulars of the debt, and shall specify the vouchers (if any) by which the same can be substantiated. The Court may at any time call for the production of the vouchers.

50. (1) Where the receiver thinks that a debt has been improperly entered in the schedule the Court may, on the application of the receiver and after notice to the creditor, and such inquiry (if any) as the Court thinks necessary, expunge such entry or reduce the amount of the debt.

(2) The Court may also, after like inquiry, expunge an entry or reduce the amount of a debt upon the application of a creditor where no receiver has been appointed, or where the receiver declines to interfere in the matter or, in the case of a composition or scheme, upon the application of the debtor.

Effect of insolvency on antecedent transactions.

51. (1) Where execution of a decree has issued against the property of a debtor, no person shall be entitled to the benefit of the execution against the receiver except in respect of assets realised in the course of the execution by sale or otherwise before the date of the admission of the petition.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a secured creditor in respect of the property against which the decree is executed.

(3) A person who in good faith purchases the property of a debtor under a sale in execution shall in all cases acquire a good title to it against the receiver.

52. Where execution of a decree has issued against any property of a debtor which is saleable in execution and before the sale thereof notice is given to the Court executing the decree that an insolvency petition by or against the debtor has been admitted, the Court shall, on application, direct the property, if in the possession of the Court, to be delivered to the receiver, but the costs of the suit in which the decree was made and of the execution shall be a first charge on the property so delivered, and the receiver may sell the property or an adequate part thereof for the purpose of satisfying the charge.

53. Any transfer of property not being a transfer made before and in avoidance of consideration of marriage or voluntary transfer, made in favour of a purchaser or incumbrancer in good faith and for valuable consideration shall, if the transferor is adjudged insolvent within two years after the date of the transfer, be voidable as against the receiver and may be annulled by the Court.

54. (1) Every transfer of property, every payment made, every obligation incurred, and every judicial proceeding taken or suffered by any person unable to pay his debts as they become due from his own money in favour of any creditor, with a view of giving that creditor a preference over the other creditors, shall, if such person is adjudged insolvent on a petition presented within three months after the date thereof, be deemed fraudulent and void as against the receiver and shall be annulled by the Court.

(2) This section shall not affect the rights of any person who in good faith and for valuable consideration has acquired a title through or under a creditor of the insolvent.

55. Subject to the foregoing provisions of this Act with respect to the effect of insolvency on an execution, and with respect to the avoidance of certain transfers and preferences, nothing in this Act shall invalidate in the case of an insolvency—

- (a) any payment by the insolvent to any of his creditors;
- (b) any payment or delivery to the insolvent;
- (c) any transfer by the insolvent for valuable consideration; or
- (d) any contract or dealing by or with the insolvent for valuable consideration.

Provided that any such transaction takes place before the date of the order of adjudication, and that the person with whom such transaction takes place has not at the time notice of the presentation of any insolvency petition by or against the debtor.

Realisation of Property.

56. (1) The Court may, at the time of the Appointment of order of adjudication, or at receiver, any time afterwards, appoint a receiver for the property of the insolvent, and such property shall thereupon vest in such receiver.

(2) Subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, the Court may—

(a) require the receiver to give such security as it thinks fit duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the property; and

(b) by general or special order, fix the amount to be paid as remuneration for the services of the receiver out of the assets of the insolvent.

(3) Where the Court appoints a receiver, it may remove the person in whose possession or custody any such property as aforesaid is from the possession or custody thereof:

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise the Court to remove from the possession or custody of property any person whom the insolvent has not a present right so to remove.

(4) Where a receiver appointed under this section—

(a) fails to submit his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court directs, or

(b) fails to pay the balance due from him thereon as the Court directs, or

(c) occasions loss to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence, the Court may direct his property to be attached and sold, and may apply the proceeds to make good any balance found to be due from him or any loss so occasioned by him.

(5) The provisions of this section shall apply, so far as may be, to interim receivers appointed under section 20.

57. (1) The Local Government may appoint such persons as it thinks fit (to be called "Official Receivers") to be receivers under this Act within such local limits as it may prescribe.

(2) Where any Official Receiver has been so appointed for the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Court having jurisdiction under this Act, he shall be the receiver for the purpose of every order appointing a receiver or an interim receiver issued by any such Court, unless the Court for special reasons otherwise directs.

(3) Any sum payable under clause (b) of subsection (2) of section 56 in respect of the services of an Official Receiver shall be credited to such fund as the Local Government may direct.

(4) Every Official Receiver shall receive such remuneration out of the said fund or otherwise as the Local Government may fix in this behalf, and no remuneration whatever beyond that so fixed shall be received by the Official Receiver as such.

58. Where no receiver is appointed, the Court shall have all the rights of, and may exercise all the powers conferred on, a receiver under this Act.

59. Subject to the provisions of this Act, the receiver shall, with all convenient speed, realise the property of the debtor and distribute dividends among the creditors entitled thereto, and for that purpose may—

(a) sell all or any part of the property of the insolvent;

(b) give receipts for any money received by him;

and may, by leave of the Court, do all or any of the following things, namely:—

(c) carry on the business of the insolvent so far as may be necessary for the beneficial winding up of the same;

(d) institute, defend or continue any suit or other legal proceeding relating to the property of the insolvent;

(e) employ a pleader or other agent to take any proceedings or do any business which may be sanctioned by the Court;

(f) accept as the consideration for the sale of any property of the insolvent a sum of money payable at a future time subject to such stipulations as to security and otherwise as the Court thinks fit;

(g) mortgage or pledge any part of the property of the insolvent for the purpose of raising money for the payment of his debts;

(h) refer any dispute to arbitration, and compromise all debts, claims and liabilities, on such terms as may be agreed upon; and

(i) divide in its existing form amongst the creditors, according to its estimated value, any property which, from its peculiar nature or other special circumstances, cannot readily or advantageously be sold.

60. (1) In any local area in which a declaration has been made under section 68 of the Code of Civil Procedure, V of 1908, and is in force, no immoveable property revenue to the Government held or let for agricultural purposes shall be mortgaged or let by the receiver; but, after the other property of the insolvent has been realised, the Court shall ascertain—

(a) the amount required to satisfy the debts proved under this Act after deducting the monies already received;

(b) the immoveable property of the insolvent remaining unsold; and

(c) the incumbrances (if any) existing thereon;

and shall forward a statement to the Collector containing the particulars aforesaid; and thereupon the Collector shall proceed to raise the amount so required by the exercise of such of the powers conferred on him by paragraphs 2 to 10 of the Third Schedule to the said Code as he thinks fit, and subject to the provisions of those paragraphs so far as they are applicable, and shall hold at the disposal of the Court all sums that may come to his hands by the exercise of such powers.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect any provisions of any enactment for the time being in force prohibiting or restricting the execution of decrees or orders against immoveable property; and any such provisions shall be deemed to apply to the enforcement of an order of adjudication made under this Act as if it were such a decree or order.

Distribution of Property

61. (1) In the distribution of the property of the insolvent, there shall be paid in priority to all other debts—

- (a) all debts due to the Crown or to any local authority; and
- (b) all salary or wages, not exceeding twenty rupees in all, of any clerk, servant or labourer in respect of services rendered to the insolvent during four months before the date of the presentation of the petition

(2) The debts specified in sub-section (1) shall rank equally between themselves, and shall be paid in full, unless the property of the insolvent is insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions between themselves.

(3) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the expenses of administration or otherwise, the debts specified in sub-section (1) shall be discharged forthwith in so far as the property of the insolvent is sufficient to meet them.

(4) In the case of partners, the partnership property shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of the partnership debts, and the separate property of each partner shall be applicable in the first instance in payment of his separate debts. Where there is a surplus of the separate property of the partners, it shall be dealt with as part of the partnership property; and where there is a surplus of the partnership property, it shall be dealt with as part of the respective separate property in proportion to the rights and interests of each partner in the partnership property.

(5) Subject to the provisions of this Act, all debts entered in the schedule shall be paid rateably according to the amounts of such debts respectively and without any preference.

(6) Where there is any surplus after payment of the foregoing debts, it shall be applied in payment of interest from the date on which the debtor is adjudged an insolvent at the rate of six per centum per annum on all debts entered in the schedule.

62. (1) In the calculation of dividends, the receiver shall retain in his hands sufficient assets to meet—

- (a) debts provable under this Act and appearing, from the insolvent's statements or otherwise, to be due to persons resident in places so distant that in the ordinary course of communication they have not had sufficient time to tender their proofs;
- (b) debts provable under this Act, the subject of claims not yet determined;

(c) disputed proofs or claims; and

(d) the expenses necessary for the administration of the estate or otherwise.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1), all money in hand shall be distributed as dividends.

63. Any creditor who has not proved his debt before the declaration of any dividend or dividends shall be entitled to be paid, out of any money for the time being in the hands of the receiver, any dividend or dividends which he may have failed to receive before that money is applied to the payment of any future dividend or dividends; but he shall not be entitled to disturb the distribution of any dividend declared before his debt was proved by reason that he has not participated therein.

64. When the receiver has realised all the property of the insolvent or so much thereof as can, in the opinion of the Court, be realised without needlessly protracting the receivership, he shall declare a final dividend; but before so doing, he shall give notice in manner prescribed to the persons whose claims to be creditors have been notified but not proved, that if they do not prove their claims within the time limited by the notice, he will proceed to make a final dividend without regard to their claims. After the expiration of the time so limited, or if the Court, on application by any such claimant, grants him further time for establishing his claim, then on the expiration of such further time, the property of the insolvent shall be divided among the creditors entered in the schedule without regard to the claims of any other persons.

65. No suit for a dividend shall lie against the receiver; but where the receiver refuses to pay any dividend, the Court may, on the application of any creditor who is entered in the schedule, order him to pay it, and also to pay out of his own money interest thereon for the time that it is withheld, and the costs of the application.

66. (1) The Court may appoint the insolvent himself to superintend the management of the property of the insolvent or of any part thereof, or to carry on the trade (if any) of the insolvent for the benefit of the creditors, and in any other respect to aid in administering the property in such manner and on such terms as the Court may direct.

(2) The Court may, from time to time, make such allowance as it may think just to the insolvent out of his property for the support of himself and his family, or in consideration of his services if he is engaged in winding up his estate; but any such allowance may, at any time, be varied or determined by the Court.

67. The insolvent shall be entitled to any surplus remaining after payment in full of his creditors, with interest as provided by this Act, and of the expenses of the proceedings taken thereunder.

Appeal to Court against receiver.

68. If the insolvent or any of the creditors or any other person is aggrieved by any act or decision of the receiver, he may apply to the Court, and the Court may confirm, reverse or modify the act or decision complained of, and make such order as it thinks just :

Provided that no application under this section shall be entertained after the expiration of twenty-one days from the date of the act or decision complained of.

PART IV.

PENALTIES.

69. If a debtor, whether before or after the making of an order of adjudication,—

- (a) wilfully fails to perform the duties imposed on him by section 22 or to deliver up possession of any part of his property which is divisible among his creditors under this Act, and which is for the time being in his possession or under his control to the Court or to any person authorised by the Court to take possession of it, or
- (b) fraudulently with intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the objects of this Act,—
 - (i) has destroyed or otherwise wilfully prevented or purposely withheld the production of any document relating to such of his affairs as are subject to investigation under this Act, or
 - (ii) has kept or caused to be kept false books, or
 - (iii) has made false entries in or withheld entries from or wilfully altered or falsified any document relating to such of his affairs as are subject to investigation under this Act, or
- (c) fraudulently with intent to diminish the sum to be divided among his creditors or to give an undue preference to any of his creditors,—
 - (i) has discharged or concealed any debt due to or from him, or
 - (ii) has made away with, charged, mortgaged or concealed any part of his property of any kind whatsoever, he shall be punishable on conviction by the Court with imprisonment which may extend to one year.

70. (1) Where the Court is satisfied that there is ground for inquiring into any offence referred to in section 69, the Court shall direct that a notice be served on the debtor in the manner prescribed in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, for service of a summons, calling on him to show cause why a charge or charges should not be framed against him.

(2) The notice shall set forth the substance of the offence, and any number of offences may be set forth in the same notice.

(3) At the hearing of such notice and of any charge framed in pursuance thereof, the Court shall, so far as may be, follow the procedure for the trial of warrant cases by Magistrates prescribed by Chapter XXI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, and nothing in Chapter XXIII of the said Code relating to trials before High Courts and Courts of Session shall be applicable to such trial.

(4) Any number of offences under this section may be charged at the same time:

Provided that no debtor shall be sentenced to imprisonment exceeding an aggregate period of two years for offences under this section committed in the course of the same insolvency proceeding

(5) The Court may, instead of itself inquiring into an offence under section 69 make a complaint thereof in writing to the nearest Magistrate of the first class having jurisdiction, and such Magistrate shall deal with such complaint in the manner laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 :

Provided that it shall not be necessary to examine the complainant.

71. Where an insolvent has been guilty of Criminal Liability any of the offences specified after discharge or in section 69, he shall not be exempt from being proceeded against therefor by reason that he has obtained his discharge or that a composition or scheme of arrangement has been accepted or approved.

72. (1) An undischarged insolvent obtaining credit to the extent of fifty rupees or upwards from any person without informing such person that he is an undischarged insolvent shall, on conviction by a Magistrate, be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both.

(2) Where the Court has reason to believe that an undischarged insolvent has committed the offence referred to in sub-section (1), the Court, making any preliminary inquiry that may be necessary, may send the case for trial to the nearest Magistrate of the first class, and may send the accused in custody or take sufficient security for his appearance before such Magistrate ; and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such trial.

73. (1) Where a debtor is adjudged or re-adjudged insolvent under this Act, he shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be disqualified from—

- (a) being appointed or acting as a Magistrate ;
- (b) being elected to any office of any local authority where the appointment to such office is by election or holding or exercising any such office to which no salary is attached ; and
- (c) being elected or sitting or voting as a member of any local authority.

(2) The disqualifications which an insolvent is subject to under this section shall be removed, and shall cease if—

(a) the order of adjudication is annulled under section 35, or

(b) he obtains from the Court an order of discharge, whether absolute or conditional, with a certificate that his insolvency was caused by misfortune without any misconduct on his part.

(3) The Court may grant or refuse such certificate as it thinks fit, but any order of refusal shall be subject to appeal.

PART V.

SUMMARY ADMINISTRATION.

74. When a petition is presented by or against a debtor, if the Court is satisfied by affidavit or otherwise that the property of the debtor is not likely to exceed in value five hundred rupees, the Court may make an order that the debtor's estate be administered in a summary manner, and thereupon the provisions of this Act shall be subject to the following modifications, namely :—

(i) unless the Court otherwise directs, no notice required under this Act, shall be published in the local official Gazette ;

(ii) on the admission of a petition by a debtor, the property of the debtor shall vest in the Court as a receiver ;

(iii) at the hearing of the petition, the Court shall inquire into the debts and assets of the debtor, and determine the same by order in writing, and it shall not be necessary to frame a schedule under the provisions of section 33 ;

(iv) the property of the debtor shall be realised with all reasonable despatch and thereafter, when practicable, distributed in a single dividend ; the debtor shall apply for his discharge within six months from the date of adjudication ; and such other modifications as may be prescribed with the view of saving expense and simplifying procedure :

Provided that the Court may at any time direct that the ordinary procedure provided for in this Act shall be followed in regard to the debtor's estate, and thereafter the Act shall have effect accordingly.

PART VI.

APPEALS.

75. (1) The debtor, any creditor, the receiver or any other person aggrieved by a decision come to or an order made in the exercise of insolvency jurisdiction by a Court subordinate to a District Court may appeal to the District Court, and the order of the District Court upon such appeal shall be final :

Provided that the High Court, for the purpose of satisfying itself that an order made in any appeal decided by the District Court was according to law, may call for the case and pass such order with respect thereto as it thinks fit :

Provided, further, that any such person aggrieved by a decision of the District Court on appeal from a decision of a subordinate Court under section 4 may appeal to the High Court on any of the grounds mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, V of 1908.

(2) Any such person aggrieved by any such decision or order of a District Court as is specified in Schedule I, come to or made otherwise than in appeal from an order made by a subordinate Court, may appeal to the High Court.

(3) Any such person aggrieved by any other order made by a District Court otherwise than in appeal from an order made by a subordinate Court may appeal to the High Court by leave of the District Court or of the High Court.

(4) The periods of limitation for appeals to the District Court and to the High Court under this section shall be thirty days and ninety days, respectively.

PART VII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

76. The costs of any proceeding under this Act, including the costs of maintaining a debtor in the civil prison, shall, subject to any rules made under this Act, be in the discretion of the Court in which the proceeding is had.

77. All Courts having jurisdiction in insolvency and the officers of such Courts respectively shall severally act in aid of and be auxiliary to each other in all matters of insolvency, and an order of a Court seeking aid with a request to another of the said Courts shall be deemed sufficient to enable the latter Court to exercise, in regard to the matter directed by the order, such jurisdiction as either of such Courts could exercise in regard to similar matters within their respective jurisdictions.

78. (1) The provisions of sections 5 and 12 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, shall apply to appeals and applications under this Act, and for the purpose of the said section 12, a decision under section 4 shall be deemed to be a decree. IX of 1908.

(2) Where an order of adjudication has been annulled under this Act, in computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit or application for the execution of a decree (other than a suit or application in respect of which the leave of the Court was obtained under sub-section (2) of section 28) which might have been brought or made but for the making of an order of adjudication under this Act, the period from the date of the order of adjudication to the date of the order of annulment shall be excluded :

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to a suit or application in respect of a debt provable but not proved under this Act.

79. (1) The High Court may, with the previous sanction, in the case of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, of the Governor General in Council, and, in the case of any other High Court, of the Local Government, make rules for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide—

- (a) for the appointment and remuneration of receivers (other than Official Receivers), the audit of the accounts of all receivers and the costs of such audit,
- (b) for meetings of creditors,
- (c) for the procedure to be followed where the debtor is a firm, and
- (d) for the procedure to be followed in the case of estates to be administered in a summary manner.

(3) All rules made under this section shall be published in the Gazette of India, or in the local official Gazette, as the case may be, and shall, on such publication, have effect as if enacted in this Act.

80. (1) The High Court, with the like sanction, may from time to time direct that, in any matters in respect of which jurisdiction is given to the Court by this Act, the Official Receiver shall, subject to the directions of the Court, have all or any of the following powers, namely:—

- (a) to hear insolvency petitions, to examine the debtor and to make orders of adjudication;
- (b) to frame schedules and to admit or reject proofs of creditors;
- (c) to grant orders of discharge;
- (d) to approve compositions or schemes of arrangement;

(e) to make interim orders in any case of urgency; and

(f) to hear and determine any unopposed or ex parte application.

(2) Subject to the appeal to the Court provided for by section 88, any order made or act done by the Official Receiver in the exercise of the said powers shall be deemed the order or act of the Court.

81. Any Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the local official Gazette, declare that any of the provisions of this Act specified in Schedule II shall not apply to insolvency proceedings in any Court or Courts having jurisdiction under this Act in any part of the territories administered by such Local Government.

82. Nothing in this Act shall—Savings.

(a) affect the Presidency-towns Insolvency III of 1909, Act, 1909, or section 8 of the Lower Burma Courts Act, 1900, or VI of 1900.

(b) apply to cases to which Chapter IV of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief XVII of 1879, Act, 1879, is applicable.

83. (1) The enactments mentioned in Schedule III are hereby repealed to the extent specified in the fourth column thereof.

(2) Where in any enactment or instrument in force at the date of the commencement of this Act, reference is made to Chapter XX (of Insolvent Judgment-debtors) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1877, or of the Code of Civil X of 1877, Procedure, 1882, or to any section of either of XIV of 1882 those Chapters, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be construed as applying to this Act or to the corresponding section thereof.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Agriculture Branch.

CALCUTTA, THE 12TH MARCH 1920.

MEMORANDUM—No. 2731 Agri.

THE final report written by Mr. S. G. Hart, I.C.S., Additional Commissioner, Dacca and Presidency Divisions, on the operations for the relief of the distress caused by the cyclone of the 24th and 25th September 1919, is published for general information.

His Excellency in Council has much pleasure in taking this opportunity of thanking the public both for their prompt and generous response to his appeal for donations to the Cyclone Central Relief Fund and for their willing help in the actual work of relief. In particular, the Governor in Council acknowledges the valuable assistance of the non-official associations and persons mentioned in the report and of the officials who co-operated with Mr. Hart in the efficient organisation and administration of the relief measures.

By order of the Governor in Council,

M. C. McALPIN,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

FINAL REPORT ON THE CYCLONE RELIEF OPERATIONS, 1919.

SECTION I.—The Storm.

The cyclone developed in the Bay of Bengal and struck the coast of the Sundarbans about 9 o'clock on the morning of the 24th September 1919. It swept in a direct line across Khulna district, the north-western portion of Bakarganj, the Narail subdivision of Jessore and the greater part of Faridpur and Dacca districts. Then, with diminishing force, it passed over the western part of Tippera and the eastern portions of Mymensingh and Sylhet districts and ultimately dissipated itself in the Khasia Hills.

2. The cyclone can be pictured as a violent whirl moving across the map of Bengal. The whirl is a ring of hurricane winds blowing, not directly but with a tendency, towards the centre of the whirl. Strange to say, at the centre of the whirl there is absolute calm. The centre, however, is not stationary but moving at an average rate of $11\frac{1}{2}$ miles an hour. The actual experience of any place in the path of the storm was a hurricane gradually becoming more and more furious, then a sudden lull lasting only a short time but perfect while it lasted, then the hurricane in all its former fury but with wind from an altogether different direction. Two or three hours after the lull the storm began to gradually abate and finally ceased about 12 hours after it commenced.

3. Meteorologists connect together by a curve on a map all the places where, at a specified time, the barometric pressure was the same. Such curves they call "isobars" and they depict a cyclone by a diagram of isobars. In this storm, as with all cyclones, it was found that the direction of the wind at any place was not truly tangential to the isobaric curve at that place but had a deflection towards the centre of the cyclonic whirl. As in all cyclones north of the equator the direction of the winds at various points on an isobaric curve was counter-clockwise.

4. On crossing the coast the storm was travelling almost due north, gradually it veered towards the east and ultimately, on leaving Mymensingh district, it was moving north-east. It is reported that the lull was experienced at various places at the following times, but several of these reports can only be regarded as approximately correct, viz.—Oura Sipsa 3 to 4 P.M., Pratapnagar 4 P.M., Dakop 5 P.M., Baitaghata 8 P.M., Khulna 8-35 to 9 P.M., Mollahat 10 P.M., Gopalganj 10-30 to 11-30, Bhanga midnight, Goalundo 1 A.M., (only a change in direction of wind), Mashurikhola 2-15, Bhairab 6, Kishorganj 6-30 A.M.

5. The cyclone was remarkable for its small dimensions and its great intensity. Though the Bakarganj cyclone of 1876 was far more destructive of human life, the value of property destroyed in 1919 was probably greater than in any storm in Bengal for the last 200 years. Yet, if places where the wind did not attain very great force are omitted, the diameter of the storm area was not more than 25 miles.

6. In Narail and Gopalganj subdivisions and in the north-eastern corner of Khulna district an additional terror was added to the hurricane and the storm wave by a vivid red glow appearing in the sky during the period of the lull. In Narail Subdivision this fiery glow came from the western horizon and was so bright that it is said to have illumined the surface of the earth for some time. In Gopalganj subdivision the red glare came from the south.

7. The country over which the cyclone swept is a land of great rivers. Immediately after the lull the hurricane winds drove the waves furiously along until they dashed like solid walls of water against the banks. The height of the waves was generally from 3 to 6 feet. By their violence they caused great destruction to all floating craft, river embankments, crops and all other property near the banks. The most serious damage was done on the Padma, especially in the neighbourhood of Lohajang; on the Meghna, especially at Narayanganj and Bhairab; on the Madhumati in Gopalganj, Khulna and Pirojpur and on the Passur, Rupsa and other big rivers of Khulna. Storm waves were formed also on the bils. On the Arial bil between the Dhaleswari and the Padma and on the Kotwalipara bil the violence of the waves was so great that many houses and fields were engulfed and totally disappeared.

8. The storm lasted for about 12 hours at each place and left Mymensingh district about 11 A.M., on the 25th. It was accompanied in most places by heavy rain. There are not many Government rain-gauges in the affected tract, but taking them as fairly representative, they showed a general average of 5.93" in Khulna district, 3.96" in Narail subdivision, 6.33" in Faridpur, 7.40" in Dacca and 3.97" in Mymensingh district.

9. Selections from various reports on the cyclone are given in Appendix A.

10. There are many people who still remember the last big cyclone in Bengal. It occurred on the 27th October 1909 and affected Khulna, Jessore and parts of the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Bakarganj, Faridpur, Dacca and Mymensingh districts. At Goalundo 22 steamers and flats were almost totally destroyed, the damage being estimated at 30 lakhs of rupees. The number of human lives lost in the 1909 cyclone was 996 as compared with 3,203 in 1919. The tidal wave or storm wave was higher in 1909, and the loss of cattle was returned as 96,317, as compared with 38,951 in 1919, but the accuracy of the figures of the earlier year is questionable. In 1919 the figures compiled at thanas were checked by the relief agency, but in 1909 there was no such agency and no check. In Khulna district alone it was reported in 1909 that 70,654 cattle were drowned or killed. The loss of such a large number must have told heavily on the district, yet it was not found necessary to give any relief. In that same district 582,602 houses were reported to have been blown down, yet the Collector, touring through the worst affected part of the district a fortnight after the cyclone, found that most of the houses had been re-erected. It is probable that the houses, though damaged, had not really been demolished. In short, no reliance can be placed on the figures of 1909, except perhaps those of loss of human life. So far as can be judged from the statements of persons who experienced both storms, the violence of the wind, the dimensions of the storm and the total damage done were far greater in 1919 than in 1909, though the damage done by storm waves was less.

SECTION II.—Loss of life.

(a) Loss of human life.

11. The latest enquiries show that the total number of persons known to have lost their lives in the cyclone was 3,203. As it was Puja time, many persons besides those whose business required them to be on the river were travelling to their homes from other districts. The drowning of such persons would not be reported unless the bodies were found. On chars where every habitation was swept away it would also be improbable that every death would be known. It is therefore certain that the total mortality was greater than that reported. It may be estimated at approximately 3,500.

12. Most of the deaths from drowning were due to the storm waves which tore boats away from their moorings and dashed them to pieces against the banks or against one another. These waves also caused the sudden erosion of the sites of dwelling-houses on the banks of rivers and bils; and many people were drowned in this way. Many others were killed by trees falling on them or on the houses in which they were.

13. In Khulna district 432 deaths were recorded, of which about 240 were due to drowning. Sixty-four persons were drowned in one union of Dakop thana and 27 in one union of Paikgacha. Both of these unions are on the banks of the Sipsa. It is reported that most of the deaths took place after the lull in the storm. The victims were nearly all of the cultivator classes—Muhammadans, Namasudras and Pods. Twenty-one deaths were ascribed to exposure.

In Jessore district, Narail subdivision, only 7 persons were drowned, but 20 were killed by houses or trees falling on them.

In Bakarganj also the loss of life from drowning was much less than that caused by falling trees. The latter numbered 52 and the former only 3.

Six hundred and twelve deaths occurred in Faridpur district, of which 395 were due to drowning and 193 to falling trees and houses. The mortality from drowning was greatest in the chars of the Padma and on the banks of the Kotwalipara bil. In Kotwalipara thana alone 110 persons were drowned. Though the houses are built on mounds raised to provide safety, the storm waves of the bil carried away not only houses but also the mounds on which they stood. The storm waves also caught and submerged some persons who during the lull were hurrying for shelter from one mound to another. At Olpur, two teachers of the high school, hearing cries for help from neighbouring houses, went in a boat to render help. This was during the lull. They never returned and must have been drowned when the hurricane winds began afresh. The Collector reports that a special fund has been raised for the relief of their widows. An extraordinary occurrence reported is that in Kotwalipara a behejia (river gipsy) was killed by a flying corrugated-iron sheet, his head being severed from his body.

In no other district was the loss of human life so great as in Dacca. One thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight deaths were reported, of which 90 per cent were due to drowning. No less than 1,199 deaths occurred within Lohajang thana, most of them being residents on the chars of the Padma. The people had taken refuge on the roofs of their houses and were precipitated into the water when the houses were smashed by the force of the waves. For days afterwards passengers by the Goalundo-Narainganj mail steamer met the gruesome spectacle of many dead bodies floating in the river. By some set of the current many other corpses were thrown up on the river bank at Lohajang where, on a stretch of land about 5 miles in length, 550 corpses were found and buried. Other deaths occurred in the bil areas of Srinagar and Nawabganj thanas and were due to the sites of the houses being swept away by storm waves. The weather during the day of the 24th was boisterous and most boats were tied up for the night; but many were carried away from their anchorage and dashed on the shore or overturned in the stream. One family in a village of Nawabganj thana took refuge in their boat at their ghat from their falling houses. The boat was carried off into the Dhaleswari and most of the family drowned. There were instances of marvellous escapes. One man was carried away by the current from Mewa char opposite to Lohaganj; he lost consciousness and recovered to find himself washed up 5 miles away in Bahar bazar, having been carried across the Padma, several village sites and a bil. The vagaries of the current gave rise to such anomalies as people starting on the same roof finding themselves separated and carried some up and some down stream.

In Tippera district 30 persons were drowned and 10 killed by falling houses or trees. A lady going home for the Pujas with her children, her father and servants, nine persons in all were drowned in the Meghna; only the two boatmen and a maidservant were saved.

In Mymensingh the number killed was 123, of whom about one-half were drowned and the remainder crushed under falling trees or buildings.

(b) Loss of cattle.

14. The total number of cattle reported to have been killed in the cyclone was 38,951. Most of the deaths were due to drowning and occurred on the banks of rivers and bils. Some cattle also were killed by trees falling on the cowsheds.

15. A mature cow is worth about Rs. 40 and a bullock about Rs. 50. Making allowance for young or worn-out stock and for the fact that, in Khulna, goats were included with cattle, the average value per head may be taken as Rs. 10 or 11, and the total loss due to destruction of cattle may be estimated roughly at 4 lakhs of rupees.

16. The heaviest mortality was in Khulna where 28,029 cattle were reported to have been killed. These figures include goats; but it may be estimated that about 14,000 cattle perished. The mortality was greatest in Rampal, Morrelganj, Dakop, Paikgacha and Shyamnagar where many people, fearing the subsidence of the sheds, let loose their cattle and they were drowned in the floods. For many days after the cyclone the rivers in the south of the district were teeming with corpses of cattle.

In Bakarganj district 970, and in Jessore 484 cattle were killed. Nearly all the deaths were due to falling trees, very few to drowning.

In Faridpur the number of cattle lost was 3,639. On the chars and in the bi areas where the greatest human mortality occurred, there also the largest number of cattle perished.

Five thousand five hundred and thirty head of cattle were killed in Dacca district. On the Padma chars practically all the cattle were swept away and drowned. The total number drowned in the whole district was about 4,000.

Only 12 cattle in Tippera district were reported to have been killed. All the deaths were caused by falling trees.

Mymensingh district lost 732 cattle. In Mitamain and Tarail, where the fields were under deep water, most of the deaths were due to drowning. In other places most of the casualties were caused by falling trees.

17. In Appendix B, a statement will be found showing the loss of human life and of cattle, district by district and subdivision by subdivision.

SECTION III.—Other damages.

(a) Private Buildings.

18. Residential buildings were destroyed wholesale. The bulk of the raiyats' houses are kutchas, with thatched or corrugated iron roofs. When even masonry structures were blown down it would have been a matter for surprise that any kutchas houses were left standing, were it not for the dense growth of trees and bushes by which most of them were screened from the wind. It is not possible to express in figures the number, and still less the value, of the buildings blown down. Local officers were asked to report the number of dwelling houses and shops demolished in each subdivision, and the figures given by them will be found in Appendix B. No great reliance can be placed in those figures, for it is known that some officers reckoned cowsheds, kitchens and other out-houses as separate buildings, and, while some included even houses only partially unroofed as demolished, others omitted all except houses which had entirely or almost entirely lost their walls and their roofs. For instance, the local officers in Narail subdivision at first reported that 66,357 houses had been demolished. The Collector pointed out that the population of the area affected was about 216,000, that the average number of persons per house was about 5 and that probably not more than 60 per cent. of the dwelling houses had been demolished. The local officers were therefore ordered to revise their reports, and their final estimate is that 14,152 dwelling houses and shops were demolished. It is of course true that the reconstruction of an out-house involves expense, but such expense is far less than when a dwelling house has to be rebuilt. Instead of relying on imperfect figures, an idea of the damage suffered can best be conveyed by a general descriptive account.

19. In the most affected parts of Khulna district scarcely a single kutchas house was left standing, and several entire bazars were levelled to the ground. At Bagerhat and other places substantial pucca pillars were torn out and thrown down.

Bakarganj suffered less severely, but thousands of houses lost their roofs and many were damaged beyond repair.

In Narail subdivision the raiyats in Naraganti, Kalia, Alfadanga and Lohagara thanas lost at least 75 per cent. of their buildings of all kinds. The bazars at Naraganti, Kalia, Bandia, Dighalia, Lakhipasha, Chachuri-Purulia and Siddhipasha were badly shattered.

The Collector reports that, in the affected area of Faridpur, practically all the thatched huts and corrugated iron sheds were either levelled to the ground or torn till only the posts were left standing. In the bil areas of Gopalganj, especially, the scene of devastation was almost indescribable.

In Dacca district the Collector estimates that about 50 per cent. of the *rai*yats' dwelling houses were unroofed or blown down. The chars in Lohajang thana were completely denuded of houses by the storm waves. In other places much damage was done by falling trees, and corrugated iron sheets were often either blown away or so twisted as to be useless. Even masonry buildings suffered severely. No more striking proof of the extreme violence of the storm could be offered than the demolition of the substantial pucca godowns of Messrs. Birkmyre Brothers and Messrs. R. Sim & Co. at Narayanganj. One godown of the latter firm had walls buttressed by brick pillars 2½ feet square, with a skeleton of cast iron, and sunk 4 feet in the ground; yet not only the walls but also all the pillars were blown down.

The Narayanganj Chamber of Commerce has not been able to furnish estimates of damage because some of the members prefer that such information should be kept confidential. The Collector estimates roughly that the loss caused by the cyclone to jute firms in Dacca amounted to 15 lakhs and in Narayanganj to ₹50 lakhs of rupees.

In the affected parts of the Tippera district no damage was done to masonry buildings, but most of the *kutch*a houses with corrugated iron or tin roofs were blown down or unroofed. The Deputy Superintendent of Police counted some 400 fallen houses in a sample area of one square mile.

In the worst affected parts of Mymensingh most of the houses were blown down, and in other parts no village entirely escaped injury. The unfortunate people had to take refuge under collapsed roofs or any other remnants of their houses which could be propped up to give some shelter.

20. With the subsidence of the buildings, furniture and utensils were smashed, clothes and other property were blown away and completely disappeared and stocks of grain, seeds and other produce were greatly reduced in value or entirely spoilt by the rain. One of the heaviest items of this kind of loss was the damage done to bundles of jute waiting to be sold. Much good quality fibre was reduced to the class of "rejections." *Rai*yats keep their own stocks of seed of most of the rabi crops, and the loss of these seeds was a serious matter, because traders who had stocks immediately raised their prices. District officers have had estimates made of the loss sustained by the damage to property kept in houses; but where conditions vary so greatly from house to house, it is a practical impossibility to make reliable estimates. It seems better to avoid quoting figures which may only give misleading impressions and to state simply that the damage was enormous and amounted to many lakhs of rupees.

(b)—Public Buildings.

21. The damage done to public buildings of all kinds was exceptionally severe, probably because many of them occupy conspicuous and exposed positions.

22. In Khulna 14 post offices, 19 dispensaries, 2 veterinary dispensaries, 14 forest offices and 13 inspection bungalows were damaged. The police lines at Khulna and Bagerhat were wrecked and many thana buildings completely demolished. The total cost of cyclone repairs to police buildings is estimated at Rs. 3,81,300. In the jail and the excise buildings also very extensive repairs will have to be carried out. The damages to such public offices as kanungos', tahsildars' and sub-registry offices will be borne by Government, while the District Board has to provide Rs. 11,150 for repairs to dispensaries, Rs. 2,900 for inspection bungalows, besides grants for Board schools and aided schools and repairs to roads. The Khulna Municipality also has to repair its buildings at an estimated cost of Rs. 2,500.

In Bakarganj district public buildings did not suffer very much, except at Pirojpur, where several *kutch*a, and a few pucca houses were damaged. The heaviest losses fell on the village primary schools and on the Police Department. In the northern thanas of the district many mosques or jumaghars and temples were demolished and images of the goddess Durga were shattered with the fall of the temples.

Several police buildings in Narail subdivision were levelled to the ground, and others were badly damaged; the total cost of reconstruction and repairs is estimated at Rs. 19,400. Schools, post-offices, dispensaries, inspection bungalows, etc., also suffered just as in other districts.

In Faridpur the cost of repairs to buildings of the Public Works Department is estimated at Rs. 7,300, of the Police Department at Rs. 20,900, of the District Board at Rs. 4,900 and of the Khas Mahal Department at Rs. 7,700. Three Munsifs' courts at Chikandi and the subdivisional offices at Gopalganj were blown down. Schools suffered severely and so also did the kutcha mosques of the Muhammadans.

The severity of the storm in Dacca district can be judged from the fact that for 155 buildings maintained by the Public Works Department, nearly all of which are pucca or semi-pucca, the average damage was Rs. 1,300 per building. The roofs of Government House and of the staff quarters were blown off and the porch collapsed, while servants' quarters, out-offices, hospitals, etc., were laid flat with the ground. The avenues and many other fine trees which adorned the new and the old cities were overthrown and, in falling, did immense damage to electric light, telegraph and telephone wires as well as to houses and to compound walls. The Military Police officers' quarters and married men's lines at the Pilkhana were shattered and so were also the semi-permanent civil court buildings at Munshiganj. At Singair, where the thana buildings had only been constructed a year before, brick-nogged walls were badly cracked. Repairs to Public Works Department buildings and electric installations in Dacca district alone are estimated to cost Rs. 2,16,000 besides Rs. 65,000 required for repairs to buildings maintained by the Police Department. No less than 96 post offices were demolished and 66 badly damaged. The District Board fared worst of all; all the 16 inspection bungalows in the district were damaged more or less, and the out-houses of the Sabhar bungalow which had only just been completed, were totally wrecked. Five dispensaries will have to be rebuilt at a cost of Rs. 31,000; Rs. 10,000 will be required for repairs to the remaining 15 and the replacement of medicine destroyed will cost Rs. 5,000 more.

In some parts of Tippera district, the residences of Government officers and public buildings, such as thanas, schools, dispensaries, sub-registry offices and post-offices were damaged, but not to a very serious extent.

At several places in Mymensingh district most of the public buildings were wrecked. This was very noticeable at Gafargon, Iswarganj, Barhatta, Kendua, Netrakona, Kishorganj and Bajitpur. The repairs to Public Works Department buildings are estimated to cost about Rs. 13,000 and buildings maintained by the Police Department Rs. 83,000. The damage to dispensaries and inspection bungalows will cost the District Board Rs. 30,000.

A special feature of the cyclone is the enormous number of school buildings which suffered serious damage. The extent of the loss can be gauged from the following figures which have been carefully revised by the Inspectors of Schools :—

District			Number of primary schools damaged	Minimum cost of repairs	Number of middle schools damaged	Minimum cost of repairs
				Rs.		Rs.
Dacca	1,901	1,17,980	87	38,639
Mymensingh	483	84,576	87	36,000
Faridpur	1,395	44,000	56	27,219
Bakarganj	391	18,134	69	11,989
Khulna	} Separate figures not supplied.
Jessore

		Total	...	6,85,127

The above are all boys' schools. In Dacca Division 282 girls' schools were also damaged and the cost of repairs is estimated at Rs. 16,333.

24. Towards the cost of reconstructing and repairing the school buildings Government has sanctioned liberal grants, and the District Boards have given special grants to the schools aided by them. The local people are expected to contribute the remainder of the cost, which will probably be not less than 3 lakhs of rupees. For unaided primary schools, of which there are large numbers, it has not been possible to give any grant from State or District Board funds, but to assist the local people in restoring their primary school buildings, the Central Cyclone Relief Committee has given a special grant of Rs. 60,000 and smaller grants have also been made from district relief funds.

(c) Communications.

25. Extensive damage was suffered by the Bhairab-Mymensingh Railway. A large percentage of the stations and staff quarters was blown down. These were only temporary structures; but the force of the wind was so great that it capsized two trains and overturned many wagons stabled at wayside stations. Most of the pontoons and landing stages of the wagon ferry at Bhairab were sunk, and damaged. Two of the steamers were also sunk of which one has been refloated, but the other became a complete wreck. Traffic across the river from Bhairab to Ashuganj was stopped for a month, and the train services between Bhairab and Kishorganj were completely disorganized. The damages to this railway will cost about 3 lakhs of rupees. On the Bhairab-Tangi and Dacca-Mymensingh lines the damage to quarters and stations was less serious, but two wagons blown over at Dacca blocked the line for several hours, and the cutting of the embankment by storm waves made travelling from Narayanganj to Dacca very slow for some days. On the Khulna-Bagerhat line damage was done by storm waves cutting away the approaches to bridges; a jetty also fell into the river; but repairs will not be very expensive.

26. District Board roads were damaged by storm-waves in Khulna district, and it will cost Rs. 14,000 to repair them. The Madaripur Bil Canal was very severely damaged. The greater part of the embankment from Haridaspur to Gopalganj was washed away, and along the canal proper there are many breaches and scours in the embankments. Most of the buildings on the banks were unroofed and some boats were sunk. At Narayanganj a portion of the pucca embankment and several jetties were smashed by flats pounding against them. At Bhairab also the pucca embankment on which some godowns stood was destroyed. In the south of Khulna district large areas of rice land are protected by embankments, and it is estimated that the repair of the damage caused by the cyclone to these embankments will cost about Rs. 27,000. In Faridpur district the embanked road along the Madhumati was so extensively damaged that it will have to be entirely reconstructed. In Dacca town the Backland Bund, which is faced with brick and cement, was breached in several places and repairs will cost at least Rs. 6,000. The embanked road from Mirpur to Fulbaria was also severely damaged, and the District Board will have to spend Rs. 10,700 on repairs of this and other embanked roads. In Bakarganj the District Board road passing through the bil area was damaged to the extent of about Rs. 5,000.

27. The Director of Telegraph Engineering reports that—"This was the worst cyclone that ever affected the working of the telegraph lines. For miles and miles the telegraph and telephone lines were levelled to the ground. Rail posts were twisted round and broken; tubular masts 60 to 80 feet in height with sal supports were destroyed beyond recognition. One of the rail masts, 90 feet high, near Narayanganj was twisted round and broken in two. The section of line between Manikganj and Dacca suffered the most. The entire length was brought down by the storm and covered by large fallen trees. To aggravate the situation this section was inundated to a height of 3 to 4 feet. The main lines between Dacca and Baider Bazar practically suffered the same fate. Similar damage was done in the Barisal and Khulna districts. The entire telephone systems at Dacca and Narayanganj were practically levelled to the ground; the exchange at Dacca was unroofed. Two cables across the Meghna near Baider Bazar failed during the storm; so did the cables at Narayanganj and near Munshiganj. The failure of the cables is attributable to their having been dragged by the anchors of boats and steam launches that were sunk during the storm. This is the principal damage done to the lines of the Dacca Division. As a matter of fact, 80 per cent. of the total mileage of lines and wires was down."

28. The officers of the Telegraph Department rose to the occasion, promptly organized parties to make temporary arrangements and, by dint of unsparing toil under conditions of great difficulty, communication between Dacca and Comilla was restored by midday on the 1st October, and all lines were working again by the evening of the 8th. The restoration of the telegraph and telephone lines cost the department over Rs. 20,000 in cash and about Rs. 50,000 in stores. The replacement of the cables that failed will involve a further expenditure of Rs. 40,000.

(d) River Craft.

29. An enormous amount of damage was done by wind and waves to river craft. Vessels of all kinds, large and small, owned by Indians and Europeans, suffered equally. Omitting boats which were refloated without serious damage it is reported that altogether 11,999 boats were irretrievably lost or so shattered that they could not be used again without being repaired at considerable expense. The greatest loss naturally fell on the India General Navigation Railway and Rivers Steam Navigation Companies; but to hundreds of petty traders and boat owners the cyclone must have caused the loss of practically all they had in the world. Many of the country boats lost were of considerable capacity and contained valuable cargoes of jute, rice, and other commodities. It would be impossible to obtain a reliable estimate of the total losses, and no useful purpose would be served by an attempt to express them in figures.

3. At Khulna, at the point where the three rivers join, the S.S. "Arjuna" sank. Eleven lives and all the cargo were lost. The flat "Bellona" sank in the Sundarbans. Six other steamers and 9 flats were badly grounded and 7 steamers and 14 flats suffered damage to vessels and cargoes. All of the above belonged to the two big river steamer companies. In addition, other companies also lost or sustained damage to their steamers and flats. The country boats irretrievably lost numbered 1,269, of which no less than 800 were in Khulna thana, where the steamer companies also incurred the greatest part of their loss.

In Bakarganj 25 large native cargo boats and 66 smaller boats sank. One of these was a boat carrying 1,000 maunds of salt which was lost near Gaurnadi and another sank near Barisal with 200 maunds of rice.

In Narail subdivision 68 country boats sank; some of them were recovered, but their cargoes, which were mostly rice and paddy, were lost.

In Faridpur district one flat loaded with Burma rice was sunk near Palong and some 22 other flats at various places were damaged. The S.S.

"Vayu", conveying piece-goods and sugar, was wrecked near Naraganti. One thousand three hundred and twenty-two cargo boats with property valued at 2½ lakhs of rupees were lost. It may be mentioned that the Collector has taken special care regarding these statistics and has excluded all boats which were subsequently recovered or which had no cargo. In the bil area of Gopalganj subdivision over 900 out of 1,200 boats sunk were recovered and made serviceable again.

Of the shipping owned by the India General Navigation and Railway and Rivers Steam Navigation Companies at Narayanganj, 6 flats were sunk, 11 were unroofed and 12 others took in water by which the cargoes were damaged. Three of the jetties at Narayanganj Railway Station were practically destroyed and pontoons sunk. Boats of all sizes were piled up against them by the wind, the effect being to crush the jetty girders which collapsed. Half of the roof of the Steamer Company's flat "Tegra" was lifted bodily by the wind, and blown over the station buildings and the railway tracks and deposited on a vacant space without doing any damage in its flight. A small country boat caught fire in the Sitalakhya khal and the fire spread to two jute-laden flats which broke from their moorings and were driven against the boat and close to a bungalow which was also burnt. The blaze attained great proportions, and ultimately the flats had to be sunk to prevent the fire spreading further. Every flat in the river at Narayanganj was damaged by collision either with other flats or with masonry structures on shore. The "Ganges" had her bows staved in and the "Rajkot" a hole 11 feet long in her side. The flats "Passar" (coal-laden) and "Puddah" (jute-laden) were driven first from Gopchar, where their moorings broke into the Sitalakhya khal. Here they collided with the "Nudwa" (flat) and drove her through two of Messrs. M. David & Co.'s jetties. These are made of teak wood (solid 14 inches square). The "Nudwa" was finally driven into the verandah of the Company's assorting shed; her name-plate and chapper being left plastered on the wall of the factory. With a change of the wind the "Passar" and "Pudda" were carried clear of the khal and stranded on the east bank of the Lakhya by the Angus Press. Sitalakhya point, jutting out into the face of the storm, was a natural landing place for wreckage and in the morning the flats "Rajkot," "Hilsanari," "Nudwa," a Bengal and Assam Company's barge, the "Tumsar" and many smaller craft were stranded on it.

In other parts of Dacca district the Steamer Companies sustained the following damages; viz:—15 flats, 3 steamers, 9 barges, 1 steam launch and 1 pontoon damaged, one steamer sank. The SS. "Bombay" had a very bad experience. The second serang was blown away with the cabin on the upper deck in which he was sleeping and no trace of him was ever found. The steamer grounded about 5 miles above Lohajang and up till February it had not been possible to refloat her. At Dacca four launches were sunk, including the "Diana" of the Police Department, and 5 launches owned by jute firms were sunk at Narayanganj. The number of country boats sunk with cargoes is reported as 7,513 for the whole district, of which more than a third were in Narayanganj subdivision. The number would have been greater but for the fact that the foul weather during the day warned the boatmen to take shelter before the storm assumed serious proportions.

About 60 boats are reported to have been lost in Tippera district, but probably many of these were recovered. At Ajabpur, on the Meghna, a steam launch and 7 boats laden with jute sank.

Four flats laden with jute were sunk at Bhairab. In the whole of Mymensingh district, the number of country boats sunk while conveying jute, rice and other goods is reported as 1,425; but this probably includes some which were empty or were not lost beyond recovery.

31. It was at first reported that raiyats had suffered much loss by jute, which was steeping in the rivers, being carried away by storm waves. On enquiries being made it was found that the amount of jute lost in this way was comparatively insignificant, and most of it was ultimately recovered. The storm waves did, however, carry away not only steeping jute but also bundles and bales of jute. Some persons gained and some lost. There were many disputes ; but a bundle of jute is not an article that can be identified with certainty.

(e) Standing crops and trees.

32. The only jute still standing at the time of the cyclone was the portion left for seed. This was a total loss ; for all the seed was blown away. Fortunately, the largest seed-producing areas were not within the area severely affected by the cyclone ; but the demand for seed this year will be so much greater than usual that there may be a shortage in some places. The Agricultural Department has arranged for a considerable stock to supply the needs of those who lost their seed crop and cannot get good seed in the market. The areas where it seems likely that there will be the greatest need for seed are Mollahat in Khulna, Gopalganj subdivision, Sibchar in Madaripur ; Harirampur and Singair in Manikganj subdivision ; Rungganj thana and other places on the banks of the Lakhya.

33. The cyclone occurred at a time when the paddy crop was generally well established and able to stand rough treatment. There was only one variety in flower at the time, which was the early variety of broadcast paddy usually known as Lakhidigha. The damage done to this variety was very great ; perhaps as much as 75 per cent. of the crop was lost ; but fortunately the area occupied by this variety is very small in comparison with the later kinds of aman.

34. The rain and the flood caused severe damage to late transplanted paddy in Khulna ; but in other parts of the district the crop was improved by the sweet water. In Bakarganj there was no appreciable damage, and the cyclone was very beneficial to the paddy crop, both transplanted and broadcast. Faridpur district and Narail subdivision produce only the broadcast varieties of paddy. The storm uprooted and carried away a large portion of the crop in the bila and, where the land was higher, damage was done by masses of water-hyacinth and other weeds being driven on to the paddy which they choked and killed. So far as Narail and Gopalganj subdivisions are concerned, the paddy crop is reported to have proved light in the ear, and the subdivisional officers estimate the damage caused by the cyclone at a half of the paddy crop. These estimates seem however to be somewhat pessimistic. In the other subdivisions of Faridpur less damage was done, and the crop was not much below normal. In Dacca district some broadcast paddy in bil land was uprooted ; but the crop in those areas is always precarious, and in Bil Belai the raiyats reaped the best crop they have had for a decade. North of the Dhaleswari where transplanted paddy is grown the crop was benefited greatly by the rain which accompanied the cyclone. In Tippera the little damage to broadcast paddy was more than compensated by the gain to the transplanted crop. In Mymensingh even broadcast paddy was improved on the whole, for rain had been badly needed ; and to transplanted paddy the gain was very great.

35. On the whole the outturn of paddy appears to have been at least as good as it would have been if the cyclone had not occurred.

36. The cyclone caused great havoc among trees. According to custom, the raiyat is entitled to the fruit of a tree, but the timber belongs to the landlord. The destruction of fruit trees is a loss to the raiyat which it will take many years to replace. Few date and cocoanut palms were blown down, but many supari (betel-nut) trees fell or were broken and killed. In those parts of Khulna, Bakarganj and Jessore districts where the storm was most intense it is estimated that at least one-half of the supari trees were destroyed, and in some places entire groves were swept to the ground. The loss of the betel-nuts and cocoanuts blown away by the wind fell heavily on poor raiyats who at that time of the year depend on the sale of fruit to buy their daily food. In the northern half of Dacca district raiyats rely largely on the sale of jack fruit to pay their rent. Though, perhaps, not more than 10 per cent. of the jack fruit trees were blown down, even that is a serious matter for the raiyats and their landlords.

37. The pan (betel leaf) plantations represent the most costly form of cultivation in the province. These rows and lines of carefully nurtured creepers, on their slender supports, lightly screened above and around, were thrown violently to the ground and most of the plants were killed. Excepting those in specially sheltered positions, the cyclone spared hardly any and the loss inflicted was enormous. Fortunately the barois, who carry on this form of cultivation, are better able than most classes of the community to bear a heavy loss.

38. The raiyats were deprived of another valuable source of food by the wholesale destruction of plantain trees. Clumps of bamboos also suffered severely, most of them were broken, but many were even uprooted. Timber trees and trees of all kinds fell or were shattered and broken. Those that fell were very useful for the rebuilding of houses. In fact, the demand was so great in many places that for some days a single bamboo could not be bought for less than a rupee. In the gazari forests in the north of Dacca district it is estimated that from 10 to 20 per cent. of the trees fell. This however was no loss; for the forests needed thinning and the royalty on the fallen timber in the Bhawal Wards' estate alone is expected to yield 11½ lakhs of rupees. Not much damage was done to the Sundarbans forest, and it was mostly confined to trees on the water's edge. The blasting effects of the storm were shown by the leaves of the bamboos which still stood turning yellow. At many places, particularly Narayanganj, all the leaves were stripped off the trees; but never was the enormous recuperative power of nature shown more strikingly. Within 10 days the trees, even many of those which had fallen, had put on new leaves. Within a month a casual traveller would have found little in the general appearance of the country to make him realize that there had ever been a cyclone.

SECTION IV.—Organization of Relief.

(a) General conditions.

39. The situation created by the sudden destruction of houses and property was complicated by the economic conditions prevailing at the time. The already existing problems of providing food and clothing were greatly intensified and problems of providing shelter and preventing disease were added. Early in June the price of rice had begun to rise from causes connected with the war and failure of crops in India. So far as the agricultural population was concerned this was counterbalanced by the high prices ruling for jute (Rs. 14 to Rs. 20 per maund), so that, in spite of the dearness of cloth, kerosine oil, sugar and condiments, cultivators were sufficiently well off. The high prices bore most hardly on the industrial and middle class population with small incomes and, after these, on the landless labourers; these classes constitute considerable sections of the population, more particularly in the towns and in the subdivisions of Munshiganj and Madaripur.

40. Early in August it was apparent that supplies of rice were short and consequently prices rose enormously, probably a good deal more than the situation justified. This was met by the introduction of a system of importing rice from Burma to Calcutta and Chittagong, where it was bought by traders or agents approved by District Magistrates, conveyed by them to the districts and sold at controlled rates. Prices of common balam went up as high as Rs. 13, but gradually came down, as Burma rice got into the local markets, to between Rs. 9 and Rs. 10 per maund just before the cyclone. At various places committees had been formed to supply Burma rice at controlled retail prices to poor people; these committees did very useful work afterwards in connection with cyclone relief.

41. As already said, the prices of jute in the early part of the season were extraordinarily high, but traders were not inclined to take more than enough to cover their immediate requirements, and many raiyats also held back hoping for still bigger prices. Early in September, instead of rising, prices of jute suddenly fell by about 50 per cent. and have remained practically steady at about that level. Disappointed in their hopes of extraordinary profits, and no longer able to meet the enhanced cost of food and other commodities, the raiyats were crushed by the disaster of the cyclone, but without the very high prices prevailing in the early part of the jute season, their condition would have been far worse. It is calculated that the area under jute in the cyclone-affected tract is about 872,000 acres and that the crop obtained in 1919 was 136 lakhs of maunds, out of which the raiyats had, by the 31st December, sold 85 lakhs of maunds for about 8 crores of rupees, while 51 lakhs of maunds, worth about 255 lakhs of rupees, still remained in their hands (vide Appendix C).

42. With the collapse of the market, all jute business came to a standstill early in September and was not resumed to any extent until the end of November. Having nothing to sell except their jute, cultivators were pinched for money and credit was unobtainable. Money however was imperatively required to rebuild their houses and to buy food. For their relief it was necessary to distribute agricultural loans on a large scale. Still worse was the condition of non-cultivators, especially infirm people, widows and orphans. For these it was necessary to organise gratuitous relief in rice to keep them from starvation, in cash to help them to re-erect their houses and in cloth to enable them to appear decently in public. Something also had to be done for the preservation of life among professional beggars whose needs could not at such a time be met by private charity. For poor bhadralok some special form of relief had to be devised which would not expose their misery to the public and take away their self-respect. For the people in general who suffered from the cyclone and who could not afford to buy local rice it was necessary to make cheap Burma rice available at all the principal markets.

(b) Immediate Relief.

43. The cyclone had disorganized all telegraphic, postal, river, rail and road communications and in any case it was absolutely necessary to give some immediate relief before Government orders could be obtained. The District Officers rose to the occasion. The Collector of Dacca temporarily appropriated a fund of which he was trustee and distributed Rs. 70 in each of the 325 unions in the district. This relief was distributed within a week after the cyclone through gazetted officers, all of whom were actively employed on relief work throughout the Puja vacation. At the same time relief circles were formed and constituted the basis of the complete organisation subsequently developed.

On the 1st October Government gave by telegram carte blanche authority to all Collectors to do all that was essential to relieve distress. Unfortunately full advantage of this could not be taken immediately because the treasuries did not reopen for business until the 11th October. In the Madaripur and Gopalganj subdivisions of Faridpur district a network of relief committees was organized within a week after the cyclone by the Collector and Subdivisional Officers, enthusiastically supported by non-official gentlemen. The funds immediately necessary were procured by taking temporary advances from loan banks and the District Board.

In Mymensingh the Collector came to the conclusion that the most important and urgent need was to bring down the price of rice while at the same time he gave relief in cases of destitution. The energies of the district staff were concentrated chiefly on measures to make Burma rice available at a low uniform price throughout the district. Money was borrowed from a Court of Wards estate, and rice was taken on credit from importers at Bhairab.

The District Board of Khulna made a grant of Rs. 5,000 with which rice, dal and salt were bought and supplied for sale at police and forest stations. Rice and cash were also given away gratuitously in necessitous cases. Some relief committees were constituted in those early days and were followed by the formation of local committees of the Bengal Relief Fund on the 8th and 9th October.

The Subdivisional Officer made a tour throughout the affected area of Narail subdivision immediately after the cyclone and formed ten relief committees, each of which realized local subscriptions and gave doles of rice.

to the most necessitous cases. Unfortunately the Officiating Collector was ill and the Subdivisional Officer's reports were not communicated to Government nor was any action taken on them until the permanent Collector (Mr. Mancoch) returned from leave on the 20th October. In Bakarganj district the Collector received contributions of Rs. 200 from the Bidyasagar Memorial Fund and of Rs. 150 from the Bengal Relief Fund. This money was distributed through Government officers and missionaries working in the affected tract. In Tippera district a grant of Rs. 3,000 was made from a relief fund previously inaugurated by Mrs. K. C. De and with this money rice and cloth were distributed through Subdivisional Officers.

44. From the 4th to the 11th October the Hon'ble Mr. J. G. Cumming, Member of the Executive Council, Bengal, toured in the districts of Mymensingh, Dacca, Faridpur and Khulna. He saw the damage done by the cyclone, inspected the relief measures already at work and discussed with local officers the lines on which the further relief still required should be given. On returning to Calcutta he drew up a note of instructions to me containing a complete scheme of relief organization. Mr. Cumming's visit had greatly encouraged the local officers, inspired them with confidence and helped them with advice as to methods of organization. A copy of his instruction to me was also sent to each Collector. On my return from leave on the 10th October I was placed in general charge of all relief operations in Dacca Division and subsequently also in Khulna and Jessore districts. In Tippera district the relief work remained under the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division.

45. On the 3rd October an appeal over the signature of His Excellency the Governor of Bengal was issued for help to the people in distress owing to the cyclone and on 15th October a meeting was held to inaugurate the Cyclone Central Relief Committee, of which His Excellency became president.

46. The Hon'ble Mr. Cumming was Chairman of the Executive Committee which administered the Cyclone Relief Fund, and he also superintended the relief provided from State funds. Throughout the operations I received from him constant instructions and advice and am greatly indebted to him for help and encouragement.

(c) Systematic Organisation.

47. The first step in the development of systematic operations was to divide the whole of the affected area into relief circles, each of which was placed under a Circle Relief Officer, assisted by one or more other officers according to the size and importance of the circle. To co-ordinate relief work and prevent overlapping, non-official relief agencies were persuaded, as far as possible, to take entire responsibility for the relief of entire unions. Circle Relief Officers were instructed and supervised by Subdivisional Officers who, in their turn, were directed and inspected by the Collector. The relief circles formed in each district are recorded in Appendix D.

48. Within each circle various committees were formed to assist the Circle Relief Officer with information, to prepare lists of persons in need of the various forms of relief and to distribute gratuitous relief under the supervision of the Circle Relief Officer. Where the system was fully developed a relief committee was formed for each union and was constituted with the members of the union committee and panchayat as the nucleus and additional members co-opted or appointed for the purpose. The members of any non-official relief agency working in the union were asked to join the union relief committee. Throughout Dacca district, the Sadar and Bagerhat subdivisions of Khulna and in Narail subdivision, union relief committees were formed. Thana relief committees were established in Faridpur district and also subsidiary committees, but the latter did not take the local panchayat as their nucleus nor was there a separate relief committee for each union. The main work of thana relief committees in Khulna and Faridpur was to arrange for the distribution and sale of supplies of Burma rice. In Mymensingh little, and in Tippera and Bakarganj no help was received from local committees, but relief lists were prepared by presidents or tahsil panchayats. In all districts it was the duty of the Circle Relief Officer to check in each union the relief lists prepared by the local agency, to see that they were not only complete but also that they did not include persons to whom relief should not be given and that the form of relief recommended in each was appropriate to the circumstances. When the Circle Relief Officer had checked the relief lists and ordered the form and amount of relief to be given to each person, one day in the week was notified on which relief was distributed according to the sanctioned list. All disbursements were entered in a relief statement in form E-1 and in a ticket given to the recipient in form E-2. It was the duty of the Circle Relief Officer to arrange to furnish the relief committees with the necessary supplies of cash, rice and cloth for the weekly distributions. The Circle Relief Officers reported their requirements to the subdivisional officer who informed the Collector. The number of official relief committees formed in each district is shown in Appendix E.

49. The preparation and checking of relief lists took a long time because the officers deputed to relief work were inadequate in number, and many of them were juniors and strangers to the district. People could not be left without food or shelter; so, in the beginning relief was disbursed as well as it could be done on the basis of unchecked lists.

50. During the Puja vacation all available executive officers were employed solely on relief work, but when the courts reopened the ordinary work of administration had to be carried on and a special corps of relief officers had to be organised from officers deputed from the Settlement, Co-operative, Agricultural and Excise Departments and from other districts. Ultimately 38 sub-deputy collectors, 14 kanungos, 12 co-operative department officers, 46 agricultural officers and 5 excise officers joined for relief work; but many of the sub-deputy collectors and kanungos did not join until November.

51. To provide Circle Relief Officers with the necessary supplies of rice, cloth and seeds depôts were established at the places mentioned in Appendix F.

52. To convey materials to the depôts and from depôts to distributing centres, boats were hired or borrowed and launches were employed to tow them. For this purpose and to enable the superior officers to travel quickly when inspecting and directing relief work 12 large Government launches and 12 river police patrol launches were placed at my disposal and allotted to Collectors and other officers according to their needs.

(d) Relief from private funds supplementing State relief.

53. The principles determining the division between the relief to be given from State funds and that to be provided by public charity were laid down by the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming in a memorandum which was adopted by the Executive Committee of the Cyclone Central Relief Fund. The conclusion arrived at is briefly as follows:—

"While Government will pay for gratuitous relief to the absolutely needy, for the cloth which is given free to the needy, for the initial purchase of rice supplies which are specially imported by Government and sold at cheap rates and for any loss thereon, for loans for all purposes to agriculturists, for all the incidental charges and for most of the transport charges, and while District Boards may pay for all the medical help required, charitable relief funds should meet the charges of all that is given beyond these Government contributions and of all that is given to persons other than the recipients of Government relief."

SECTION V.—Gratuitous relief in rice.

54. Food was provided for those unfortunate people on chars who lost their all, for widows and orphans and for adults too ill or infirm to work and having no earning member in the family and no other means of support. Some provision also had to be made for professional beggars, but as soon as it became apparent that this class were again able to look after themselves, they were excluded. So far as possible gratuitous distribution was made in the form of weekly doles of Burma rice, but in some parts of Dacca district where the relief agency was insufficient to cope with the heavy task of providing weekly doles in every union, persons under relief were given orders for free supply of specified quantities of rice from specified depôts.

55. The standard scale of distribution was $3\frac{1}{2}$ seers of rice a week for an adult and 2 seers for a child; but variations were made according to local circumstances. The minimum was $\frac{1}{2}$ seer and the maximum $\frac{1}{2}$ seer per head per diem.

56. Doles were continued in most places up to the 13th December when a final distribution was made, thus combining cyclone relief with Peace celebration. Where the winter rice crop is early, all relief work terminated at the end of November, but in a few small areas doles had to be continued until the end of December. Doles were distributed by union relief committees at weekly parades and care was taken to deliver at their doors the rice intended for pardanashin women and persons who were too ill or weak to attend the parade.

57. The total quantity of rice given for cyclone relief from State funds was 8,243 maunds, worth Rs. 59,268. The Central Relief Fund gave 27,475 maunds, worth Rs. 1,85,280. The amounts given by other funds are shown in statement XI. The amount given in each subdivision from State funds is shown in statement VII.

58. The free distribution of rice was the most indispensable form of cyclone relief. Owing to the care with which the work was done by relief agencies and the thoroughness of the supervision exercised by Collectors and Subdivisional Officers, not a single death from starvation has occurred in the area devastated by the cyclone.

SECTION VI.—Gratuitous relief in cash.

59. Gratuitous relief in cash was given to widows and infirm people who were unable themselves to rebuild their houses and had not means to pay for labour or material. It was not contemplated that the loss anyone had sustained would be made good, but the idea was to help everyone to put up at least one house where he and his family could get shelter from wind and weather. People joined together to help one another, and in this way thousands of houses were restored without any expense. Women and infirm men who could not take part in the work themselves required some money for replacing broken posts and for a little new thatch and a few annas for labour. At first it was thought that nothing less than Rs. 5 would be of any use for rebuilding a house, but it was found in actual experience that hundreds of houses had been rebuilt with only a grant of Rs. 2; instructions were then issued that cash grants should generally be limited to Rs. 2 or Rs. 3. In practice this was already being done, for the people who received grants of Rs. 5 to Rs. 7 had spent most of the money on food. The reason was that until November, District Officers and relief committees, not having sufficient Burma rice to satisfy the immediate needs of all the people in distress, had to give them money to bring rice in the local market. As soon as sufficient Burma rice was obtained cash relief ceased to be given except to those people who had not been able to restore a single dwelling-house to its previous condition. By the beginning of December it was estimated that 75 per cent. of the necessary houses had been restored. It is interesting to note that many people deferred the reconstruction of their houses till after the 17th December, the day on which many people believed, on the strength of the prophecy of a Professor Porta, that the whole world would be devastated by a cataclysm. On that day few people left their houses, but when it passed safely, they took up the work of rebuilding with renewed confidence.

60. The total amount distributed by the State in gratuitous cash relief was Rs. 2,14,935. The Central Relief Fund spent Rs. 2,14,935. The expenditure by other funds is shown in statement XI, and the expenditure in each subdivision from State funds is shown in statement IV.

Paddy-husking schemes.—At ordinary times poor widows in villages generally support themselves by paddy-husking. After the cyclone, it was found that in many villages no one required paddy-husking to be done, for every family was either doing its own husking or was living on the cheap Burma rice which is already husked. An excellent form of relief was to provide work for these poor widows in the form to which they are accustomed. The scheme followed was that an advance of about Rs. 150 was given to a president-panchayat or other person of similar standing. With this he purchased local paddy and distributed it among suitable widows for husking. For each maund of paddy they had to return to the president 22 seers of husked rice and they retained as their remuneration the surplus of 4 or 5 seers of husked rice. The president sold the 22 seers of husked rice and invested the proceeds in more paddy and so the scheme continued. Certain losses always occur in practice and when the market is falling, as it was on this occasion, the fund soon becomes exhausted. In Dacca district, where this form of relief had been practised on the occasion of previous calamities, paddy-husking schemes were taken up by many of the best presidents and gave a great deal of relief in a very economical way. The expenditure incurred in Dacca district was Rs. 5,537. Other districts were not previously acquainted with paddy-husking schemes and public spirited men to superintend such schemes are not readily found in rural areas.

Forest concessions.—For the rebuilding of houses the resources of the Sundarbans Forest Reserve were thrown open. From the 5th October any householder of the affected area was allowed to take free 50 kutcha maunds of golpatta for rethatching his houses. From the 25th November this concession was extended to 200 kutcha maunds of golpatta and 50 kutcha maunds of goran poles. The free issues made up to the 31st December were 346,300 maunds of golpatta worth Rs. 12,120, 13,000 maunds of goran and goran poles worth Rs. 1,800. The concession was of considerable value to raiyats living in the south of Khulna district.

SECTION VII.—Gratuitous gifts of clothing.

63. Ordinarily gifts of free cloth were restricted to absolutely destitute widows, orphans and infirm persons whose garments were so inadequate that they could not appear in public without shame. On the Padma coast, where the entire population was left destitute, the scale of distribution was wider. Some blankets were also added to the wearing apparel given away in that area and in certain parts of Khulna district. The demand for cloth was so great and so general that a somewhat severe standard had to be observed for this form of relief. The task of selection was performed by the union relief committees and other local committees, whose knowledge of the condition of the people in their areas could be utilized very advantageously. Their lists were subsequently checked by circle relief officers in the presence of the committee and of the general public.

64. Originally it had been intended to give relief by selling cloth at less than cost price to people who could afford to pay something but could not afford the market rates. It was, however, found practically impossible with the organization available to draw up, not only lists of persons who should get cloth free, but also separate lists of those who should get cloth at 40 per cent. below cost price. Concession sales were therefore abandoned and a more extended free distribution of cloth was decided upon. It is more satisfactory to give one cloth than two permits to buy at concession price, where there can be no assurance that the recipients will be able to use the permits in the manner intended. The change of policy in this respect is thought to have been beneficial.

65. The amount spent from State funds on cloth was Rs. 1,00,000 (see statement IX); the United Central Relief Fund contributed Rs. 1,00,000.

clothing and Rs. 1,571 on blankets and shirts. The amounts spent by other agencies are shown in statement XI.

SECTION VII.—Special relief of bhadralok.

66. The country devastated by the cyclone is the home of a very large number of families of highly respectable standing—in particular, the famous Vikrampur pargana was swept from end to end by the storm. Many of these families have fallen on bad times and are greatly impoverished. As soon as cyclone relief work was taken up systematically it was realized that special measures were necessary to ensure that relief should reach indigent bhadralok sufferers from the cyclone in such a form that their self-respect would not be destroyed. It was decided that people of this class should be granted loans without security or interest or bonds and that it should be left to their honour to repay the money when they could. Funds for this purpose were provided by the Central Relief Committee and similar action was taken by the Bengal Relief Fund Committee.

67. The method of selection usually adopted was the preparation of lists of distressed bhadralok families by the local relief committees, and the checking of those lists by the circle relief officer. All enquiries were made and relief given quietly and confidentially.

68. For this occasion the term "bhadralok" was held to include all persons of good social standing, Hindu or Muhammadan, belonging to higher strata of society than labourers, menials, cultivators and handicraftsmen. It was not exclusively a caste distinction nor one of occupation alone, but while caste and occupation did influence the decision to some extent, so far as Hindus were concerned, social standing and respectability were really the determining factors.

69. Relief was given only to bhadralok families whose houses had been destroyed, who had no land yielding any appreciable income and no resources except perhaps the precarious charity of friends or distant relatives.

70. The selection and the disbursement of relief to bhadralok was work requiring delicacy and tact. In every district it was the most difficult of all forms of relief. In Dacca Rai Sahib Lalit Mohan Sen, Exercise Superintendent, was placed on special duty solely for bhadralok relief. Being himself a member of a Vikrampur family and knowing the district thoroughly, the Rai Sahib was specially well qualified for this work. With the help of a special staff of assistants recruited by himself, by constant exercise of intelligence and tact, and by unsparing toil the Rai Sahib made a complete success of the bhadralok relief work of Dacca. In Faridpur also bhadralok relief was a big problem. Owing to the special care given to it by the Collector, the work was carried out in a most satisfactory manner. It is recorded by one circle relief officer that "no money was better spent and no help so gratefully received as these loans to bhadralok."

71. Recipients of this form of relief either signed receipts promising to repay the loans or signed their names on the back of the relief lists or on the application, the signatures being regarded as implied promises to repay.

72. The Cyclone Central Relief Committee has decided that all recoveries in any district on account of bhadralok loans shall be credited to a fund to be known as the District Relief Fund, of which the Collector will be trustee and from which grants will be made in the case of any future widespread calamity.

73. The total number of bhadralok families who took this special form of relief at the expense of the Central Relief Committee was 8,148 and the amount disbursed was Rs. 1,01,889. The amounts given in each district by the Central Relief Committee are shown in statement XI. Similar loans from the Bengal Relief Fund have been promised, but are not yet disbursed.

SECTION IX.—Provision of Cheap Rice.

74. The rice situation up to the time of the cyclone has been described in section IV. After the cyclone local rice markets got more or less out of hand. To regain control it was absolutely essential for the Collectors to have at their disposal adequate quantities of Burma rice. On the 28th September the Collector of Dacca telegraphed for 50,000 maunds on Government account and similar action was taken by other Collectors. Government also was quick to grasp the situation and to take action. Even before full information regarding the disaster had arrived the Director of Civil Supplies was given by telegram carte blanche authority to purchase and despatch by the most rapid means procurable, the rice required by the district officer of Dacca, Government undertaking to meet all expenses incurred. Five thousand maunds of Burma rice were despatched immediately via Goalundo to Lohajang. Unfortunately the capacity of the rail and steamer services between Calcutta and Eastern Bengal, which is always meagre, was greatly reduced and disorganised by the cyclone and was unequal to the strain imposed by the suddenly enhanced demand for food transport. Delivery from the docks in Calcutta also is a complicated and tedious process and efforts to accelerate it did not produce any very appreciable improvement; but officers of the railway and steamer companies responded with good will to requests of district officers for special facilities to be given to despatches of rice and, by dint of hard work on the part of all concerned, the necessary supplies were ultimately delivered in the affected districts.

75. The local rice market was extraordinarily sensitive. On the arrival of a consignment of Burma rice the prices of local rice at that place immediately fell, and when supplies of Burma rice were approaching exhaustion, prices of balam and local rice rose to heights previously inconceivable. In the month succeeding the cyclone balam sold at Rs. 14, Rs. 15, Rs. 18 and even at Rs. 22-8 per maund at places where Burma rice was not available; but the maintenance of a stock of Burma rice at Dacca and Narayanganj had the effect that balam there was generally below Rs. 11 and always below Rs. 11-8.

76. The Collector of Dacca was fortunate in enlisting the services of merchants who had not been engaged previously in the rice trade. They alone were willing to import Burma rice which, having to be sold at controlled rates, brought little or no profit and frequently involved much harassment. In addition to 50,000 maunds supplied by the Director of Civil Supplies, the Collector of Dacca obtained 63,170 maunds from private importers, and the total quantity sold by official agency in that district was 83,089 maunds. The sale of such a large quantity of cheap rice was itself an undertaking of great magnitude, and the relief it afforded to the general condition of the inhabitants of the district is beyond computation.

77. In Mymensingh the difficulty regarding supplies of Burma rice was largely solved by procuring through Bhairab traders large stocks of rice from Chittagong. For want of more suitable agencies, the cheap rice shops were managed chiefly by police officers. In Faridpur and Dacca districts depôts were opened, and arrangements for sale of cheap rice were made by circle relief officers and depôt officers, working in co-operation with relief committees. Not having any president panchayats and still less any union committees, Mymensingh district is greatly handicapped in dealing with matters of detail affecting the whole population.

78. The controlled retail price for Dacca district varied from 5½ to 5½ seers per rupee. This was arrived at by adding 12 annas to the ex-godown rate in Calcutta to cover wharfage dues, handling charges, wastage and freight. On this basis the landed price of "big mills special" came to Rs. 6-10. Importers were allowed a profit of 4 annas per maund and were required to sell the rice with bags at Rs. 6-14. The retail controlled prices were watched by the union relief committees and were generally adhered to except in some small outlying markets. In Faridpur the controlled price at first was Rs. 6-14, but was afterwards reduced to Rs. 6-4. The Collector and his Subdivisional Officers were active in pushing out Burma rice to hats where local prices were excessive. In Khulna local officers were slow in realising the necessity of seeing that cheap rice was actually on sale in the hats; but ultimately the Collector effectually impressed this point on the subdivisional and other relief officers with excellent and immediate results. The price fixed for Government rice was Rs. 6-4 up to the 19th November, after which date it was reduced to Rs. 5-10. Private importers were not tied down to a controlled rate, but the presence of large stocks of Government rice ultimately compelled them to sell at or below the Government prices.

79. The total quantity of rice taken up on Government account in each district and the manner of its disposal is shown in Statement VI: 2,12,970 maunds of rice were purchased for Rs. 14,34,266, including freight and all incidental expenses; 8,243 maunds were given away as gratuitous relief; 1,58,552 maunds were sold, partly in open market, partly to the Central Relief Fund and other non State relief agencies. The existence of a large surplus at the close of operations was unavoidable, for prices can only be controlled so long as reserve stocks are retained. The surplus would have been less but for delay in the arrival of consignments from Calcutta; but the balances are now being sold locally and in Calcutta where even now it is likely that the prices realized will be higher than those originally paid in Calcutta. In any event, the total loss will be small compared to the enormous benefit derived from the provision of cheap rice to the cyclone districts at the time of their greatest need.

SECTION X.—Agricultural Loans.

80. Government loans amounting to Rs. 12,55,09) were issued to agriculturists under the Loans Act (XII of 1884). They were usually granted only to persons who lost their houses or cattle in the cyclone, but in a few instances persons who had lost their boats, or stocks of grain or jute or whose paddy crops had been seriously damaged were included. Rules 19 to 25 of the Statutory Rules under the Agriculturists Loans Act were extended to the whole area under cyclone relief. Loans were issued only on the joint bond system to groups of co-villagers. In accordance with the instructions of the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming, the number of persons in a group was generally 10, but variations were allowed as, e.g., where there were only 6 applicants for loans in an isolated village. Loans for house-building were usually Rs. 10 per individual, but for the purchase of cattle or boats Rs. 20 was often granted and in exceptional cases Collectors sanctioned loans of Rs. 25, Rs. 30 and Rs. 35. The total number of persons to whom agricultural loans were granted was 120,942 and the average amount per head was Rs. 10-6 (vide Statement I).

81. The joint and several liability of the borrowers associated in a joint bond was impressed on the people and in places where the joint bond system was previously unknown the raiyats were at first reluctant to execute joint bonds; but where the system had been worked previously there was no hesitation and after a few days raiyats everywhere acquiesced. Loan officers were instructed to take care that in each group of borrowers a mathar or leading man of the village was associated. This will facilitate the recovery of the loans.

82. The interest chargeable on these loans is only $6\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum. The Collector of Khulna remarks that it was a curious anomaly that members of co-operative societies were not permitted to borrow from Government at $6\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., but had to borrow from their own banks at $15\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. This anomaly was removed in part of Dacca district by the Dacca Central Bank allowing members of affiliated societies to take Government loans; but the Munshiganj Central Bank refused to pass similar orders. It is reported that landlords' agents encouraged their tenants to apply for Government loans in order to facilitate the collection of rent.

83. The dates on which instalments of principal and interest are payable were fixed by Collectors with reference to the dates of the money-producing harvests. In jute-growing areas instalments have generally been made payable in November. It will be necessary to depute special officers for the recovery of loans in Khulna, Faridpur, Bakarganj and Dacca districts as instalments fall due.

SECTION XI.—Seed Loans.

84. In the cyclone large quantities of rabi seeds in raiyats' houses and local bazars were lost or destroyed and much of the remainder was so damaged by rain as to be 'useless for sowing. What was available was being sold at high prices. It became evident that unless large quantities could be imported from other places the sufferings of the people would be enhanced by a very poor rabi harvest. Many raiyats who bought bazar seed had to resow their fields and this accounted for a renewed demand late in the season.

85. With the approval of the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming, it was decided that the Director of Agriculture should import large quantities of rabi seeds to meet the shortage and to stop profiteering. The following quantities of seed were purchased in Calcutta at favourable rates from Messrs. Ralli Brothers :—

	Mds.		Mds.
Mustard	10,514	Mung	3,000
Matikalai	2,100	Mushur	6,150
Linseed	400	Green peas	750
Khesari	3,203	Barley	1,500
		Wheat	1,000

The seed left Calcutta on the 11th October in two flats and arrived at the main distributing centres—Narayanganj, Lohajang and Madaripur—with a rapidity in striking contrast to the delay invariably associated with consignments of Burma rice. Delivery was completed by the 19th October, and the quantities required for the seed depôts were despatched as rapidly as possible. Twenty-three seed depôts were opened in Dacca district, 7 in Faridpur, 11 in Bakarganj and 4 in Khulna. As soon as the cyclone occurred all agricultural officers on leave had been recalled and all officers from unaffected districts of Bengal were temporarily deputed to the affected area. Thus the entire strength of the department was for the time concentrated on the work of rabi seed distribution.

86. In consultation with the Hon'ble Member, it was decided that the methods adopted in the rabi seed distribution in Rajshahi in the preceding cold weather should be followed. Under that system loans of seed were given to cultivators on their individual security. Subsequently, finding that raiyats were no longer averse to taking cash loans on joint bonds, I gave instruction that, where possible, joint bonds should be taken for seed loans also. Where joint bonds were insisted on, it was found that raiyats soon ceased to object. When the time comes for realization of loans, money due on joint bonds can be recovered more quickly and with far more certainty than loans on individual security. In Bakarganj 328 and in Faridpur 502 joint bonds were executed. Although the circle relief officers were instructed to generally supervise seed loan work in addition to all other relief work in their circles, seed loan work was generally left to agricultural officers who were empowered to grant such loans. Under my personal instruction, the circle relief officer of the Padma Relief Circle in Dacca took over for two days the work of granting seed loans and was successful in introducing the joint bond system, which the seed loan officers had up till then considered to be impossible. The Rajshahi forms proved to be unsuitable in other respects also, notably in that they contained no place for entering the dates on which the loan is repayable. This defect was subsequently remedied by manuscript entries of the dates and by proclamation by beat of drum.

87. Seed loans were generally made repayable in one instalment in October 1920. To encourage prompt repayment, the Government of Bengal subsequently decided that on all seed loans repaid before the 31st March 1920 no interest would be charged. This is a valuable concession of which it is desirable that raiyats should take full advantage. Arrangements have been made for special officers to be deputed to recover seed loans during February and March.

88. When distribution commenced it soon became evident that the crop statistics on which estimates had been made of the quantities of seed necessary were far from being reliable. There was a great demand for khesari, and all stocks were quickly exhausted. Peas and mashur (lentils) were also greatly in demand in some places and the demand could not be met. Matikalai unfortunately arrived too late for sowing. Stocks of mustard were greatly in excess of requirements, and the areas under wheat, barley, mung and linseed are now known to be less than the estimates given in the statistics.

89. No seed was issued until its germinating power had been tested. All officers agree in reporting that the quality of the seed was excellent and far superior to that of bazar seed.

90. Some raiyats preferred to buy seed rather than take it on loan, and of course their wishes were met. The total value of seed sold was Rs. 2,928.

91. The total quantities of seed issued on loan and seed sold were—

		Mds.			Mds.
Mustard	...	2,527	Mushur	...	5,871
Matikalai	...	707	Green Peas	...	560
Linseed	...	80	Barley	...	940
Khesari	...	3,110	Wheat	...	455
Mung	...	1,016

The surplus stocks have been sent to Calcutta to be sold by the Director of Civil Supplies.

92. The number of raiyats to whom seed was given on loan or sold was 31,881. From this operation the raiyats derived enormous benefit in two ways: (1) they obtained seed at a time of great need when supplies were much less than requirements; (2) the local traders had to reduce their prices to those charged by the Agricultural Department and even in many cases to less.

93. The season has fortunately proved favourable, and the excellent crops now on the fields and being gathered will be a substantial relief to those who suffered in the cyclone.

94. Figures are given in statement II for seed loans in each subdivision and each district.

SECTION XII.—Medical and sanitary relief.

95. In Khulna district for a month after the cyclone malaria was prevalent; but there was no increase in mortality from diseases in general. In November and December cholera broke out in the southern parts of Satkhira subdivision affected by the cyclone, and dysentery in a serious form occurred in Dumuria, Rampal, Bagerhat and Kachra thanas. Fever had been virulent in 1918, when it accounted for 11,538 deaths in the two months, November and December. In 1919 it was still worse and in the corresponding two months it carried off no less than 13,212 people. In 1919 all classes of the population were affected, rich as well as poor, Europeans as well as Indians. It is therefore doubtful whether the increased virulence can be ascribed to the cyclone, though doubtless some fever cases were aggravated by exposure.

The District Board appointed 11 epidemic doctors and took steps to make temporary repairs and to replace medicines in dispensaries destroyed or seriously damaged by the storm. Honorary Lieutenant-Colonel Sarbadhicary, I.M.S., as president of the medical committee of the Bengal Relief Fund, sent three parties, each of two epidemic doctors liberally equipped with medicines, disinfectants and medical comforts. The Surgeon-General, Bengal, deputed five sub-assistant surgeons for epidemic duty and an assistant surgeon to supervise and co-ordinate the work of all the epidemic doctors. Dr. Roy, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, carried out a scientifically thorough anti-cholera disinfection campaign in the south of Satkhira subdivision. The District Board met all the expenditure for disinfection, medicines and medical comforts except what was provided by the Bengal Relief Fund and Rs. 1,000 granted by the Cyclone Relief Fund. To what extent the epidemics were due to the cyclone and what exactly is the measure of the good effects of the vigorous measures adopted are matters of uncertainty, but it is at any rate satisfactory to record that the epidemics had abated considerably by the end of December and the weekly mortality from cholera had fallen to 48, of which three-fourths occurred in areas not much affected by the cyclone.

96. In Bakarganj, Tippera, Mymensingh and Jessore districts no special medical or sanitary relief was required, as sickness and mortality were not in excess of the normal. In fact, in Narail subdivision the cyclone probably improved public health by thinning out the dense growth of trees and other vegetation in which most of the villages and houses were buried.

97. In Faridpur district there were slight outbreaks of cholera in Kotwalipara, Kasiani, Sibchar and Matbarerchar thanas, but no other mortality from disease due to the cyclone. The total mortality from all causes during October, November and December 1919 was far less than in 1918 and not much more than in 1917. A special staff was engaged to deal with any outbreak immediately on its being reported and to carry out such sanitation work as the people would submit to. The Surgeon-General, Bengal, deputed an assistant surgeon and three sub-assistant surgeons; the medical committee of the Bengal Relief Fund also sent three epidemic doctors with equipment of medicines, etc., and two temporary hospital assistants were engaged by the Civil Surgeon. Excluding the expenditure of the Bengal Relief Fund, the cost of the special measures carried out was Rs. 2,783, which was covered by a grant from the Cyclone Central Relief Committee.

98. In Dacca district, more than any other, there was reason to apprehend a serious epidemic. To prevent this occurring, officers of all departments combined their efforts and received most useful assistance from private individuals and representatives of the Bengal Relief Fund, the Ram Krishna Mission and other voluntary agencies. The personal interest and sympathy shown by the Collector (Mr. Lambourn) inspired everyone to do his utmost and was the most valuable asset of the relief organization. Mr. Lambourn's report is as follows:—

"Disposal of dead bodies.—Owing to the breakdown of communications information as to the extent of the mortality requiring special measures in particular places to prevent outbreaks of epidemic disease was slow in coming through. It was not until late on September 27th that information was received of heavy mortality in the neighbourhood of Lohajang and the growing accumulation of dead bodies and carcasses in that neighbourhood. Steps were immediately taken to collect domes and arrange for doctors to be sent to Munshiganj subdivision. It was difficult to find domes in Dacca, but on September 30th I was able to leave with three domes and some members of the Ram Krishna Mission for Lohajang. A beginning was made with the interment of bodies on that day.

"In section II I have already mentioned the numbers of dead bodies picked up on the banks of the river near Lohajang and a journey through the hil area in the vicinity on the night of 30th September convinced me that a large number of corpses lay entangled in the deep-water paddy and mainland as well as on the chars.

"I went to Goalundo on 1st October to procure domes and kodalties. Dr. Marsden, the Health Officer of Goalundo, gave me invaluable assistance in securing 13 more domes, who were despatched to Lohajang and arrived on the morning of the 2nd. On the 3rd October six more domes were despatched from Dacca and a few more later, making a total number at work in that neighbourhood 24. They were divided up into parties under volunteer workers and doctors deputed from Dacca and were employed for about three weeks in disposing of dead bodies and carcasses.

It was comparatively simple to clear up the vicinity of villages and river banks where dry land was available for interment, but difficulty was experienced in the case of bodies lying half exposed in shallow water in the hil over an area of 6 or 7 square miles and this accounts for the time taken.

The only other place in the district where it was considered advisable to despatch domes was to the hil area between Srinagar and Nawabganj. It was found, however, that most of the people drowned were local people whose bodies were recovered and disposed of by their relatives, leaving only the corpses of a few foreign boatmen to be dealt with.

On 30th September, four Sub-Assistant Surgeons were sent to Munshiganj subdivision with orders to report to the Subdivisional Officer at Lohajang. They were provided with cholera outfits. A fifth Sub-Assistant Surgeon was sent to Calcutta to fetch chlorinated lime and to wire to Kassuli for anti-cholera vaccine.

A further Sub-Assistant Surgeon was sent on 3rd October to Lohajang with cholera outfit and on the 5th October the Sub-Assistant Surgeon who had returned from Calcutta was sent to Lohajang with chlorinated lime. On the same day three Deputy Sanitary Commissioners and another medical officer of the Health Department arrived in the district and went to Lohajang. The staff deputed there with the addition of another Sub-Assistant Surgeon sent on the 6th were placed under the orders of the Deputy Sanitary Commissioners who divided areas to be protected between themselves. Subsequently the supernumerary medical officer of the Health Department left for Mymensingh and another Deputy Sanitary Commissioner was sent to the Lohajang area.

The result of the protection given in those areas was that suspected cases of cholera were quickly treated and disease generally was kept under control.

Special assistance was also given to the towns of Narayanganj and Dacca.

In Dacca where the streets were blocked by fallen trees and houses, preventing the removal of dead animals and refuse and the circulation of the night-soil carts, the services of convicts from the jail were placed at the disposal of the Health Officer and the municipality were able to get their sewage service going within 15 days.

In Narayanganj the District Board assisted in removing trees blocking the road to the trenching-ground. This municipality was caught by the cyclone when its funds were at a very low ebb owing to collection being deferred as the result of assessment appeals and Rs. 10,000 was lent to it by the firm of Messrs. Chamarla & Co. through the District Magistrate to enable the municipality to rebuild their sweeper lines and repair the damages to sanitary carts and losses of cattle required to maintain their sanitary services. Owing to the matter being urgent and the bank being closed, it was necessary to have recourse to private assistance.

In the third week of October it was decided to allocate the Deputy Sanitary Commissioners with their staffs of doctors in the following manner :—

- Dr. Sufi, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, Munshiganj subdivision, with five doctors under him ;
- Dr. Roy, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, Manikganj subdivision, with one doctor under him ;
- Dr. Brahmachari, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, Sadar and Narayanganj, with one doctor under him.

By the end of October all the three Deputy Sanitary Commissioners were recalled by the orders of the Sanitary Commissioner and temporary Assistant Surgeon Chandy Charan Mitter relieved Dr. Sufi, the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner in charge of Munshiganj subdivision.

• Special measures.—In Narayanganj subdivision there was an outbreak of cholera in a mild form towards the end of November in the Narsingdi and Rupganj areas, but it was in no case directly attributable to the cyclone, nor was there any abnormal increase in seasonal disease or mortality. This was also true of North and South Sadar : as in Narayanganj subdivision the circumstances were not such as to render necessary special measures on an extensive scale.

It was only in Manikganj, which bore a bad reputation for disease, and in Munshiganj, where the presence of large numbers of dead bodies of men and animals made an epidemic probable, that special precautionary measures were essential.

In Manikganj the District Board sanctioned Rs. 550 for chlorogen and bleaching powder. Seventeen parties of two men each, under the supervision of voluntary workers, disinfected 191 wells and 8 tanks in Manikganj, Singair and Harirampur thanas ; the effect of these measures was that incipient cholera in the latter two thanas subsided to a great extent.

In Munshiganj more elaborate measures were taken. Apart from the disposal of dead bodies, the following precautionary steps were taken :—

- (1) establishment of temporary dispensaries ;
- (2) disinfection of sources of water-supply ;
- (3) anti-cholera inoculation ;
- (4) arrangements for free vaccination in the Lohajang area ; and
- (5) propaganda of simple sanitary rules.

A floating dispensary with necessary medicines and equipment was established in a green boat, which was to move amongst the Padma chars off Lohajang. The effect was to prevent the spread of cholera and small-pox which began to appear gradually, though a considerable time after the cyclone. This dispensary with one of the relief officers in charge visited almost all the islands in the chars for about four weeks in early November. The char people were found to be very conservative and were not easily persuaded to avail themselves of the advantages offered and as its movements were also curtailed by the decreasing water in the chars, with the permission of the Civil Surgeon, it was removed to Lohajang where it was more appreciated.

Another dispensary with two Sub-Assistant Surgeons was started by the medical unit of the Bengal Relief Fund at Gram Wari opposite the Lohajang chars. They gave medical relief to 1,662 persons. The main disease and number of patients treated by the dispensaries and Assistant Surgeons are noted below :—

Number of cases treated by the two special dispensaries and Assistant Surgeons up to 3rd January.

Disinfection of water-supply.—Seventy-three tanks were treated with chloride of lime. This, with the disinfection measures taken in Manikganj, brought up the total to 191 wells and 81 tanks treated. In some cases the owners refused to allow disinfection, but special efforts were made to ensure thorough treatment of villages where cholera occurs yearly, in Lohajang, Srinagar and Tangibari thanas.

Cholera inoculation.—Early efforts to introduce inoculation failed owing to the mistrust of the people, and it was not until an epidemic of cholera broke out in Brahman-gaon village in Lohajang circle that its utility was recognized. Two hundred and thirteen persons were inoculated and only 10 cases of the disease occurred among inoculated persons, with the result that the demand for inoculation greatly increased and led to a shortage of vaccine. All doctors were supplied with a travelling box containing medicine for treatment of cholera, including Sir L. Rogers' apparatus for saline transfusion.

Mortality.—The figures for mortality in the district from 1st October, to 1st January are given below. The area described as unaffected are the thanas Shibdalay, Gheor and Daulatpur. The remainder of the district is regarded as affected—Affected area.

Cholera	1,258
Small-pox	398
Other diseases	22,552

Non-affected area.

Cholera	111
Small-pox	14
Other diseases	1,238

The part of the district affected by the cyclone was roughly 11 times the area of the part unaffected, and as the density of population in the latter is about half that in Srinagar and Munshiganj thanas it does not appear that there has been any serious increase in the number of deaths from disease in the area visited by the storm.

Value of the measures.—The fact testifies to the value of the measures adopted. Such natural calamities as the cyclone are not infrequently followed by the outbreak of epidemics scarcely less formidable than the calamity they follow. It was not without reason that the outbreak of such an epidemic was apprehended in the Lohajang and other affected areas, and the benefit of the measures should be judged rather by what they averted than by what occurred.

It is also probable that the introduction of special measures did something to popularize sanitary precautions among the people. The cholera inoculation and the disinfection of water-supplies were accepted with the increasing readiness as operations continued.

Cost of measures.—Although the floating dispensary has been withdrawn, the Civil Surgeon as a precautionary measure has advised the retention of a doctor and compounder together with the necessary medicine in Lohajang. It is not therefore possible to give a final statement of the total cost; but up to the end of December the figure for all special medical and sanitary measures is Rs. 5,336-13-7.

SECTION XIII.—Finance.

99. For the relief of distress caused by the cyclone, expenditure from State funds has been incurred under the following heads :—

- (1) agricultural loans ;
- (2) seed loans ;
- (3) gratuitous distribution of cash ;
- (4) payments under paddy-husking scheme ;
- (5) gratuitous distribution of rice ;
- (6) provision of cheap rice ;
- (7) gratuitous distribution of cloth ;
- (8) provision of cheap cloth ;
- (9) establishment ;
- (10) contingencies and miscellaneous ;
- (11) travelling allowances.

Expenditure under heads (1) and (2) is recoverable, but expenditure under all other heads forms a final charge against State funds. The Government of India have sanctioned the debiting of charges under heads (3) to (11) to the general head "33—Famine Relief." The effect of this sanction is that three-fourths of the charge will be met from Imperial and the remaining one-fourth from Provincial revenues.

Agricultural loans.

100. The total amount distributed as agricultural loans was Rs. 12,55,090, of which Rs. 8,17,000 was spent in Dacca district alone. Loans were given to 120,912 men forming 11,808 groups. Statement I shows the amount distributed as loans in each district and each subdivision and the number of persons to whom loans, have been given. Government sanctioned a total grant of Rs. 19,70,000 for agricultural loans including seed loans, but it was not found necessary to issue the whole amount. The total actual expenditure was as follows :—

				Rs.
Agricultural loans	12,55,090
Seed loans	1,01,641
			Total	13,56,731

Seed loans.

101. Seed loans to the value of Rs. 1,01,641 have been issued. Statement II shows the amount of seed loans issued in each district and each subdivision and the number of men who have been given loans.

Some cultivators preferred to purchase seed instead of taking it on loan. Seed worth Rs. 2,928 was sold to them.

Twenty-eight thousand six hundred and seventeen maunds of rabi seed, worth Rs. 2,80,175, was purchased by Government and a further sum of Rs. 32,029 was incurred as freight and other incidental charges, including temporary establishment and contingencies, in connection with distribution of seed. Owing to the great difficulty of estimating needs, the whole quantity of seed purchased was not issued. In particular, mustard appears to have been purchased much in excess of requirements. The surplus has to be sold off, and the major portion has been sent to Calcutta, where it is expected to fetch a fair price, and a small portion is being disposed of locally. It is estimated that Government will incur a loss of Rs. 82,756, including Rs. 11,788 for establishment and contingencies in connection with seed transactions, as the price of seed has fallen since the date of purchase (vide statement III).

To meet all expenses in connection with seed loans, the Director of Agriculture was given an allotment of Rs. 3,00,430 from the reserve of

Rs. 7,00,000 placed at my disposal for agricultural loans. When all receipts and charges are adjusted by the Accountant-General, Bengal, the net loss incurred by Government will have to be transferred by him from the head "Agricultural Loans" to "33—Famine Relief."

Gratuitous relief in cash and under the paddy-husking scheme.

102. The sum of Rs. 54,700 has been spent on gratuitous relief in cash and Rs. 5,543 under the paddy-husking scheme. Statements IV and V show districts and subdivisions in which relief was given in these forms and the amount spent in each and the number of persons relieved. The average cost per head varies from Re. 1-0-7 per week in Khulna to Rs. 2-8-11 in Tippera. The variation is due mainly to the fact that in some districts lump sums varying from Re. 1 to Rs. 5 were given at the beginning of operations instead of regular weekly or fortnightly doles.

103. The cyclone occurred just before the Puja holidays and by the time when the magnitude of the calamity was known, the treasuries were closed. The district officers had therefore no alternative but to borrow money for distributing immediate relief to the people in greatest distress. Thus the District Officer of Dacca borrowed about Rs. 32,000 partly from a fund in his charge and partly from a private gentleman. The money was repaid shortly after the treasury reopened.

104. The calamity was so sudden and its magnitude so great that there was no time to form even approximate estimates of the amount of relief necessary from State funds and to obtain proper sanction before incurring expenditure. At the beginning of October the Government of Bengal with laudable courage granted district officers carte-blanche authority to incur expenditure on immediate relief in urgent cases, cautioning them at the same time that the carte-blanche authority should be resorted to only to the extent of real necessity. In some districts, the treasury was opened on the 6th October in order to draw money for cyclone relief. The carte-blanche authority was withdrawn on the 8th November, when all previous expenditure was regularised by Government according sanction thereto.

Provision of cheap rice and gratuitous distribution at Government expense.

105. Statement VI shows quantity and value of rice purchased, the quantity distributed free or sold and the loss incurred by Government in each district. Of the rice purchased, the following quantities were sent by the Director of Civil Supplies, and the remainder was purchased from local dealers who were permitted to import Burma rice into the district :—

		Mds.		Rs.
Dacca	..	81,440	worth	4,88,215
Faridpur	..	25,102	"	1,59,105
Khulna	..	12,525	"	77,399

The quantity shown against Faridpur excludes 7,565 maunds of rice worth Rs. 45,999 sent by the Director of Civil Supplies to that district, but paid for direct by the Cyclone Central Relief Committee and 936 maunds worth Rs. 6,370 sent to Rajbari, a part of the district which was not affected by the cyclone.

106. The Director of Civil Supplies obtained a grant of 7 lakhs of rupees for payment of the value of rice purchased by him and the Collector of Mymensingh obtained a grant of two lakhs of rupees for a like purpose. In other cases payments for rice and incidental expenses were made either from the grants sanctioned for gratuitous relief, by drawing money from the treasury on the carte-blanche authority given by Government or from the sale-proceeds of rice obtained from the Director of Civil Supplies or purchased locally. It was irregular to utilize the sale-proceeds of rice to purchase further quantities of rice, but the circumstances were special and the necessity urgent and it was not always possible to form an approximate estimate of the amount of grant required and to obtain sanction thereto before making any payment. In obtaining formal sanction, delay is often necessarily involved. Thus the Collector of Dacca asked for sanction to an advance of one lakh of rupees to pay for rice purchased locally, but Government sanction could not be given for want of full particulars. In the meantime sale-proceeds of rice accumulated and payment was made from the sale proceeds. In the special circumstances, the irregularity may be overlooked.

107. Eight thousand two hundred and forty-three maunds of rice worth Rs. 59,268 was distributed free as shown in detail in statement VII. The remainder of the rice purchased was either sold or remained in stock at the end of the operations. The average cost per head on account of gratuitous distribution of rice varies from Re. 0-6-11 per week in Bakarganj to Re. 1-12-11 in Khulna. This variation is due mainly to the fact that a uniform system of counting the number of men relieved has not been followed. If a man has received gratuitous rice doles for five weeks, he has been counted as one man relieved in some districts and as five men in others. This diversity of practice was not noticed until it was too late to call for revised figures.

The whole of the rice distributed free at the expense of the Cyclone Central Relief Committee, except 7,565 maunds in Faridpur which was paid for direct, was taken from the Government stocks in the districts. The price charged to the Committee was the same as was charged to the public.

108. On the provision of cheap rice Government incurred a loss of Rs. 90,571 as shown in Statement VI. Considering the volume of transactions, the loss in Dacca district is comparatively small, being 5·3 per cent. only. The shortage and wastage in that district amounted to 2·7 per cent. only. In Khulna the loss attributed to that head was no less than 7 per cent. and the total loss 9·5 per cent. In Jessore district the total cost of rice purchased was only Rs. 7,478, but the accounts show a loss of 18 per cent. This is due to rice having been taken from the Government stock at Gopalganj at a high cost price at a time when the price of common rice was falling and to the surplus stock having to be sold at Rs. 5-8, which was much below the cost price. The total loss on rice transactions in all districts taken together amounts to 6·3 per cent., and is mainly due to the surplus stock having to be sold off at a loss. The value of the surplus stock has been taken at Rs. 5-8 in Dacca, Rs. 6 in Faridpur, Rs. 5-12 in Mymensingh and Rs. 5-10 in Khulna. If the net prices actually realized are better than the estimates the loss to Government will be reduced. Out of the surplus stock in Dacca, 21,966 maunds have been sent to the Director of Civil Supplies at Calcutta where Burma rice still commands a high price and the balances remaining in that and other districts are being disposed of locally.

Distribution and sale of cloth.

109. Statement VIII shows quantity and value of cloth purchased, quantity distributed free or sold and loss incurred by Government in each district. The Registrar of Co-operative Societies obtained a grant of 6 lakhs of rupees from Government and purchased cloth from Bombay mills, the Bankura District Co-operative Industrial Union, Limited, and the Naogaon Supply and Sale Society supplied 505 bales to Dacca, 28 bales to Faridpur, 90 bales to Mymensingh and 1 bale to Khulna. Nine hundred and eight pieces, worth Rs. 1,836, were purchased locally in Faridpur. Of the stock at Dacca portions were transferred to Faridpur, Mymensingh, Jessore and Khulna. After distribution and sale, a large stock of about 225 bales of cloth remained at Dacca. This has been taken over by the Registrar of Co-operative Societies and sold to the Naogaon Ganja Cultivators' Co-operative Society, Limited. For this surplus stock taken over, deduction at cost price has been allowed and the net cost has been shown in the accounts. The stock of cloth in each district after transfers and disposal of the surplus at Dacca is shown in statement VIII.

Eighty-one thousand three hundred and thirty-six pieces of cloth (including some half pieces called tabon), worth Rs. 1,61,206, have been distributed free, of which 38,123 pieces have been distributed in Dacca district (vide Statement IX). Sales shown in statement VIII represent sales to the Cyclone Central Relief Fund except in the district of Dacca, where in addition 18,315 pieces were sold at concession rates (which were about 40 per cent. less than cost price) to the deserving poor and 824 pieces to the Bengal Relief Committee also at concession rates. Sales to the Cyclone Central Relief Fund were at the current market rates. The value of 14 pieces of cloth lost in transit by the railway has been made good by them and is shown in columns 9 and 10 of Statement VIII against Mymensingh.

On sales at concession rates in Dacca district, Government incurred a loss of Rs. 14,553.

Total State expenditure.

110. The net expenditure incurred by Government under various heads in each district is shown in statement X. It will be seen that the total irrecoverable expenditure under all heads amounts to Rs. 5,39,057. The Government of India have acceded to the request of the Government of Bengal that this should be treated as expenditure on Famine Relief. Accordingly, three-fourths of the total, viz., Rs. 4,04,293, will be borne by Imperial revenues and the remaining one-fourth, viz., Rs. 1,34,764, will be borne by Provincial revenues.

Expenditure from funds other than State funds.

111. Besides money spent from State funds a large sum viz., Rs. 7,29,845, as shown in Statement XI, has also been spent for the relief of distress caused by the cyclone from other funds either through the official agency or by non-official organizations. The Cyclone Central Relief Fund heads the list of these funds with an expenditure of Rs. 4,63,686. All money granted by the Cyclone Central Relief Fund was distributed through the official agency except the sums of Rs. 31,700 and Rs. 6,060 distributed in the towns of Dacca and Narayanganj, respectively, by the municipal agencies of those towns. The official agency was also the medium of distribution of a grant of Rs. 4,250 contributed by the Bengal Relief Fund to the district of Jessore. The money realized by the various relief committees under official auspices from local subscriptions in each district forms a separate fund and is called the District Relief Fund of that district. All such funds distributed relief through the official agency.

For want of definite information from the officers of the Bengal Relief Fund the figures in Statement XI are defective. While this report was in the press approximate totals of the expenditure under various heads have been received but the officers of the fund are not yet able to furnish accurate figures district by district.

Total Expenditure of all Kinds.

112. Expressed briefly, the important figures regarding cyclone relief expenditure are as follows :—

			Rs. Lakhs.
Amount expended from State funds	5.39
Amount advanced from State Funds	13.57
Amount expended on relief under official control	4.98
Ditto " " non-official control	2.32
			<hr/>
Total	26.26

SECTION XIV.—Relief given by non-official organisations.

113. The widespread sympathy aroused by the havoc and distress caused by the cyclone led to the organisation of a number of funds for the relief of the suffering which the calamity had produced; among those the Bengal Relief Fund, with Mr. C. R. Das as president and Mr. B. Chakravarty, as Secretary of the General Committee, was the most prominent. Other organisations were the Social Service League, the Ram Krishna Mission, the Servants of India Society and the Satharan Brahmo Samaj. All of these had their headquarters at Calcutta. In the affected districts many other funds were organised.

114. The Central Relief Fund was established by His Excellency the Governor with a view to co-ordinating and systematising the work of all relief organisations, and by preventing overlapping to secure to the sufferers the utmost benefit from the practical sympathy and generous donations of the public. All the leading associations and public bodies in Bengal were represented on the Cyclone Central Relief Committee which was formed with His Excellency the Governor as president and the Hon'ble Mr. J. G. Cunningham as Chairman. The response to the appeal for funds was generous and by the 27th February a sum amounting to Rs. 5,82,984 was subscribed. The allotment of grants by the Cyclone Central Relief Committee and the manner in which they were spent in the various districts are shown in Statement XI.

115. The efforts to obtain co-ordination were successful to a considerable extent; but the various organisations continued to devote their energies and resources separately to separate portions of the field of work which was so vast that many organisations could work side by side in separate areas without clashing. The division of work between the various relief agencies operating in each district is briefly described in the following paragraphs:—

116. The following are the agencies which worked in Khulna district:—

- Bengal Relief Fund Committee.
- Social Service League.
- Mohila Samiti.
- Brahmo Samaj.
- Servants of India Society.
- Ram Krishna Mission.

• In no case was there any overlapping with official agency. The Bengal Relief Fund at first distributed miscellaneous urgent relief in thanas Paikgacha, Dumuria, Batinghata, Terokhada, Palerhat, Daulatpur and Phultala of the Sadar Subdivision to the extent of Rs. 1,205. This was distributed in cash, rice and cloth. From 20th October 1919 they confined their operations to the thanas of Phultala and Daulatpur in the Sadar Subdivision and 8 unions of Bagerhat thana. Subsequently on the advice of the District Magistrate they agreed to reduce their area in Bagerhat to 1 unions. The Social Service League assisted the Bengal Relief Fund in unions Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of Daulatpur and distributed rice there from 8th November 1919 to 6th December 1919 to the amount of 112 maunds 37 seers 8 chettaks. In Bagerhat Subdivision they worked in No. 1 union of Bagerhat thana. The Mohila Samiti distributed cloth in Daulatpur and Terokhada thanas. The Brahmo Samaj worked in Nos. 1 and 2 unions of thana Bagerhat, but no report has been received of their work. The Servants of India Society worked in unions 1, 2 and 4 of Bagerhat thana and in Svalpa Baherdia union in Sadar. They were helped by 3 medical volunteers of the Uriya Samaj who treated over 3,000 cases, including cholera, dysentery, fever, pneumonia, etc. They rebuilt houses and supplied free clothing and rice. They also sold rice below cost price. The total cost of the relief given by them was Rs. 3,600. The Ramkrishna Mission worked in union No. 1 of Mollahat thana of Bagerhat. At first this union was under official agency, but from 15th November 1919 it was made over to the Mission for independent relief. (Rice distribution on Peace celebration day was made from State funds in this union.)

In the Sadar Subdivision the work of the Bengal Relief Fund was inspected by the District Magistrate and Subdivisional Officer and found to be systematic and well organised. The recipients were well selected though the standard of relief was more generous than that laid down in the Famine Code.

This is not, of course, objectionable. Rai Bahadur Amrita Lal Raha and Babu Kunja Behari Mukharji, the Secretary, are to be congratulated on the efficiency of their organisation. The Calcutta Committee and the local committee are to be congratulated on the prompt way in which urgent relief was distributed at the outset.

The other organisations in Sadar were the Social Service League and Mohila Samiti. The former worked satisfactorily assisting the Bengal Relief Fund with which it was inspected. The latter distributed casual relief and was not inspected.

In Bagerhat Subdivision the work done by the Servants of India Society and the Ram Krishna Mission was sustained, comparatively thorough and satisfactory. Inspections were made by the Subdivisional Officer. The work of the Ram Krishna Mission was also inspected by the Additional Commissioner and District Magistrate. The other organisations did not welcome the idea of Government inspection. The work of the Bengal Relief Fund in Bagerhat was spasmodic and rather unsatisfactory. It was inspected by the District Magistrate and the Additional Commissioner.

In addition to the above, four doctors were provided by the Bengal Relief Fund, as stated in section XII above.

117. In Bakarganj, the Bengal Relief Fund Committee and the Ram Krishna Mission rendered some help to the cyclone-affected area by distributing small amounts in cash and rice. They stopped their operations as soon as Government started relief work in the affected quarters. No portion of the affected area could therefore be made over to them. The local Secretary of the Bengal Relief Committee says that relief was given to 5,730 people and that Rs. 1,103 in cash, 99 maunds of rice and 448 pieces of cloth were distributed, but most of this was distributed in places outside of the cyclone-affected area. The Ram Krishna Mission distributed in the affected area 25 maunds of rice and the Social Service League rice, cash and cloth to the value of Rs. 307. It is also reported that the Bakarganj Mahila Samiti distributed some pieces of cloth. When the cloth of the Central Cyclone Relief Fund was distributed, care was taken that those who had already received cloth from the above agencies did not get cloth again.

There was no relief organisation which amalgamated its funds with those of Government though the local relief committees formed under the above private agencies assisted by their personal exertions and energies at Bagdha and Goila.

118. In the Nerrail Subdivision of Jessore, the local branch of the Bengal Relief Committee amalgamated their energies and their funds with those of the official relief agency (vide section IV). The Central Committee of the Bengal Relief Fund, however, made a direct grant of Rs. 1,000 to the Sidhipasa union through Professor Khagendra Nath Mitra. A local committee administered this grant, but the relief given was neither sufficient nor systematic. It is reported that the committee distributed 115 maunds of rice among 2,860 persons and Rs. 200 as lump sum relief. They are further reported to have given loans of Rs. 300 among 54 persons and to have spent Rs. 50 on medical relief. They sold 386 pieces of cloth and 479 maunds 31 seers of rice at reduced prices and distributed 62 pieces of cloth free. When I, accompanied by the Collector and the Subdivisional Officer, inspected the relief work of this union we came to the conclusion that relief funds were being frittered away to little advantage. The Subdivisional Officer inspected the union again some time later and brought necessitous cases which had not been relieved to the notice of the local committee. The Secretary of the local committee pleaded inability to relieve those persons because his funds were exhausted. The Subdivisional Officer then addressed a letter to the member of the Bengal Relief Committee in charge of Jessore district requesting him to give relief to those persons, but as no reply had come by the 9th January when relief operations had to be brought to a close, the Subdivisional Officer, under my instructions, directed the Circle Relief Officer to give the necessary relief. The Circle Relief Officer, Kalia, distributed Rs. 227 in cash, and 50 pieces of cloth among the necessitous cases who had got no relief from the local committee.

The only organisation which gave relief apart from the official agency was the Bengal Social Service League which took charge of two unions in Naraganti police-station. The amount of relief given by official agency in these two unions before they were made over to the Social Service League was Rs. 280. The total quantity of (a) rice given by the representative of the League was 147 maunds worth Rs. 1,081; (b) cash Rs. 1,746, (c) clothes 86. ganjees 38 and blankets 15 pieces-total value Rs. 278, (d) medical relief Rs. 120. On the 30th December in response to a request from the Secretary of the League 200 pieces of cloth were handed over under my orders to the representative for free distribution in the two unions under his charge. The work done by the representative of the Social Service League was good.

119. The Collector of Faridpur reports as follows regarding the non-official relief organisations started at different times and at different places in that district :—

"Of these, the biggest and by far the most important was the Bengal Relief Fund. The following were the other bodies which were at work in this district, but with the exception of the Ram Krishna Mission, their scope of activities was extremely narrow :—

- (1) The Ram Krishna Mission.
- (2) The Sadharan Brahmo Samaj.
- (3) The Social Service League.
- (4) The Mahila Samiti, Faridpur.
- (5) The Kotwalipara Sahajya Sabha.
- (6) The Timber Merchants' Association, Calcutta.
- (7) Maulvi Leakat Hossain's Fund.
- (8) The Anjumani Waizine of Calcutta.

"In order to avoid overlapping and waste, it was intended from the beginning to assign to each organization a specified area consisting of a certain number of chankidari unions, and to make it solely responsible for all the forms of relief necessary in such an area, consistently with the general principles of relief approved by Government. But these bodies came into existence long after the Government Relief Committees had been organized, and, even when they started, they had neither sufficient money to take over whole unions, nor were they, with the exception of the Social Service League, willing to amalgamate, although they were anxious to co-operate. The result was that Government relief could not be entirely withdrawn from the areas administered by these agencies. Their activities are described in detail below.

Bengal Relief Fund.—With regard to this organization, Babu Purna Chandra Maitra, B.L., the Vice-President of the Fund, reports as follows :—

"At the instance of Mr. B. K. Lahiri, Bar-at-law, and under the auspices of the Bengal Relief Fund, a representative branch committee was formed on the 11th October 1919 at Faridpur with the Hon'ble Babu Ambika Charan Mazumdar, M.A., B.L., as president, myself and Babu Mathura Nath Maitra, B.L., as Vice-Presidents, Babu Satis Chandra Mazumdar, B.L., and Babu Jnanendra Nath Lahiri as Joint Secretaries, and Babu Nalini Kanta Sen, B.L., as Accountant and Treasurer. The Hon'ble Babu Ambika Charan Mazumdar, on account of ill health, wanted to resign the presidentship. The Committee, however, on the 29th October 1919, by their resolution, did not accept his resignation, but relieved him from the onerous duty and made over the entire charge of the President to the Vice-Presidents, and since then myself and Babu Mathura Nath Maitra have been doing all the works of the President.

"The Committee at once provisionally divided the affected area into several circles, a member of the committee being deputed to each circle to form representative circle committees and to arrange for distribution of relief. Mr. Lahiri placed Rs. 3,000 at the disposal of the Committee and workers at once started to different centres with certain sums of money allotted to each tentatively.

"In the beginning of the operation the workers distributed relief both in rice and in cash. It was, however, arranged that relief should be given side by side with the official District Relief Committee that had already been formed, taking care that there might be no overlapping between the two organisations.

"Sixteen circles, consisting of 227 villages more or less in three-subdivisions—Sadar, Madaripur and Gopalganj—were formed. Out of the sixteen, Kajulia circle in Gopalganj subdivision, of which neither the number of villages nor that of the people is known, was abolished on the report of the President. So altogether 15 circles consisting of 227 villages distributed relief in food, raiment and house building or house repairing somewhere up to 7th December 1919, and somewhere else up to the 15th December 1919. Altogether 5,125 people, excluding those of Kajulia circle, were relieved by this committee at the total cost of Rs. 12,837-6-3.

"The operation was conducted by purely non-official agencies. But I am informed that official inspecting agency visited the areas under the charge of this fund from time to time and gave valuable instructions to our local agents. Our best thanks are due to this official agency."

It being impossible for the committee, as stated above, to take up entire unions owing to the inadequacy of funds, they were asked to accept responsibility for a group of compact villages, but even this they did not venture to undertake as they did not know how much money would be allotted to them, and received their funds in several instalments at long intervals. The Government relief organizations were, therefore, instructed to extend to such villages such forms of relief as could not be provided at all or sufficiently by the Bengal Relief Committee. In this connection the attitude of the people of one centre in Gopalganj is significant. "I was," says the Subdivisional Officer, "struck by the attitude of the people in Ghagor (Kotwalipara) centre who were extremely cut up when they heard that the Bengal Relief Committee was taking up the relief work in their area and we were making over the villages to their charge. They were consoled only when I assured them that I would see that their wants are adequately met if the funds in the hands of the Bengal Relief Committee proved insufficient." This officer, however, characterises the quality of the work of this committee in his subdivision as fairly good. In Madaripur, their own local sub-committees complained of the meagreness of funds, while, in Sadar, the Subdivisional Officer reports that their work was not systematic and seemed to display a lack of interest. Although there can be no doubt that, had the Bengal Relief Committee amalgamated their resources with those of the centres already started in the district, their funds would have been better utilised, still, on the whole, their operations afforded real relief to the people of the area in which their work was carried on, and to this extent they are entitled to gratitude.

Next in order of importance comes the Ram Krishna Mission, which worked at Kuarpur in thana Palong. They gave relief in the shape of free distribution of rice, cloth, and cash and also made some arrangements for medical relief. The following table will show the number of persons benefited and the amount spent under each head :—

				Persons	Cash
					Rs.
Relief in rice	1,201	2,892
Do. in cash	159	1,202
Do. in cloth	451	682
Medical relief	1,085	72
Total				...	4,848

The Brahmo Samaj worked both in Sadar and Gopalganj. In Sadar, they gave away Rs. 90 to 25 persons in thanas Bhanga and Nagarkanda, and Rs. 104 to 36 persons in the Kotwalipara thana. In the latter subdivision they extended their operations to all the villages of Ghagor centre and at Unasia in Kotwalipara. They distributed Rs. 858 in cash, and 12 pairs of cloths worth Rs. 40, but their work does not appear to have been carried out here in that spirit which ought to animate such philanthropic institutions. The Subdivisional Officer remarks :—

"I asked them to work in the distant bhil area where we could find scarcely any suitable person, but their representative was not anxious to undergo the trouble of staying in the bhils. He distributed the money he had mostly amongst the bhadralog at Paschimpar and Unasia and finished his work by the 9th of November."

The "Anjumani Waizine" of Calcutta assisted some poor respectable persons, helpless widows and orphans of some villages in the thanas of Kalkini and Madaripur at a cost of Rs. 400. In the former place they also distributed 500 influenza tabloids, chlorodyne, spirit camphor and other medicines. This organization appears to have worked in the Kasiani and Muksudpur thanas of Gopalganj as well, but its work there did not attract any notice whatsoever.

The "Mahila Samiti" is an organization conducted entirely by the ladies of Faridpur. They devoted their attention to the grant of relief to women who could not be reached by any other organisation. In addition to Rs. 75 which they collected locally, they received the following donations :—

			Rs.
(i) The Bhagni Samiti, Calcutta	100
(ii) The Nari (women) Samiti, Ranchi	100
(iii) The Mahila Samiti, Calcutta	100
(iv) The Bengal Relief Fund	100

Of the amount thus collected, viz., Rs. 475, they distributed Rs. 431 in cash. Twenty pairs of saris and 9 thans or 72 pieces of cloth were also sent to them by the Mahila Samiti at Calcutta. Of these all but one than or 8 pieces have been given away.

Their activities were not confined to any particular area, but extended over the whole district. Some of the secretaries of the Government committees were of great help and supplied them with the names of persons who were really in distress and needed assistance.

All the other charitable societies enumerated above directed their attention exclusively to the Gopalganj subdivision, and, with the exception of the Social Service League, their work was done in an extremely unsystematic manner and most of the money spent was wasted.

The Social Service League confined its operations to the Pinjuri centre of Kotwali-para circle in Gopalganj. Their funds were practically amalgamated with those of the Government committees, their secretaries being given seats in the latter. They spent Rs. 1,106 for the erection of huts and distributed 4 pairs of cloth, 42 vests, 256 blankets and 20 pieces of old cloth as well as some medicine. The arrangements for the other kinds of relief in this centre were made by the local committee. Amongst the non-official agencies at work in Gopalganj, the work of the League was the best as the relief organized by them was carried out more systematically.

The Kotwali-para Sahayya Sabha was started by some inhabitants of the Kotwali-para thana residing in Calcutta. They gave Rs. 300 for the erection of huts to 115 persons, most of whom belonged to the bhadralok class.

Maulvi Leakat Hossain sent Rs. 100 to a teacher of the Baliabhang High English School. The amount was distributed by this gentleman amongst 47 persons in Ghagor and Unasia centres for the erection of huts.

The Timber Merchants' Association, Calcutta, is composed of some merchants hailing from East Bengal. They are mostly residents of Fukra and Ghritakandi in Kasiana thana. They came with about Rs. 2,000, and distributed it amongst some persons in Fukra, Ghritakandi and Tarail.

To all these organizations my thanks are due for the help, however small, which they rendered to the distressed in the areas devastated by the cyclone."

120. As regards Dacca district, the Collector reports as follows :—

"The principal non-official organizations for relief in the district were—

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| (1) The Bengal Relief Fund. | (5) The Sadharan Brahmo Samaj of Calcutta. |
| (2) The Bengal Social Service League. | (6) The Eastern Bengal Brahmo Samaj. |
| (3) The Ramkrishna Mission. | |
| (4) The Servants of India Society. | |

The first was the most important. It took over the independent administration of relief in 52 unions in the district, of which 28 were in Munshiganj, 10 each in Sadar and Narayanganj and 4 in Manikganj subdivisions. The relief allotted to each union as reported by the Secretary of the Bengal Relief Fund will be found in the statement below; the unions were taken over about the middle of October when, through official agency, relief had already been given to the extent of Rs. 70 in cash, 80 pieces of free cloth, 20 maunds of rice for beggars' doles in each union. Subsequently Rs. 3,654 in cash and 37 pieces of cloth were given at the expense of the Central Cyclone Relief Fund to bhadralok in Kalma, Panchgaon, Dhipur, Amtali, Paman, Hashail and Keyain unions.

The total cost of the relief administered by the Bengal Relief Fund would appear to be Rs. 44,170, but detailed accounts have not yet been received.

Relief was administered in consultation with union relief committees in each union and in most unions the work went on smoothly. In Sadar subdivision the Subdivisional Officers are satisfied with the quality and quantity of relief given, and the officers of the fund worked in co-operation and harmony with local panchayats.

The Subdivisional Officer, Manikganj, reports that there was a paucity of willing workers and that work suffered for want of money at the proper time.

The Subdivisional Officer of Narayanganj thinks that the local workers of the fund in some unions were inclined to depart unnecessarily from the principles of relief as adopted by the Cyclone Central Relief Committee.

The Subdivisional Officer, Munshiganj, in whose jurisdiction most of the Bengal Relief Committee work was done, says generally that the workers of the fund were sensitive in the matter of supervision by Government officers and there was friction in some unions under their charge on the ground of the local estimates of requirements not being sufficiently met.

On the whole, I am of opinion that the work done was generally appreciated and a fair apportionment of resources was made. Many of the workers were professional men who could not remain more than a few days. At a time in a union, money was received by the committee in instalments so that it was perhaps natural that the local representatives of the fund should arrange with the local union committees to give something to every person on the relief list, so far as funds permitted, rather than follow the amounts indicated on the lists. Their readiness to make themselves responsible for definite areas was of the greatest service to the district and they worked well with the district relief committee and the Subdivisional Officers. I may mention here that the Secretary reports that it took him six weeks to get a consignment of rice from Calcutta to Lohajang.

The Bengal Social Service League worked in the Lohajang chura and in Bajrajogini and Munshiganj unions and altogether spent Rs. 4,327 in cash and 226 maunds of rice worth Rs. 1,626-8-6. The League also gave away 446 pieces of cloth and 24 blankets.

The Ramkrishna Mission workers gave relief in Kalma, Bajrajogini and Shyam-shidhi unions. They also did extremely good work in assisting in enquiries for the

The Hon'ble Babu Brajendra Kishore Ray Chaudhuri organised the sale of cheap rice from his cutcherries at Birganj, Tetulia and Rajendrapur.

SECTION XV.—Miscellaneous.

(a) Help given by zamindars.

123. Early in October zamindars were asked by the Collectors of districts to do all in their power to relieve the distress of their raiyats who had suffered in the cyclone. It is my duty, and a pleasant duty, to acknowledge the help rendered by the following zamindars :—

Rai Sri Nath Ray and his brothers Rai Janaki Nath Ray Bahadur and the Hon'ble Rai Sita Nath Ray Bahadur of Bhagyakul contributed substantially to the Central Relief Fund and gave relief in cash to their tenants and to needy persons generally.

Maharaja Sashi Kanta Acharjya Chaudhuri Bahadur gave Rs. 5,000 to the Mymensingh District Relief Committee at the time when any contributions were most valuable, that is, when relief work was just starting.

The Hon'ble Babu Brajendra Kishore Ray Chaudhuri was president of the committee which supervised the sale of controlled rice at Gauripur. He opened shops for the sale of cheap rice at three bazars in the more remote parts of Netrokona subdivision and his manager materially helped the relief officers.

Rai Satindra Nath Chaudhuri of Satkhira fed about 300 persons daily for about a month from the day after the cyclone and also helped his tenants in other ways.

Babu Promod Chandra Ray Chaudhuri of Atharabari in Mymensingh was president of the local rice committee. He gave away cloth and rice and his manager and other officers did great service in the relief of four unions.

Raja Jagat Kishore Acharjya Chaudhuri distributed 1,859 pieces of cloth among his tenants in and near Bhairab.

Some other zamindars helped in various ways, showing that they felt it their moral and social duty to assist their suffering tenants; but it must be regretfully admitted that the majority of the landowners were completely apathetic. Some even took advantage of their tenants' helpless condition to lend them money at excessively high rates of interest.

(b) Chaukidars.

124. The village chaukidars, who are poorly paid officers, were badly hit by the cyclone. Their pay fell into arrears because for some time it was impossible to collect the chaukidari assessment. Meanwhile they were called to assist in every branch of relief work and were often required to work by night as well as by day. For those who rendered specially good service a bonus of half a maund of rice was sanctioned; this being considered as justly debitable to expenses of relief administration. Government sanctioned the grant of advances to panchayats unable to collect the assessment to pay the wages of chaukidars and by the end of February practically all arrears of chaukidars' wages had been cleared.

(c) Village schools.

125. In the cyclone some thousands of village primary school buildings were demolished. Many of these have been reconstructed in a temporary manner; but the flimsy structures will not stand the rains, and it is feared that many schools will have to be closed until the villagers can afford to reconstruct them in a sufficiently substantial manner. The Bengal Relief Fund and the Central Cyclone Relief Committee were moved to sanction special grants to assist the early reconstruction of these buildings; and the Central Relief Committee has given a sum of Rs. 60,000 for this purpose. Government also has made substantial grants for the rebuilding of schools of all kinds recognized by the Education Department. District

Relief Committees realised the needs of the situation and have contributed all that could be spared from their funds after actual physical distress had been adequately relieved. It is hoped that with this help the villagers will now show energy and self-sacrifice enough to complete the restoration of the school buildings and thus prevent the set back to primary education which otherwise would inevitably occur.

(d) Services of Officers.

126. When the catastrophe occurred it brought out the qualities of the Government officers and showed that they were fully equal to the occasion. The three districts most seriously affected were particularly fortunate in having as their Collectors Messrs. Lambourn, Roy and Dash. Mr. Lambourn by his deep and generous sympathy captivated the hearts of the people of Dacca district. Mr. J. N. Roy in Faridpur fully maintained his reputation for patient broad-minded administrative ability, and the prolonged tours made by Mr. and Mrs. Roy shortly after the cyclone and the example they set of devotion to the relief of the distressed made a profound impression and stimulated all classes to do their utmost. Mr. Dash in Khulna showed exceptional organising ability and on his taking charge of the district at the end of October, his vigorous and capable administration galvanised into activity the flagging energies of all officers and relief workers who had been feeling the lack of guidance and control owing to the officiating Collector being incapacitated by illness.

127. It may truly be said that with very few exceptions every Government officer responded to the call of duty and did his best to relieve the suffering. Under the circumstances it may seem invidious to make any distinction, but it is my duty to mention specially those who rendered most conspicuously good service. Others would probably have done equally well if they had had the same opportunity.

128. Among subdivisional officers the first place must be assigned to Maulvi Tabibur Rahman of Narail. Within a few days after the cyclone he had visited every part of the subdivision where the cyclone had done serious damage. In every union he had established a relief committee and realised local contributions from which immediate relief was given to those in greatest distress. On his own initiative also, he effected in his subdivision the most complete co-ordination of official and non-official relief agencies. Among other subdivisional officers deserving of high commendation are Babu Amal Krishna Mukharji in Faridpur, Babus Suresh Chandra Basu and Dwijendra Mohan Sen in Dacca district, Babu Nava Gopal Chaki in Khulna, Babu Radhika Lal De in Bakarganj, Babu Niranjan Roy and Rai Anath Bandhu De Bahadur in Mymensingh and Rai Suresh Chandra Sinha Bahadur and Babu Basanta Kumar Das in Tippera. Mr. A. H. Kemm, I.C.S., who worked as special cyclone relief assistant to the Collector of Dacca, and Mr. A. C. Bose, my financial assistant, should also be mentioned.

129. Among Deputy Collectors, special praise is due to Maulvi Afzalur Rahman and Babu Rash Behari Mukherji in Dacca, Babus Madhu Sudan Das and Hriday Ranjan Sen in Mymensingh and Babu Sachindra Nath Mukharji in Jessore.

130. Among the Munsiffs who did active relief work, by far the most conspicuous was Babu Jogesh Chandra Sen of Bhanga in Tippera. As Chairman of the local Union Committee he showed remarkable foresight in providing material for the rebuilding of houses and preventing excessive profiteering. His devotion to the public welfare was very remarkable. Subsequently he was given entire charge of the Bhanga relief circle and the Collector records that he was by far the most efficient Circle Relief Officer in the district and showed excellent powers of organisation. Babu Pasupati Mukbarji, Munsif of Iswarganj, is also warmly commended by the Collector of Mymensingh. In this connection I desire to acknowledge the generous sympathy and help accorded by the District Judges, especially Messrs. Macnair and Stinton as presidents of the District Relief Committees of Faridpur and Dacca.

- (5) Babu Satish Chandra Singh, President of Aurail Union.
- (6) „ Ambika Chandra Sen, President of Chunta Union.
- (7) „ Mahim Chandra Ghose, Ditto.
- (8) „ Nalini Nath Banerjee, Government Pleader.
- (9) „ Kumudnikanta Mukhuti, Pleader.
- (10) „ Upendra Nath Ghose, Do.
- (11) „ Kalikumar Bhowmik, Do.
- (12) „ Bopin Chandra Guha, Do.

146. In Mymensingh district—

- (1) Babu Barindra Kar of Bajitpur.
- (2) „ Suresh Chandra Chakravarti. Secretary, Kishoreganj Sub-divisional Relief Committee.
- (3) Babu Jamini Mohan Das, Auditor, Co-operative Societies.
- (4) Raja Bijoy Singh Dudhuria, six weeks before the cyclone, commenced to import and sell cheap rice, wholesale and retail, practically at cost price. His large stocks were of the greatest use in supplying cheap rice shops when the cyclone came. The Raja and his manager co-operated enthusiastically with Government officers throughout relief work.

The names of other zamindars who did conspicuously useful work are mentioned in sub-section (a) above.

(f) Conclusion.

147. It will be seen from what is recorded above that, although the distress caused by the cyclone was very great, the relief rendered was by no means unequal to the needs of the situation. It was given with an unstinting hand thanks to the generosity of the subscribers to the Central and other Relief Funds and to the Government represented by His Excellency and the Hon'ble Mr. J. G. Cumming. At the same time, by the adoption of systematic organisation and by adherence to the general principles of relief laid down by the Hon'ble Member, relief officers were guarded from allowing their anxiety to afford succour to the distressed to lead them to indiscriminate benevolence or to forgetfulness of the fact that what was being given was public money.

148. I fully endorse the following remarks of Mr. J. N. Roy, Collector of Faridpur :—

“The direct benefit derived by the people for whom the various measures were intended was immense. It has been noted under the respective heads, and we may, on the whole, congratulate ourselves on the results. But when we consider for a moment what impression the undertaking has left on the minds of the people in the area affected, we have still greater cause for congratulation. The masses had hitherto associated Government solely with police and magisterial work. ‘When distress broke out in Kowalipara’ says the Subdivisional Officer of Gopalganj, ‘on account of the high price of rice and cloth, people used to tell me of the help rendered them by Babu Debi Prasana Rai Chaudhury of the Brahmo Samaj and the apathy shown by Government officers to their miseries.’ When, therefore, Government stepped forward with generous help after the disaster, they were agreeably surprised. The manner in which the Government gave practical proof of their sympathy at once evoked grateful appreciation. As one of the non-official Secretaries remarks, ‘people are convinced of the fact that the Government not only administer civil and criminal justice but also look to the amelioration of the people when in distress.’”

So far as the people of higher strata of society, I mean the bhadralogs, are concerned, the cry has been for some time past that Government was unsympathetic and indifferent to their interests. The result was a great deal of discontent which the distressed were not slow to take full advantage of. It is my full conviction that it is among these bhadralogs that they secured their largest number of recruits. The assistance given to them has brought about a change of attitude, and dispelled any possible feeling previously entertained that their condition was a matter of indifference to Government.”

APPENDIX A.

1.—Note by the Meteorologist, Calcutta.

A depression had formed in the centre of the Bay on the 22nd September 1919, and by the morning of the 23rd it had apparently developed into a storm with its centre roughly 400 miles to the north-west of the Andamans. It moved rather rapidly in a northerly direction, concentrating and increasing in violence, so that by eight hours on the morning of the 24th the storm had become one of small extent but of great severity. At this time it was not far from the Sandheads, somewhat to the east-north-east. It caused a fall of the barometer of $\cdot 6$ of an inch at the Sandheads and it gave winds of hurricane force for a few hours there and tremendous seas. Passing the Sandheads, it began to change its course to the north-east and finally took up a north-easterly direction of motion. Its centre passed to the south-east of Calcutta, Jessore and Mymensingh and to the north-west of Barisal, Narayanganj and Srimangal during the day and night of the 24th and the early morning of the 25th. At eight hours on the 25th it had diminished considerably in intensity and its centre was about 80 miles east of Mymensingh. It moved into the Assam hills and broke up there. From the morning of the 23rd to the morning of the 25th its forward motion was about 12 miles per hour.

From the meteorological point of view the chief characteristic of this storm was the small area occupied by it and the intense nature of the storm within that area. From the special observations taken during the course of the passage of the storm through South-East Bengal the diameter of the region of severity must have been less than 20 miles, but within this diameter the winds were of destructive violence. The centre of the storm passed within forty miles of Calcutta without giving more than a few strong gusts, and at 4-45 P.M. on the 24th September when the storm centre was almost at its closest to Calcutta, the sun was shining brightly in Calcutta.

The highest velocities of wind recorded during the passage of the storm were:—

- 74-80 miles at the Sandheads at eight hours of 24th.
- 19 miles at Barisal at two hours of 25th.
- 15 miles at Noakhali at two hours of 25th.
- 12 miles at Alipore at 20 hours of 24th.

2.—Report of W. J. H. Ballantine, Esq., Superintendent of Police, Sylhet.

Mr. Ballantine had taken over his launch Kotwal from the dockyard authorities in Calcutta and was proceeding in her up to Sylhet. He met the storm in the Sipsa (in Khulna district) where the river is over a mile wide, and the launch which is a stern wheeler soon became unmanageable. She staggered and rolled in the high sea that was running, so Mr. Ballantine was constrained to run her ashore. This he did, and fortunately the place selected was covered with Sundri saplings which gave way before the onslaughts of the Kotwal. He spent a terrible night in the heart of the Sunderbans attended by a huge crocodile which refused to be driven away. He and his party were not able to leave the launch till the afternoon of the 26th when he hailed a passing steamer to convey them to Khulna. They had been marooned for two days and nights and would have suffered much from thirst but for a welcome shower when they were able to collect some rain water. On his way from Khulna a very few yards he passed dead cows and buffaloes and not infrequently human beings and pigs. The odour was too horrible for adequate description. Vultures and crows were rarely to be seen, and it is sure that the inhabitants of the air suffered no less than the residents on the land below.

The market places at Batiaghatta, Jalma, Chalna and Dacope had been levelled to the ground and the Dacope police-station simply exists no longer.

Mr. Ballantine has recorded in his tour diary a very vivid account of his perilous adventures. Room can only be found here for the following extracts:—

24th September 1919.—

At 11 A.M. we weighed anchor and proceeded up to Oura-Sipsa. Up to this the weather was monsoonish in character with nothing to suggest anything out of the ordinary. We proceeded to cross the Sipsa, which is over a mile wide, in a north-easterly direction with the wind dead ahead and had got to within 200 yards of the opposite bank when the wind instantly changed to north-west and set up a big cross sea which left us in the trough of the waves. As the steamer has very little free-board and could not stand the rolling, we were obliged to change her course to again head the wind which had begun rapidly to increase in strength; as it was only by keeping her bow on to the waves that we could hope to keep her afloat in the very high seas which had now arisen. We kept on this course to very nearly across the river to its western bank where I hoped to make a small jungle khal that I knew of, for a safe anchorage; but this was not to be. The wind which was now blowing with hurricane violence shifted instantly to the east, and we were again caught in the trough of the waves. The river is very deep, over 15 fathoms, and the waves which sprung up, were of extraordinary height. The cross wind had caught the steamer's roof, so that it was found impossible to turn her to face it, and the only thing left to be done was to quarter the waves diagonally down wind and prevent her foundering before we reached the bank.

The bank at this point and only this was covered with thin sapling jungle right up to the water's edge, and these saplings had to be pressed down and the larger trees cut before the vessel could ride over them. Fortunately the cyclone had banked up the water which was now 3 or 4 feet deep in the jungle, and the violence of the wind and waves materially assisted the weakening effort of the steam capstan and drove the vessel on to the bank a bare 18 feet (her extreme breadth). Then one or two waves swamped and filled her. The vessel was now sunk with about 4 feet of water over her lower deck and the storm blowing with intense violence and driving huge waves right over the vessel.

It was now about midday, but as dark as midnight, and for the next two hours we were subjected to the pounding of the waves and the full fury of the storm. I confess that I entertained no hopes of surviving and had made such preparations as were possible for leaving the ship for the jungle in case she broke up.

At about 3 P.M. the wind stopped dead and a most unnatural calm resulted. There was not a breath of air and the waves which till then had been mountainous fell to absolute stillness and the surface of the river remained unruffled by even a ripple.

The still interval lasted an hour and then immediately the storm began to blow with equal violence but from due west.

26th September 1919.—In the afternoon another Andrew Yule & Co.'s steamer, the Ireland proceeding up from Calcutta, came alongside. She had met the cyclone in the western portion of the 24-Parganas, Sunderbans and reported numerous vessels driven ashore or total wrecks along the route including the Shinuari which had driven bodily into the jungle with her flat.

We anchored that night just outside of Khulna as the serang did not venture to go in, there being so many wrecks in the river. All along the route the devastation of the cyclone was pitiful. Every house and tree had been blown flat and the rivers were covered with the carcasses of cattle, interspersed with human bodies and deer. We passed several flats wrecked on the bank and not a single country boat was visible, almost all having been sunk and most of them hopelessly wrecked.

3.—Extracts from report of A. J. Dash, Esq., Collector of Khulna.

The storm. The time it began and warnings received.—On the 24th September at dawn the sky was overcast and rain was falling. The force of the wind was light. Wind and rain increased during the morning and afternoon until the full force of the cyclone was experienced at about 4 P.M. to 7 P.M. at different places. At Khulna (town) at 8-30 P.M. a lull took place for a period of about half an hour and the storm continued until after midnight. In places to the south of Khulna the storm occurred two or three hours earlier. A warning signal was received at Khulna at 12-58 on the 24th September 1919 and was hoisted at 2-30.

The directions of the wind.—The general direction of the wind at the beginning of the storm was from the east. At all places in the Satkhira subdivision, at Paikgachha and at Fultala the wind backed through north to west as the cyclone progressed showing the centre of the storm passed south-east of these places. At Fakirhat, Rampal, Bagerhat and Kachua the wind veered through south to west, the centre thus passing to the north-west of these places.

The time and places where a lull occurred.—Khulna, Dumuria, Dacope, Batiaghata, Rampal, Kachua and Mollahat report a lull in the middle of the cyclone period. The lull at Mollahat, Bagerhat and Kachua was for ten minutes. The lull at Khulna was for half an hour and at Rampal for one hour and these places may therefore be considered on the track of the centre. Mr. Ballantine, Superintendent of Police, Sylhet, was on board the Kotwal police launch and was caught in the cyclone and stranded in the Sunderbans at the northern junction of the Ura Sipsa with the Sipsa river and observed that a lull took place at 3 P.M. The centre therefore passed over this point. At Khulna, Rampal, Batiaghata, Dumuria and Mollahat the lull took place at about 8-30 or 9-30 P.M. It can be inferred from these observations that the storm entered the district from the south at about 9 A.M. on the 24th September and left the district at its north-east corner at about 10 P.M. The general direction of the wind after the cyclone was from the west.

In places where the lull occurred it was noticed that the west wind rose with great suddenness and violence after the lull.

The time the storm ended.—The violence of the storm abated between 1 A.M. and 2 A.M. of night of the 24th-25th September and on the morning of the 25th the weather was clear. Its duration was about 12 hours.

Little damage was done in the southern part of the Morrelganj thana and in the Sarankhola thana of the Bagerhat subdivision on the east and in the Kalaroa, Satkhira, Tala, Debhatta, and Kaliganj thanas of the Satkhira subdivision on the west. The rest of the district suffered heavily. The course therefore lies between these areas. The width of the damaged areas appears to be about 30 miles.

Places in or near the track of the centre naturally suffered more severely, but the actual damage caused varied considerably in places quite close together, the amount of damage depending on the extent to which the place was exposed to the full force of the cyclone. It was noticed that in the Sadar subdivision all the trees fell from north-east to south-west. In Bagerhat subdivision most fell from south-east to north-west. The direction of the wind which was most violent can thus be inferred.

The height of the storm wave.—One of the features of the cyclone was the storm wave which accompanied it. The water in the rivers rose 3 or 4 feet above high water level and in some places even higher. This caused considerable floods in localities near rivers. The flood in most places subsided within a few hours, but in the low and exposed paddy lands bordering on the Sunderbans considerable damage to embankments and crops resulted. In the Bagerhat subdivision little damage was done to embankments of which there are few. But the flood topped the high bank of the river (and embankment if any) and the flood water could not escape from the paddy fields.

In the Sadar and Satkhira subdivisions many embankments were destroyed by the flood. Crops were damaged by the rush of water and not by prolonged submergence. Observations on the height of the flood by various officers are appended below :—

4.—Extracts from the report of the Superintendent of Police, Khulna.

By 5-45 P.M. it was as dark as a baker's oven and the velocity of the wind began to increase. It blew practically due east and at 7 P.M. the storm was so intense that glass doors and venetians could no longer stand the storm.

At 8-20 P.M. there was an obvious lull.

5.—Extract from further report by the Superintendent of Police, Khulna.

The big Assam Despatch steamer Shiwari was blown ashore about 4 miles south of Kabbaduk forest station, i.e., to say, 4 miles south of the junction between the Kalpetna, Kabbaduk and Sheikbaria rivers. She was driven across the river which is 14 miles wide and deposited in the jungle. This place is 21 miles south-west of the place where Ballantine went ashore and is the most southerly point of which we have complete knowledge of the cyclone's strength and havoc.

6.—Extract from the report of the Deputy Inspector of Schools, Khulna.

First the cyclone began from the north-east and continued from 4 P.M. to about 8 P.M. Then after an interval of about half an hour it was again blowing from the west with

BOARD IN CONNECTION WITH THE PROSECUTION OF

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

Political Branch.

CALCUTTA, THE 15TH MARCH 1920.

RESOLUTION—No. 3512P.

THE question has recently been under consideration whether service rendered in a War Board (including a Publicity Board) or in an Employment and Labour Board can be regarded as service for the purposes of paragraph 1(c) of this Government Resolution No. 2706P.D., dated the 22nd September 1919. It has been decided that service of the sort in question shall be so regarded.

ORDERED.—That a copy of the resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that copies be forwarded to the other departments of Government for information and for communication to the officers subordinate to them.

By order of the Governor in Council,

H. L. STEPHENSON,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

MONTHLY WEATHER AND CROP REPORT OF BENGAL. FOR FEBRUARY 1920.

I. Character of the season.—During the month under review the rainfall was in excess of the normal throughout the province, except in the districts of Birbhum, Midnapore, Hooghly, Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling, where the fall was a little in defect, and in Howrah, where the fall was just the normal. The usual rainfall statement is appended.

II. Progress of agricultural operations.—Pressing of sugarcane was nearly over. Harvesting of spring crops and preparatory tillage for jute and other autumn crops were proceeding. Sowings of jute and autumn paddy commenced in some Eastern Bengal districts.

III. State of standing crops.—The condition of standing crops was reported to be generally favourable.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The prospects of standing spring crops were much improved by the rainfall in the first part of the month, and the outturn is expected to be satisfactory.

V. Damage to standing crops.—No damage to standing crops was reported from any district.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—The condition of live-stock was fair. Cattle disease was found to exist in parts of Nadia, Murshidabad, Bankura, Hooghly, Rajshahi, Rangpur, Dacca, Mymensingh, Tippera and Noakhali.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—The supply of fodder was sufficient throughout the province.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month under review the prices of common rice rose in three districts, fell in fifteen, and remained stationary in the rest of the province. It varied from 5 seers in the headquarters of the 24-Parganas and Darjeeling to 7 seers at Bakarganj.

IX. Condition of agricultural people.—The condition of agricultural population is fairly satisfactory.

R. S. FINLOW,

Offg. Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS.

For the week ending on the 11th March 1920.

Summary.—During the week the rainfall was general. In some places excessive rainfall has caused damage to the standing crops, though it has facilitated the ploughing operations generally. The harvesting of spring crops continues. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 0·63 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

No. 486.—The following despatch by His Excellency General Sir Charles Carmichael Monro, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., G.C.M.G., A.-D.-C., Commander-in-Chief in India, on operations during the Third Afghan War, May to August 1919, is published for general information:—

Dated Simla, the 1st November 1919.

From—GENERAL SIR CHARLES CARMICHAEL MONRO, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., G.C.M.G., A.-D.-C., Commander-in-Chief in India,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Army Department.

I have the honor to submit herewith, for the information of the Government of India, an account of the recent operations against Afghanistan.

INTRODUCTORY.

2. For the proper consideration of these operations, it is necessary to refer briefly to the conditions prevailing in India at the time hostilities broke out. As the Government of India are aware, the standard of military preparation in this country was regulated by the instructions of the War Committee of the Cabinet received through the Secretary of State for India in 1916, viz., that operations on the Indian Frontier were to be of a defensive nature, and that, should the offensive be forced upon us, it was to be strictly limited in scope. The Field Army maintained for this purpose, namely, four divisions, three frontier brigades and four cavalry brigades, had necessarily suffered from the demands made upon it to supply additional units and draft reinforcements for overseas theatres, and this had to a certain extent affected its efficiency; moreover, many of its best qualified officers were employed out of India, and there was considerable deficiency in medical and engineer personnel which could not be made good from home. Since the commencement of the war in 1914, India had been engaged in providing personnel, material and munitions of war to many overseas theatres. As a result of this drain upon her resources, stocks of electrical and railway plant and other stores, only procurable from the United Kingdom, had been reduced to the lowest ebb, and, owing to shortage of shipping, deficiencies could not be replaced. Thus the signing of the Armistice in November 1918 found India grappling with the problem of meeting urgent demands on her greatly reduced resources, and with the machinery for carrying on her internal administration weakened by the withdrawal from all her civil departments of large numbers of officers for military duty.

3. Following on the Armistice came the demand for demobilisation. Every effort was made to release such men as were urgently required either at home or in India, and this necessitated a considerable reduction in establishments and imposed a severe strain on all branches of the service, especially in those employing skilled artisans and mechanics.

4. Such was the military situation when the outbreak of internal disturbances supervened in April 1919. To quell these disturbances and to protect communications, it was found necessary to divert large bodies of troops from their normal peace-stations, to detain others which were awaiting demobilisation or embarkation to the United Kingdom, and to recall a large number of Indian troops who had proceeded to their homes on leave. We were particularly fortunate in having at hand so valuable a reinforcement as the British troops ex-Mesopotamia awaiting demobilisation. It was only with great reluctance that I sanctioned their retention at a time when they had every reason and right to expect their early release from military service; but my confidence in the loyalty of the British soldier was not misplaced, and I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the fine military spirit he displayed in shouldering this additional burden. It was a keen and natural disappointment also to the Indian soldier to be deprived of the furlough which he had earned so well, but he too accepted this burden in a spirit of cheerful resignation for which we owe him a deep debt of gratitude; his conduct, throughout this period, has been worthy of the highest praise.

5. Before passing on to a narrative of the operations, I propose briefly to review the work of the various administrative services and departments, for the campaign was essentially one in which administrative organisation played the leading part. At one time the strength of the force employed trans-Indus amounted to 340,000 men and 158,000 animals, and it will readily be understood that the maintenance of these numbers, with depleted means of transportation, was a problem of considerable difficulty. Fortunately, much attention had been paid in recent years to the improvement of frontier communications; new mechanical transport roads at a cost of approximately one million sterling had been constructed in the North-West Frontier Province alone during the past four years. Considerable improvements had also been effected in existing roads, the most important being those between Jamrud and Landi-Kotal, Kohat and Parachinar, Bannu and Miranshah, Dera Ismail Khan and Tank, and the Bolan road from Sibi to Quetta, on each of which a large number of girder bridges had been provided, spanning the main waterways. With the exception of the Bolan these roads have all been subjected to heavy and continuous motor traffic throughout the operations, and have stood the test well.

6. As regards railways, the situation was somewhat abnormal when concentration was ordered. Civil traffic had been considerably curtailed and serious damage caused at certain outlying stations during the internal disturbances in the Punjab. Nevertheless, thanks to the efforts of the North-Western and other railways, military requirements were fully met, and though the protection of Peshawar necessitated some divergence from the schedule, concentration was completed in advance of the pre-arranged timetable. During the month of May, 637 military special trains were run over the North-Western Railway system. Early in the concentration period a number of specially fitted ambulances trains were located at convenient forward stations such as Peshawar and Rawalpindi, and special services were arranged for the conveyance of ice, fruit, and vegetables in insulated railway vans, both to hospitals and the troops in the field.

7. Major-General H. F. E. Freeland, C.B., D.S.O., M.V.O., R.E., who was at this time a member of the Railway Board, earned the gratitude of the army by his zealous and unremitting efforts in developing the capacity of the railways in respect of military requirements. His wide and varied experience in dealing with military traffic problems proved of inestimable value. I had also the advantage of obtaining the valuable services of Brigadier-General O. L. Magniac, C.M.G., C.B.E., R.E., who had recently returned from France and was appointed Director of Movements.

8. The position of the Supply and Transport Services had been influenced considerably by the calls made upon them from overseas during the course of the great war. The resources of India in animal transport had been exploited to the utmost and the reserve of animals left in the country was reduced to the lowest ebb; indeed, the supply of mules had been completely exhausted and recourse was had to ponies. These latter, though they proved themselves a fairly satisfactory substitute, were greatly inferior to the mule in general utility and endurance. The ravages of surra, combined with continued and heavy demands made by the operations in Persia, had seriously crippled the supply of camels; and the liability of the bullock transport to epidemic diseases limited the degree of reliability which could be placed upon it. In spite of these difficulties, the animal transport available on the outbreak of war was sufficient to equip and maintain the Field Army under the conditions referred to in paragraph 2 above.

9. The mechanical transport at my disposal was employed at the outset on convoy work through the Khaibar; but later, when reinforced by locally purchased vehicles and a number of Ford chassis received from America in March and equipped locally with van bodies, it was used to supplement the animal transport with unit and field formations and for the transportation of such perishable commodities as ice, milk, fresh fruit and vegetables. The British ranks of the Heavy Mechanical Transport companies were considerably below establishment and the proper complement of drivers could not be provided for the vehicles available. In spite of the strain on their endurance, these men carried out their duties with a fortitude and efficiency which deserves unstinted praise, and proved themselves equal to the task of moving all the tonnage required for the maintenance of the forces in the field. It may here be mentioned that upwards of 500 tons of supplies and stores were transported daily from Peshawar and Jamrud through the Khaibar, a figure which was only reduced during the period of the Afghan threat on the Kurram, when a portion of the mechanical transport was diverted to that area from the Khaibar.

10. The reserves of supplies in position on the outbreak of war proved ample for the needs of the army; the standard laid down was sixty days' stocks, of which half had been placed in forward positions west of the Indus, and half in the base dépôt at Lahore and at the ports of Bombay and Karachi. Within three days of mobilisation being ordered, the reserves at the ports had been despatched, according to a pre-arranged schedule, to Lahore and the forward areas. New field service scales of rations were introduced in this campaign and have proved highly satisfactory from a dietetic point of view; the items additional to the old scale include condensed milk, tinned or dried fruit, fresh fruit, cigarettes and sweets for British troops; and fresh meat, condensed milk, tobacco, cigarettes, sweets, and ground nuts for Indian soldiers.

11. In previous frontier campaigns, units had been left to make their own arrangements for canteen supplies; but the system of relying on bunniahs and the peace canteen contractors of British units was unsatisfactory. The War Office were unable, however, to accede to my request that the Expeditionary Force Canteen organization should take the matter in hand, and a general contract was therefore made with a Calcutta firm of large experience and reputation, to whom special railway and transport facilities were given. This arrangement proved satisfactory on the whole and was certainly an improvement on the former arrangement; but I hope that in future a system may be devised which will enable us to ensure the provision on mobilisation of Field Force Canteens fully equipped with personnel and supplies.

12. In order to provide rest and refreshment for troops moving by rail and to mitigate the hardships inseparable from a journey across India during the summer months, rest camps were established at Peshawar, Nowshera, Rawalpindi, Lahore, Ambala, Quetta and Chaman, and the number of "Monro Soldiers' Canteens" (which had been established at all the principal railway stations) was increased to meet the additional demands made upon them. Tea-rooms were also opened for the special use of Indian troops, not only at the chief railway stations, but also at all standing camps within the forward areas. Messes for British officers and for warrant and non-commissioned officers travelling in small parties or independently of their units, were organised and equipped at seventeen of the main halting places, in advance of railheads on the various lines of communication.

13. The requirements of the Veterinary Service necessitated the formation of three Camel Veterinary Hospitals for 500 camels each, a Camel Convalescent Depot and Horse Convalescent Depot for 1,000 animals each, as well as additional Field and Mobile Veterinary Sections and Base Depôts of Veterinary Stores. The creation of these units imposed a severe tax on available sources of recruitment, and some difficulty was experienced in obtaining personnel of the right stamp. But, on the whole, the existing organisation stood the test well. The mortality among animals was never excessive, amounting to a weekly average of .2 per cent in the case of horses and ponies, .04 in the case of mules, 3 in the case of bullocks and .3 in the case of camels, as compared with .2, .06, 1.6, and .1 per cent, respectively during the period May to September, 1918, in Mesopotamia. The evacuation of sick animals was on the whole well carried out, but there was a tendency to maintain too many ineffective animals with units; this fault was corrected in course of time. Considerable inefficiency was caused by the incidence of foot-and-mouth disease and rinderpest in bullocks. The organisation of the Remount Service stood the test well and calls for no comment.

14. I was fortunate in obtaining two Ordnance Mobile Workshops, complete with personnel, from Mesopotamia. These were pushed up to Peshawar to supplement the heavy workshops established in the Ordnance depot there immediately on the outbreak of war. A number of R. A. O. C. personnel were obtained from among the troops awaiting demobilisation, and these rendered invaluable service in the Ordnance depôts in the forward areas. In other respects the existing Ordnance organisation proved sufficient for the needs of the army. An ample reserve had been provided of special stores such as heavy tents, hand fans, mosquito nets, sun goggles, etc., which experience has shown to be necessary for the health and comfort of the troops during a summer campaign.

15. As regards the Medical Service, the number of regular R. A. M. C. and I.M.S. officers available in India was short of our requirements for complete mobilisation. The source of recruitment of these categories in India is small and it had been found impossible to make good the deficiency from home. I was fortunate, however, in obtaining the services of 107 officers and 1,280 other ranks of the R. A. M. C. who happened to be in India en route from Mesopotamia to the United Kingdom. The field medical units of the Field Army were already partially mobilised with personnel when the outbreak of war occurred and the equipment of other field medical units and of 21 General Hospitals was held ready for issue in medical mobilisation stores. The number of mobilised medical units employed during the campaign amounted to 29 Field Ambulances, 12 Casualty Clearing Stations, 53 Staging Sections, 15 Sanitary Sections, 8 Advanced Depôts of Medical Stores, 14 Base Depot Medical Stores and 16,000 beds in General Hospitals, i.e., 5,000 for British and 11,000 for Indians. The General Hospitals were established at Landi Kotal, Peshawar, Nowshera, Rawalpindi, Gharial, Kuldana, Kohat, Bannu, Dardoni, (near Miranshah), Dera Ismail Khan, Tank, Mauzai, and Quetta. In addition to these, convalescent camps provided accommodation in the Murree Hills for 1,200 British at Upper Tops and Lower Gharial, and for 3,000 Indians at Kohat and Rawalpindi. Medical transport included two British and eight Indian broad gauge ambulance trains, one combined British and Indian narrow gauge ambulance train and over a hundred specially fitted railway ambulance coaches for use with the ordinary passenger services.

16. The two outstanding features of the campaign from the medical point of view were, firstly, an outbreak of cholera of unusual severity, and, secondly, the abnormal climatic conditions under which the troops were called upon to operate. An epidemic of cholera seldom equalled in extent and severity during the past ten years was raging among the civil population of the Punjab and North-West Frontier Province during the period of the operations. It first made its appearance among the troops in the forward areas at Hangu on June 1st, and at Jamrud on June 4th, but though it spread rapidly in both the Kohat and Khaibar areas and for a time gave rise to grave anxiety, it was successfully stamped out by June 20th, an achievement for which the Medical Service deserves the greatest credit. A severe epidemic also occurred in Derajat and the Tochi Valley and cases continued intermittently from the middle of June till the close of the operations.

17. Shortly after the outbreak of hostilities, a heat wave of remarkable severity occurred over the whole of the Punjab and North-West Frontier Province, the daily shade temperatures registered at Peshawar in May, June and July being 5 to 7 degrees Fahrenheit above the daily average of the past 20 years. The Government of India will appreciate how great a strain was imposed on the troops when called upon to operate under these conditions in such areas as the Khaibar, the Kurram, the Derajat and Waziristan.

18. In spite of these conditions, the incidence of sickness was not excessive. The total admissions during the period 5th May to 9th August amounted to 10,882 British and 45,774 Indians, giving a daily admission ratio per thousand of 4.98 British and 2.97 Indians. This compares not unfavourably with admission ratios in Mesopotamia which, in 1917, were 5.04 and 2.11 and, in 1918, 3.48 and 2.27 respectively.

19. The foregoing brief review of the administrative problems presented by this campaign will, I hope, serve to illustrate some of the chief difficulties with which we had to contend. India, and especially the frontier region, is a country ill-provided with those amenities of civilization which in Western Europe, go so far to mitigate the discomforts of a campaign; and, coming as it did at the hottest season of the year and at a time when the army was sorely in need of rest and recreation, this campaign inevitably imposed severe hardships on the troops employed. Nevertheless, from personal inspection, I am able to assure the Government of India that everything possible was done with the means at our disposal to alleviate the discomfort of the troops, and I desire to place on record my high appreciation of the work of the administrative services and departments which contributed so largely to that end.

20. I now turn to the conduct of the operations. The distribution of the Afghan army at the end of April is believed to have been as follows. On the northern line, including Kabul, were stationed 7½ regiments of cavalry (2,800 sabres), 29 battalions (16,500 rifles), and 110 guns, of which about 2,000 rifles and 4 guns were located between Kunar and Asmar on the Chitral border. On the central line, including Ghazni, were 3 cavalry regiments (1,100 sabres), 17 battalions (9,150 rifles) and 60 guns; and, on the southern line, 1 cavalry regiment (460 sabres), 10 battalions (5,250 rifles) and 24 guns. The Afghan garrisons in Herat, Farah, and Mazar-i-Sharif, and in the Maimana and Badakshan districts, are not included in the above, and amounted to about 2,700 sabres, 11,100 rifles and 70 guns. The force at the Amir's disposal thus comprised about 7,000 sabres, 42,000 rifles and 260 guns; but it should be noted that at least half of his guns were either immobile or obsolete.

21. But the Amir's real strength lay, not in his regular army (which, of itself, is of small account), but in the potential fighting value of the frontier tribes on either side of the border. Expert in all forms of guerilla warfare and amounting in the aggregate to some 120,000 men, armed with modern rifles many of which are provided from Kabul, these tribes are the outstanding factor in the Indian frontier problem, and it was on their co-operation that the Afghan plan of campaign was based. As far as can be judged, this plan contemplated operations on three fronts, viz.:—

(a) From Jalalabad on the Khaibar and Mohmand sector;

(b) From Gardez on the Kurram and Waziristan border, utilizing the Khost salient;

(c) From Kandahar on the Chaman border.

A secondary operation from Asmar on Chitral, supported by a demonstration made by the Badakshan garrison, was to be supplementary to (a) above, while, subsidiary to the action on the Kandahar front, troops were to be moved up from Girishk and Farad to threaten the Seistan border and our communications in East Persia. Each of the above fronts formed a separate command, and the general idea appears to have been to push forward in the first instance detachments of Afghan regular troops, whose function was to raise the tribes on both sides of the border with the cry of Jehad. Arms and ammunition were to be distributed amongst the tribesmen, and the detachments of Afghan regulars would serve as a stiffening to the tribal lashkars and as an earnest of the Amir's support. On the Khaibar sector, which was evidently looked upon as the main battle front, the intention appears to have been to hold back the bulk of the regular troops until the tribal offensive had developed. This tribal offensive was, in fact, the basis of the whole plan; and the line of action to be taken by the main Afghan army depended entirely on the extent to which the tribes consented to co-operate and on the subsequent success of their operations. It was probably realised that both as regards command and maintenance, the Afghan regular army was, of itself, incapable of undertaking sustained operations and that their best and only chance of success lay in securing the co-operation of the tribes and in co-ordinating their efforts. The looseness of our political control over a large portion of the border territory makes it a promising field for such an enterprise. The Amir appears to have anticipated that the presence of bodies of tribesmen on the flanks and rear of our main forces would compel us to dissipate our strength and create a favourable opportunity for striking a blow with his regular troops.

22. Our plan of campaign was to undertake the offensive towards Jalalabad with our main striking force, our object being to divide the Mohmands and Afridis (two of the most influential tribes upon our border) and to cut them off from Afghan influence and support; to strike at any Afghan concentration within reach; and to induce the withdrawal of Afghan forces from our tribal borders elsewhere, for the purpose of covering Kabul. It was proposed to maintain an active defence on other portions of our front. In the Tochi and Derajat areas we were prepared, if necessary, to evacuate temporarily those portions of the country which lay between the administrative and political borders and which were held by militia garrisons; for their retention in the face of opposition would have involved us in a series of sieges, necessitating measures for their relief and consequent dissipation of transport.

23. To carry out this plan, the army was originally organised in two forces, viz., the North-West Frontier Force, commanded by General Sir A. A. Barrett, G.C.B., K.C.S.I., K.C.V.O., A.D.C., and the Baluchistan Force, commanded by Lieutenant-General R. Wapshare, C.B., C.S.I., the latter including the troops allotted to the defence of the Nushki extension railway and our line of communication through East Persia to Meshed. As the operations developed, however, it was decided to effect a further decentralisation, and on May 30th the troops allotted to the Bannu and Derajat areas were separated from the North-West Frontier Force, and placed under the command of Major-General S. H. Climo, C.B., D.S.O. This new command was designated the Waziristan Force. The force at Meshed under Major-General W. Malleson, C.B., C.I.E., must also be considered as part of the general organisation, for though charged with no offensive rôle in relation to the operations on the Indian frontier, the duty fell upon it of intervening, if necessary, in any attempt by the Turkistan Bolsheviks to send armed assistance into Afghanistan.

24. As constant references would be made to the Government of India and to Army Headquarters regarding the conduct and direction of the operations, and as in any case officers of sufficient status were not available to form a separate General Headquarters, it had been decided in advance that the functions of the latter were to be performed by Army Headquarters.

25. I need refer but briefly to the sequence of events which precipitated the outbreak of war. Towards the end of April, Saleh Muhammad Khan, the Afghan Commander-in-Chief, arrived at Dakka with an escort of two companies of infantry and two guns for the ostensible purpose of inspecting the Afghan frontier. On May 3rd, the usual militia escort to the caravan proceeding through the Khaibar was confronted by piquets of armed Afghans on the disputed zone between Tor Khan and Landi Khana, and that night five coolies employed at the water-works were killed by tribesmen. On May 4th large numbers of copies of a farman, signed by the Amir and concluding with an unmistakable exhortation to Jehad, were distributed in Peshawar city through the agency of the Afghan Post-office there; and on the same day the Afghan postmaster arrived from Jalalabad with a motor car load of leaflets printed at Kabul, announcing that the Germans had resumed war and that India and Egypt had risen. On May 5th, the British Army received orders for mobilisation.

26. The operations which followed fall naturally under three heads, viz., those of the North-West Frontier Force, the Waziristan Force, and the Baluchistan Force, respectively, and I propose to deal with them in three separate narratives. The chief features of the operations, viewed as a whole, can be summarised as follows. Our main effort was directed to the Khaibar front, with Dakka as the first objective. After defeating the Afghan covering troops in the vicinity of Landi Khana, our troops occupied Dakka on May 18th, i.e., within eight days of mobilisation being ordered; and, following a successful action on May 17th the Afghan main army dispersed, and, for the time being, practically ceased to exist as an organised force. A pause was now necessary for the purpose of accumulating supplies preparatory to a further advance. All arrangements for the advance had been completed and the troops were ready to move when the Amir's request for negotiations rendered any further forward movement politically inexpedient. On the Waziristan front, we were prepared, as explained above, to evacuate certain positions with the object of reducing detachments, avoiding embarrassing commitments, and concentrating as large a force as possible at the decisive point. The evacuation became necessary and was carried out under arrangements concerted between General Sir A. A. Barrett and the Chief Commissioner of the North-West Frontier Province. Suitable dispositions were made to meet the situation thus created. On the Baluchistan front, the only operation of importance was the attack and capture of Fort Spin Baldak. The close proximity of this fort to the Baluchistan border was a threat to our position at Chaman and it served as a screen behind which the enemy could concentrate preparatory to an attack on Chaman itself, or against the flank of our position at Bogra. It was accordingly carried by assault on May 27th.

27. During the course of the war our troops were engaged on a front extending along the whole length of the Afghan frontier from Chitral on the north-east to Scistan on the south-west, a total distance of about 1,000 miles; indeed, the fighting front may be said to have extended still further, for our line of communication defence troops on the 300 miles of road between Robat and Rui Khaf were kept constantly on their guard against raids from across the border, and were at one time directly threatened by a small Afghan force which was detached from Herat towards the Persian frontier. Never before have simultaneous operations been undertaken on the frontier of India which have covered so wide an extent of front.

28. There are other important points of difference between this and previous campaigns on the Indian frontier. In the first and second Afghan wars and in the Tirah campaign, the initiative lay with the Government of India; India was enjoying internal tranquillity, and the Government was able to mature its plans and move in its own time during the cool season of the year. On the present occasion, Afghanistan was the aggressor, certain districts of internal India were still under martial law, the time chosen was the hottest season of the year, and the invasion contemplated a rising in Peshawar. In 1878 and 1897, eight weeks elapsed between the issue of orders to concentrate and the advance of our forces up the Khaibar and into Tirah respectively; in 1919, two weeks only elapsed between the receipt of information of the impending Afghan attack and the disposal of the main Afghan army on the Jalalabad plain and within four weeks Amir Amanullah had sued for an armistice. The promptitude of this advance through the Khaibar and the consequent menace to Jalalabad, prevented an Afghan-tribal combination against us, and saved India the long and costly war which would have resulted from the loss of the Khaibar.

29. Two other features of the campaign may be mentioned as exercising an appreciable influence on the course of the operations. The first is the failure of the system of tribal militias. With certain notable exceptions (which are referred to in their place) the outbreak of war was followed almost immediately by wholesale desertions from militia units, necessitating the complete disbandment of one and the reduction of others to a small fraction of their proper establishment. The defection of these units at a time when the Field Army was concentrating in rear of them constituted a grave danger and this danger is one which, in my opinion, we cannot afford to accept in the future.

The other feature to which I refer is the great disadvantage from which the troops suffered as the result of the political situation. From the granting of the armistice at the beginning of June to the signing of peace on August the 8th, the Amir failed to exercise complete control over his own tribesmen and the agents whom he had deputed to raise the tribes within the British border. Consequently, throughout this period, the whole length of the frontier was threatened and constant raiding occurred.

30. The formations at my disposal at the outbreak of war (excluding units allotted to area defence) comprised two divisions and two cavalry brigades on the Khaibar line, one brigade in the Kohat-Kurram area, two brigades in Waziristan, and one division and one cavalry brigade on the Baluchistan front, with one division, one cavalry brigade and two mixed brigades in central reserve. During the course of the operations, seven additional brigades and one cavalry brigade were formed, increasing the total force employed at the signing of peace to the equivalent of about seven divisions and four cavalry brigades, with one cavalry and five infantry brigades in reserve.

OPERATIONS OF THE NORTH-WEST FRONTIER FORCE.

31. News of the proclamation of Jehad by the Amir of Afghanistan, together with the move of Afghan troops towards the Khaibar and Kurram, reached Peshawar on the 3rd May. I immediately ordered General Sir A. A. Barret, who was at that time on inspection duty in Delhi, to proceed at once to Peshawar to control the military measures necessary in the North-West Frontier Province. He was directed to assume command of the North-West Frontier Force, the troops at his disposal comprising the 1st and 10th Cavalry Brigades, the 1st and 2nd Divisions, the Internal Security Troops of the Peshawar area and the Kohat, Bannu and Derajat Brigades, together with Corps Troops and Frontier Militia. In view of the paramount importance of safeguarding the Peshawar district, which was already threatened by Afghan forces and which is surrounded by powerful independent tribes, General Sir A. A. Barrett directed the 2nd Division into the Peshawar area in support of the 1st Division.

32. Prior to his arrival in Peshawar, the situation on the Khaibar line had developed rapidly. On the morning of the 4th May, Afghan troops supported by large bodies of tribesmen, were reported to have taken possession of the Bagh and Tangi springs, near Landi Khana, and to be on the Spinatsuka and Tor Sappar ridges to the north of Landi Kotal. On the following day a small column, which had been ordered to hold itself in readiness at Peshawar, was despatched by the General Officer Commanding, 1st Division, in motor lorries to Landi Kotal to support the Khaibar Rifles. It was essential that the Afghans should be driven from the springs as quickly as possible, as on one of them depended the principal water-supply of Landi Kotal, and until the springs were in our possession no large force could be concentrated at that place. Troops were therefore pushed up the Khaibar as rapidly as possible, and on the 8th the 1st Infantry Brigade with one battalion of the 2nd Infantry Brigade and 14 field and mountain guns, under the command of Brigadier-General G. D. Crocker, were concentrated at Landi Kotal, other troops of the 1st Division moving up the Khaibar in support. Troops of the 2nd Division were meanwhile arriving continuously in the Peshawar area.

33. On the morning of the 9th General Crocker, reinforced by another battalion of the 2nd Infantry Brigade, attacked the enemy and secured the Tangi springs and water-works; but he encountered stubborn opposition, and the force at his disposal was insufficient to drive the Afghans from their strong position, in difficult mountainous country, covering the Bagh springs. Next day the remainder of the 2nd Infantry Brigade, together with a mountain battery and a machine gun company, reinforced the troops at Landi Kotal, where Major-General G. A. Fowler, C.B., D.S.O., commanding the 1st Division, had assumed command.

34. On the 11th May, the headquarters and one and a half battalions of the 3rd Infantry Brigade reached Landi Kotal, and an entirely successful attack was made on the Afghans on the Khargali heights dominating the Bagh springs. Infantry, guns, machine guns, and aeroplanes worked in co-operation, and the enemy, who again resisted stubbornly, fled in the same direction, leaving behind him six guns which fell into our hands. Our car load were happily slight. The Royal Air Force not only co-operated in the attack, but also systematically bombed Dakka, where the Afghan Army had been collected. The material and moral effect of this bon was very great. Major-General Fowler brings to notice the excellent work of the 2nd Battalion, North Staffordshire Regiment, the 1st Gurkha Rifles, and No. 8 Mountain Battery, R. G. A., on this occasion. On the following day a reconnaissance disclosed the Afghans still holding Spinatsuka and a hill near Tor Sappar, but these localities were found evacuated on May 13th.

35. On May 10th, I authorised General Sir A. A. Barretht to advance to the vicinity of Dakka in order the more effectively to deter the tribes from hostilities by threatening their rear and preventing their maintenance from Kabul with arms and ammunition. On the 13th May a cavalry force, consisting of the 1st Cavalry Brigade and one regiment of the 10th Cavalry Brigade, which had been concentrated in readiness at Jamrud, advanced through the Khaibar and occupied Dakka without opposition. This force was followed next day by the headquarters and two battalions of the 1st Infantry Brigade, and on the 16th, by the remaining two battalions of the 1st Infantry Brigade, a mountain battery and a company of sappers and miners. A reconnaissance on the morning of this date from Dakka towards Hazarnao disclosed the Afghans in large numbers and our troops were closely followed up during their withdrawal to camp. Fighting took place at close quarters, the British squadrons executing several charges before the enemy was successfully beaten off. The enemy now established himself on the hills above Robat Fort to the west of the camp, but was unable to advance into the plain. On the following morning, Brigadier-General Crocker attacked with the 1st Infantry Brigade, supported by aeroplanes and the fire of horse artillery, mountain, and machine guns. As in the previous actions, the enemy held stoutly to his position along the crest of precipitous hills. During the action, two battalions of the 3rd Infantry Brigade with field and mountain howitzers arrived from Landi Kotal under the command of Major-General A. Skeen, C.M.G., and finally forced the enemy to retreat with heavy loss. The manner in which the attack was carried out reflects great credit on the Commander and troops employed, and the results of the action were far-reaching; for the enemy retreated in great disorder, losing large numbers by desertion, and it was long before he was able to reorganise his units. The value of high explosive shell, and particularly of the 3.7 inch mountain howitzer, in dislodging an enemy from an inaccessible position in mountainous country, was well demonstrated in this action; indeed, these weapons have been of the greatest service throughout the operations.

36. While these operations had been taking place, the state of unrest prevailing in the Peshawar area had given cause for much concern. On the 5th May, Peshawar city was quickly and successfully surrounded by a cordon of troops, and several leaders of the anti-British party, including the Afghan Postmaster, were arrested. It was found necessary to institute martial law and to keep a large body of infantry permanently on duty in the city. Raiding into the Peshawar Cantonment and in the district was at this time very prevalent, and communications up the Khaibar, particularly in the neighbourhood of Ali Masjid, were subjected to constant sniping and attacks by tribesmen. The Khaibar Rifles in whose hands the guarding of the road through the Pass had at first been left, became unreliable, and after frequent desertions had occurred they were replaced by regular troops, the corps being disbanded. Additional posts were also established in the lower Khaibar, and this, and other measures taken by Major-General Sir C. M. Dobell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Commanding the 2nd Division, quickly resulted in the security of the communications. On the 15th and 16th May, the 6th Infantry Brigade carried out operations near Ali Masjid to secure the heights south of the Khaibar stream and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy. By the 19th May the 2nd Division was holding the line from Landi Kotal to Peshawar, with the 1st Division, less two field batteries, concentrated at Dakka and Landi Khana, two of the three Infantry Brigades being at the former place, where the force was temporarily under the command of Major-General Skeen. On May 12th I placed the 16th Division from the Central Reserve at General Sir A. A. Barretht's disposal, and on the 14th I directed him to make preparations for a forward move of four marches from Dakka.

37. In the north, successful operations had been carried out by the Chitral garrison in conjunction with the Chitral Scouts and His Highness the Mehtar's Bodyguard. On the 12th May, the Afghans occupied Arnawai in the Chitral Valley and advanced rapidly up the river. On the 14th the Chitral Scouts drove back the enemy's advanced parties near Kautl. On the 20th Lieutenant-Colonel F. C. S. Samborne-Palmer, Commanding at Chitral, moved down the Chitral River with a small mobile column, and on the 23rd the column and scouts attacked and drove the enemy from Arnawai, destroying the force opposed to them and capturing four guns. The 11th Rajputs particularly distinguished themselves in this action. The mobile column returned to Drosh on 5th June. During the remainder of this month successful raids into Afghan territory were made by the Chitralis, resulting in the capture of a large quantity of live-stock.

38. For some days prior to the 20th May, reports had been received of the presence of Afghan troops on the Mohmand-Afghan border, and on the evening of that day they were reported to have reached Ghalanai in Mohmand country to the west of Shabkadr. A brigade of the 16th Division, with some of the divisional troops of the 2nd Division under the command of Brigadier-General W. M. Southey, C.M.G., was despatched from Peshawar to Shabkadr and Michni for the defence of that portion of the frontier. The Afghans did not advance, nor did the Mohmand gathering assume large proportions; and after being bombed on two days by aeroplanes the enemy withdrew.

39. The 31st Squadron, Royal Air Force, under the direction of Lieutenant-Colonel F. F. Minchin, D.S.O., M.C., Commanding the 52nd Wing, carried out concentrated bombing raids on Jalalabad on the 17th, 20th and 24th May with marked effect; large portions of the military quarter of the town were burnt out, including the Afghan headquarters, and on one occasion a parade of 2,000 Afghan troops was bombed with good results. In the panic which followed these raids the neighbouring tribesmen entered the town and secured large quantities of loot in the shape of arms, ammunition and treasure. On the 24th Captain Halley, R.A.F., in a Handley-Page machine, performed a notable feat by bombing Kabul; and there is little doubt that this raid was an important factor in producing a desire for peace at the headquarters of the Afghan Government.

40. Meanwhile, preparations for an advance from Dakka were nearing completion, but unofficial overtures, begun on May 15th, for a cessation of hostilities, culminated on May 31st in a formal request from the Amir for the conclusion of an armistice. The Government of India were desirous of avoiding any action which might serve to prejudice the negotiations, and I therefore issued orders that, though preparations for an advance on Jalalabad were to continue without interruption, no further advance was to be made without previous reference to me. The period of inaction which followed was one of great hardship to the troops, for the success of their efforts had led them to expect an early termination of the war, and they were looking forward eagerly to their long delayed leave or demobilisation. The situation was met, however, in that spirit of willing self-sacrifice which we have learnt to expect from the British and Indian Armies, and I desire to express here my appreciation of the high sense of duty they displayed during this period.

41. Turning now to the operations of the force in the Kohat-Kurram area (which, as explained above, formed part of General Sir A. A. Barrett's command), the situation had remained quiet during the first fortnight of May: there had been no unusual raiding from tribal territory and no information was received of any Afghan concentration in Khost. On May 5th, Major-General A. H. Eustace, C.B., D.S.O., Commanding the Kohat area, ordered a column of all arms to proceed from Thal to Parachinar in support of the Kurram Militia. On the 14th, information was received that two Afghan battalions had arrived at Peiwar Kotal, and that there were three battalions with guns at Ali Khel. A detachment of the Kurram Militia, with two guns, was accordingly moved to Peiwar, and four additional battalions and a mountain battery to Kohat. As units became available at Kohat, they were moved up to Thal and Parachinar, and on the 26th the force at the latter place consisted of two battalions, one squadron and four mountain guns. Having regard to the requirements of the Khaibar line, it was impossible at this time to despatch aeroplanes to the Kohat and Waziristan areas; arrangements were, however, made to despatch a flight to Bannu from which the bombing of Matun in Khost could be undertaken.

42. On the evening of the 24th May information was received at Thal that General Nadir Khan, the Afghan Commander in Khost and ex-Commander-in-Chief of the Afghan Army, intended to advance either into the Tochi or the Kurram and it was reported from Spinwan that Afghan troops were moving on that post. Major-General Eustace accordingly proceeded to Thal and ordered one more battalion and two more mountain guns to rail from Kohat to Thal. On the arrival of these units, the garrison of Thal comprised 4 battalions, 4 mountain guns, one squadron, and one company of sappers and miners. On the 27th a considerable force of Afghan troops with a large following of tribesmen advanced on Thal and occupied Thal city and the hills to the south-west of the posts. The enemy's guns and the majority of his regular troops were on the south bank of the Kurram river which, at this season, is liable to sudden floods. The fort and camp were subjected to considerable shelling, two of the guns used being German howitzers of 3·8" calibre. On the morning of the 28th, General Sir A. A. Barrett ordered the immediate despatch to Kohat by rail from Peshawar of a field battery of the 2nd Division, and a battalion of the 45th Infantry Brigade, to be followed by the remaining units of that brigade under the command of Brigadier-General R. E. H. Dyer, C.B. The headquarters of the 16th Division were also ordered to proceed to Kohat from Lahore, instead of to Peshawar as previously ordered. These troops began to arrive at Kohat on the morning of the 29th, and were followed in quick succession by two additional battalions and the 46th Brigade from Ambala which I had also ordered to Kohat.

By the afternoon of the 30th May, Brigadier-General Dyer had concentrated his force by rail and road at Togh from which place he marched 18 miles towards Thal on the early morning of the 31st. On the 1st June he entered Thal with little opposition. The hills to the south-east were then cleared of the enemy. The following day the operations were continued to the west of Thal but the enemy retreated hurriedly, leaving behind him his camp equipment and a large quantity of cordite ammunition. During the advance of General Dyer's column on Thal, the extreme heat had made the long marches exceedingly arduous and exhausting; but the march discipline and spirit of the men were excellent and the commander and troops deserve great credit for the manner in which the operation was carried out. A flight of aeroplanes based on Thal co-operated throughout, and contributed largely to the enemy's hasty retreat.

43. General Nadir Khan's enterpriso was a move which, had it met with a greater measure of success, might have compromised our plan of campaign. The salient of Afghan territory which reaches out between the Tochi and Kurram valleys enabled him to concentrate on the flank of two of our main communications through tribal country. An attack on the Kurram undoubtedly promised more important results, for had Nadir Khan succeeded in raising the Orakzai and Afridi tribes against us the effect would have been felt in our operations in the Khaibar.

44. On the 2nd June the regular troops and Kurram Militia from Parachinar, where Brigadier-General E. A. Fagan, C.M.G., D.S.O., was in command, attacked the Afghan force near Kharachi, captured the Afghan post at that place and destroyed six villages. The Kurram Militia also carried out several minor operations in which they were invariably successful. Throughout the whole period of the operations the behaviour of this corps has been deserving of the highest praise.

45. As already mentioned, cholera appeared at Hangu in the Kohat area on the 1st June and spread rapidly, appearing a few days later in the Khaibar also. As the transport drivers were chiefly affected, the movement of animal transport up the Khaibar was suspended; all camels from the stages up to Landi Kotal were withdrawn to Nowshera Thana, and did not return to the Khaibar until the end of June. Outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease and glanders also seriously affected the Bullock Corps on the Khaibar line, so that it became necessary for some time to rely almost exclusively on mechanical transport.

46. After the operations in the neighbourhood of Thal, the troops in the Kohat area were reorganized, the 46th, 60th and 65th Infantry Brigades being located at Kohat, Parachinar and Thal respectively. The 16th Divisional Headquarters and the 45th Infantry Brigade were withdrawn to Nowshera, and the 66th Infantry Brigade was formed at Mardan as the third Infantry Brigade of the 16th Division. On the 19th and 20th of June our cavalry at Dakka succeeded in ambushing parties of Mohmands and inflicting on them considerable losses. The Dakka camp was sniped nightly from the left bank of the Kabul river and telegraph lines were constantly cut. Considerable raiding continued in the Peshawar area, and on the night of the 6th to 7th June the village of Badhber was surrounded by a column and several arrests made. A similar operation against Utmanzai village was carried out later in the month, and drives by columns of all arms, including armoured cars were carried out to clear the Kajuri plain of hostile gangs.

47. At the beginning of July the activities of the Afghan Commander at Asmar near the Chitral border and the arrival of reinforcements, indicated the probability of renewed Afghan attempts to invade Chitral, notwithstanding the Amir's orders to the contrary. To meet this threat the Officer Commanding Chitral made suitable dispositions, and, while retaining his regular troops at Drosh and Chitral, placed a central striking force of Chitral Scouts at Ayun. In the middle of the month Afghan troops occupied certain passes on the border, and an attack down the Bumboret valley was made by a mixed force of Afghan regulars and tribesmen. This was driven back in disorder by the Chitral Scouts, whose behaviour throughout the operations has been excellent. On July the 24th an enemy gathering of about 1,200 was reported to have assembled about six miles south of Ziarat near the Lowari pass with the object of attacking the post at that place. A force of Chitral Scouts, Bodyguard, and Levies delivered a most successful attack which drove the enemy from a series of positions. Heavy rain and sleet during the night completed his discomfiture, and he dispersed with a loss of 60 men in killed alone, including a well-known leader. Towards the end of the month Afghan troops from Faizabad advanced towards the Dorah pass, but no attack was made from this direction.

48. On the 13th of July piqueting troops from Dakka experienced considerable opposition in taking up a position on the hills in the direction of Ghuzgai. The tribesmen were in strength and, offering favourable targets to our gun-fire, suffered severely. In spite of the armistice conditions, Afghan officials were everywhere busy endeavouring to incite the tribesmen to rise. This culminated on the 16th July in a large gathering in the Bazar valley, estimated to be 10,000 strong. On the 18th, Ali Masjid was threatened and attacks were made on piquets in the Khaibar, one of which was rushed after stubborn resistance. The following night determined but unsuccessful attacks were made on the piquet line from Ali Masjid to Shagai, and as a result of the losses he had suffered in this fighting the enemy retired into the Bazar valley where he was bombed by aeroplanes and finally dispersed on the 19th. The General Officer Commanding 2nd Division, brings to special notice the 1st Battalion, Royal Sussex Regiment, for their capture of a ridge to the south of Ali Masjid on the 16th May, and for their defence of the same ridge on this occasion, as well as for consistently good work. On the early morning of the 22nd July a drive was carried out by a force of all arms of the 2nd Division across the Kajuri plain, by which gangs of Afridis harbouring in the plain were driven into the hills. On the 23rd a small action against a tribal gathering west of Dakka resulted in considerable enemy casualties. During the month of July the strength of the Mohmand lashkars at Hazarnao and Busawal varied in strength, but rose at one time to as many as 6,000 men. After a flying bridge across the Kabul river to Lalpura had been established the slipping of Dakka camp practically ceased.

49. Major-General Skeen had assumed command of the Kohat-Kurram force on the 22nd of June. During July there was continuous sniping on the Peiwar front and parties of enemy, both regular and tribesmen, were constantly infringing the frontier. Occasional raids occurred in the Kurram and Miranzai valleys which were easily dealt with. These included an attack on a convoy near Sadda on the 9th, an attack on Shinawari post on the night of the 21st-22nd, and another on Badama on the 30th. In the Kurram area punitive operations were undertaken during the period 16th to 20th July by a column under Brigadier-General C. O. O. Tanner against the Kabul Khel villages near Shewa and Biland Khel. With a view to undertaking offensive operations against Khost, should the negotiations break down two additional battalions and a pioneer battalion were despatched into the Kohat-Kurram area during July, bringing the number of infantry units to 16. To meet the same eventuality, the field batteries of the 1st Division, which had hitherto not proceeded up the Khaibar, were sent to Dakka, where all the transport necessary for an advance was also concentrated. On the 24th July the Afghan peace delegates arrived at Dakka and left the same day for Rawalpindi. No operations of any importance occurred on the Khaibar line between that date and the 8th of August, when peace was signed.

OPERATIONS OF THE WAZIRISTAN FORCE.

50. In the Waziristan area no movement of troops from their normal stations had taken place before 21st May, though information had been received prior to that date of movements of Afghan troops towards the Upper Tochi and in the direction of Wana, and of a concentration in Khost. Major-General N. G. Woodyatt, C. B., Commanding in Waziristan, had been directed not to despatch troops up the Gomal to Wana or to operate beyond Miran Shah in the Upper Tochi valley, as the troops available in the area were considered insufficient for any widely extended operations.

51. Owing to the threatened approach of Afghan regular troops to the Upper Tochi and Wana, the probability of their presence resulting in a general rising of the Mahsuds and Wazirs, and the impossibility of despatching troops to support the militia posts in the Gomal, General Sir A. A. Barrett decided (in view of the uncertain behaviour of the Khaibar Rifles even when closely supported by regular troops) that it would not be possible to trust the Waziristan Militias when left unsupported. He therefore issued orders to Major-General Woodyatt on 21st May that, should Afghan regulars advance into the vicinity of Wana and be joined by the tribes, Wana and the Gomal posts were to be evacuated, the British officers withdrawing with such men as remained loyal. Similar orders applied to the garrisons in the Upper Tochi.

52. On May 24th, the General Officer Commanding the Bannu Brigade, desiring to reassure the tribes of the Upper Tochi, ordered the movable column which is held permanently in readiness at Dardoni (the new cantonment of Miran Shah) to move to Muhammad Khel; but, in consequence of information received that General Nadir Khan in Khost was preparing to move either against Thal or Miran Shah, General Sir A. A. Barrett ordered its return to Dardoni, where he considered it would be more suitably placed to meet the threatened attack. On receipt of this order, the General Officer Commanding the Bannu Brigade decided to evacuate the Upper Tochi posts, as in his opinion the withdrawal of the movable column would inevitably be followed by the defection of the militia. On learning of the evacuation of these posts, the Political Agent at Wana decided to evacuate the Southern Waziristan Militia posts as well, as he considered that a general rising of the Mahsuds would be the immediate outcome of events in the Tochi.

53. The withdrawal of these garrisons was an operation of extreme difficulty and danger. The loyal elements of the militia, led by a small but gallant band of British officers who carried their lives in their hands and paid dearly for their devotion, made their way by forced marches to Murtaza and into Zhob. The route was infested by tribesmen who clung to the rear of the party and made it impossible to give the men a rest on the way. Desertions to the enemy were numerous. It was not till the arrival of the party at Moghalkot, forty miles from Wana, that it was possible to call a halt, and by this time the men were utterly exhausted by heat, thirst, and their continued exertions. Up to this point casualties had been comparatively few but when issuing from Moghalkot in an attempt to reach Mir Ali Khel, the party was heavily attacked and lost four British officers killed and two wounded out of a total of eight. Marching continuously for a further twenty-four hours, the survivors reached Fort Sandeman in the early morning of the 31st. Regarded merely as a feat of endurance, the withdrawal of this party was, of itself, a fine achievement; but taking into consideration the almost insurmountable difficulties which beset them on the road and the dangers through which they emerged, the exploit stands out as one of the finest recorded in the history of the Indian frontier. The success of the operation was due in large measure to the personality of Major G. H. Russell, 126th Baluchistan Infantry, who conducted the withdrawal with remarkable skill, courage and endurance, and set a fine example to those under him. The steadfast fortitude of these men in circumstances before which most would have quailed, is a stirring example of the height to which the devotion of the British officer can rise.

54. On May 26th, I issued orders for the move of headquarters and two battalions of the 43rd Infantry Brigade and a mountain battery to Bannu. The troops of the Derajat Brigade were ordered to concentrate at Murtaza, where a squadron of cavalry successfully engaged a body of Mahsuds on the 30th. On May 27th, Major-General S. H. Climo, C.B., D.S.O., assumed command of the Waziristan Force (Major-General Woodyatt having been transferred to the command of the 4th Division), and on June 1st, the force was separated from General Sir A. A. Barrett's command and came directly under my orders. The situation on this date was briefly as follows:—

55. (a) Bannu Area.—Communication by road between Bannu and Dardoni, which had been interrupted since 26th May, was not yet restored. A column under Brigadier-General J. G. Clarke, C.M.G., Commanding the 43rd Infantry Brigade, was assembled at Bannu to move up the Tochi. There were persistent reports of the presence of Afghan troops in the Upper Tochi and near Pai Makhmad, 8 miles north-west of Miranshah, and strong lashkars of Wazirs and Mahsuds, assisted by Dauri from the Upper Tochi, were reported to be in the neighbourhood of Miranshah and to be threatening Idak. Spinwam had been occupied by Afghan detachments after its evacuation by the militia, and the Bannu Movable Column had been moved out to Kurram Garhi to watch the approaches to Bannu from the north and north-west. On the 1st June, reliable information was received that the Afghan detachments had withdrawn and the Bannu Movable Column was accordingly recalled to Bannu.

(b) Derafat.—Consequent on the evacuation of the Gomal militia posts and the considerable quantity of booty which had fallen into the hands of the Wazirs, the Mahsuds had become very restless, and thinking probably that it was our intention to evacuate Jandola, had assembled in large numbers around that place. A force under Brigadier-General P. J. Miles, C.B., had begun to assemble at Kbirgi on the 29th May when it became known that communication with Jandola was interrupted. Other posts had also been threatened by Mahsud and Sherani lashkars, notably Murtaza, Gomal, Manjhi and Zarkani, and many urgent demands for military assistance for posts held by frontier constabulary were received from the civil authorities.

56. There were therefore two problems which demanded immediate solution:—

- (a) The opening up of the Tochi from Saidgi to Miranshah and the re-establishment of our posts evacuated by the North Waziristan Militia.
- (b) The reinforcing of Jandola.

Major-General Climo decided to deal with the Tochi first, as with the troops at his disposal, he did not consider that both operations could be carried out simultaneously in view of a possible repetition of an Afghan concentration at Spinwam or in the Lower Tochi, of a Mahsud incursion into British territory from the Khaisora and Shaktu direction, and of the possibility of encountering strong opposition in the Shinki and Hinnis Tangi defiles. The troops available in Bannu for the first operation were three squadrons of cavalry, one section of Indian mountain artillery, one section of sappers and miners, two battalions of Indian infantry, and details of two other battalions which were at Dardoni. Major-General Climo therefore decided to await the arrival of the two battalions of the 43rd Infantry Brigade which were already en route for Bannu. Meanwhile, he strengthened the garrison at Saidgi (which was held by the North Waziristan Militia) with a detachment of Indian infantry.

57. On the 1st June, as considerable lashkars were found in occupation of the hills to the south and west of Miranshah, the Dardoni Movable Column moved out and fought a successful action. The enemy was put to flight with a loss of about 90; and certain towers, from which he had been sniping Miranshah post, were destroyed. On the 2nd June, the Tochi Column, under Brigadier-General J. G. Clarke, moved from Bannu to Saidgi without incident. On the 3rd it got through to Idak, accompanied by a large convoy, without any serious opposition, and on the 4th it opened up communication with Dardoni.

58. Punitive measures against the lower Dauri were then undertaken by columns operating from Dardoni under the orders of Brigadier-General F. G. Lucas, C.B., D.S.O. These operations were to some extent limited by the necessity of keeping the troops ready to concentrate rapidly for co-operation with the Kohat Kurram Force, but the villages of Spalga, Anghar, and Tughri were burnt, and fines were inflicted on others which had not been so deeply implicated in the looting of the Tochi posts. It is probable that, had there been any immediate military object in doing so, it would have been possible at this stage to have re-occupied the Upper Tochi posts with little opposition, as the tribes were thoroughly frightened.

59. Meanwhile the situation in the Derajat had not improved. A number of posts, including Manjhi, Gomal, Luni, and Zarkani, held by Frontier Constabulary, were seriously threatened and communication with Jandola was cut. Kulachi and Draband also reported lashkars of Sherannis and Wazirs in their vicinity. A force despatched to the relief of Gomal post succeeded, however, in evacuating the garrison, and Draband and Kulachi were occupied by mixed detachments on the night of 1st-2nd June. On the 3rd June a lashkar of about 400 was driven into the hills with a loss of 30 men, and on the same day Manjhi post was reinforced by a column from Tank after some fighting. On the 4th, a lashkar of 500 Mahsuds which was threatening Girni post was successfully dealt with and the garrison of the post reinforced. Jandola, though the water-supply had been cut and the post was surrounded by the enemy, had not been seriously assaulted. The garrison had supplies up to the 24th June and water storage for 15 days. Wholesale desertions had occurred from the Frontier Constabulary at Demandi, Moghalkot, Drazinda and Luni. Chaudhwan was attacked on the night of 4th-5th June and partially looted by about 200 Sherannis, and Bigwam Shumala near Paharpur was raided by a gang of Mahsuds.

60. With the arrival of three Indian infantry battalions from the Tochi, Major-General Climo ordered a column to march to Jandola on the 9th June to clear up the situation. No opposition was met with on the march, though the tribesmen attempted to prevent the restoration of the water-supply after the column had reached its destination. After re-victualling the post and changing the garrison, the column returned to Khirgi on the 11th June.

61. About the 9th June reports were received and were subsequently confirmed that, in spite of the terms of the armistice, an Afghan force of about 300 men with 2 guns had reached Wana. This detachment appears to have been given a purely passive rôle and to have confined its activities mainly to anti-British propaganda amongst the tribes.

62. On the 11th June, on receipt of reliable information that the village of Drazinda was serving the purpose of a supply depôt for the various raiding gangs in the vicinity, an air raid was carried out against it and a number of bombs dropped. The effect of this raid was considerable and for a time the activities of the tribesmen showed a marked decrease. On the 13th June, Raghza village was destroyed for complicity in attacks on Gomal and Manjhi posts, and a large amount of fodder removed to Murtaza. The following day Parwara, in the Sheranni country, was bombed. On the 18th June, arrangements were made for the re-establishment of the Luni and Zarkani posts with militia garrisons. These two posts had been partially destroyed by the tribesmen, but were repaired and occupied on the 28th June with the object of checking the recrudescence of cattle stealing in the neighbourhood and of enabling work to be resumed on the Gomal river head-works at Kotazam and Diwan Shah. On the 25th June, four squadrons of cavalry and a section of mountain artillery, with 2 aeroplanes co-operating, undertook punitive operations against Drazinda, on supplies from which the Sheranni and Wazir gangs of raiders were dependent. The village was destroyed and over 500 head of cattle captured.

63. Early in July, Major-General Climo concentrated a small force of all arms at Dardoni with the object of co-operating with the Kobat-Kurram force in an advance into Khost, should the peace negotiations fall through. The concentration of this force appears to have been interpreted by the tribes as preparatory to an advance into the Upper Tochi, and on the 7th July a lashkar, reported to over 1,200 Mahsuds and Wazirs, was seen entrenching and sangaring a position at Boya. Next day a half-hearted attack was made on the North Waziristan Militia piquets as they moved out from Isha, and on the 14th a cleverly organised attack on the aerodrome at Bannu was carried out by a band of 60 or 70 Shabi Khel Mahsuds. The aerodrome, which is situated about five miles out of Bannu on the Tochi road, was guarded by a platoon of Indian infantry. The enemy made a determined attempt to break into the hangar but were counter-attacked and driven off with loss. No damage was done to the machines.

64. On the 24th July, consequent upon the capture of one of our convoys at Kapip in Zhob, Major-General Climo concentrated at Murtaza a force of one squadron of cavalry, one section of mountain artillery, and one and a half battalions of Indian infantry, his intention being to give the impression that preparations were on foot for an advance up the Gomal, and thereby to draw the Wazir lashkars back to oppose him. The ruse was completely successful.

65. During the latter half of July, Vihova was attacked several times by Wazirs; on the 18th July they succeeded in getting away with some loot, but otherwise did no important damage.

66. Several minor enterprises were carried out by the tribesmen against our piquets in the Tochi between 28th July and the 8th August. On the 29th July a North Waziristan Militia piquet at Khajuri was ambushed by about 70 Mahsuds; on the 3rd August piquets south of the road between Isha and Miranshah were engaged all day with tribal lashkars and suffered some casualties; on the 8th August our troops moving out to piquet the road between Saidgi and Shinki were ambushed by 200 Abdulai Mahsuds and suffered somewhat heavily. These incidents can be attributed to lack of experience in frontier warfare, and a failure to recognise the necessity for constant vigilance when dealing with expert enemies like the Mahsuds and Wazirs.

67. Although no major operations were carried out by the Waziristan Force during the period under review, there were few days on which troops on some part of this wide front were not engaged. The elusiveness of the enemy with whom they had to deal necessitated constant readiness and in many cases long and rapid marches. Escort duties were heavy; piqueting was continuous; and the troops were subjected to frequent sniping by night. The heat during June and July was abnormal even for that part of the frontier. I cannot speak too highly of the cheerful manner in which all hardship were borne. Whenever the tribesmen were met, all ranks shewed that desire to get to close quarters and use their bayonet; which is the true spirit of the offensive; and this is especially gratifying in troops who for the most part were young and without previous war experience. Major-General Climo brings to notice the following units as especially deserving of mention:—

27th Light Cavalry.

31st Duke of Connaught's Own Lancers.

41st Dogras.

55th Coke's Rifles (Frontier Force).

2-2nd King Edward's Own Gurkha Rifles (The Sirmoor Rifles).

OPERATIONS OF THE BALUCHISTAN FORCE.

68. When mobilization was ordered, the troops at the disposal of the General Officer Commanding the Baluchistan Force consisted of:—

- (a) the 4th Division (of which the two field batteries were located in their peace station at Hyderabad, Sind; one British battalion was temporarily employed at Lahore in connection with disturbances in the Punjab; and two Indian battalions were on detached duty at Chaman and Peshin respectively);
- (b) the 12th Mounted Brigade;
- (c) two Indian battalions and one regiment of Indian cavalry, and the Zhob Militia, in Zhob and Loralai;
- (d) a force of two squadrons, two companies of sappers and miners and three battalions, together with about 1,500 levies, allotted as line of communication defence troops on the Nushki extension railway, and the 650 miles of road between railhead and Meshed.

Only two aeroplanes were immediately available on mobilization, as the bulk of No. 114 Squadron was employed in connection with internal disturbances.

69. At the outbreak of war the enemy forces in southern and western Afghanistan were estimated at 16 battalions (of which one formed the garrison of Fort Spin Baldak), 11 batteries of artillery and 5 regiments of cavalry. The number of tribesmen which it was estimated could co-operate with these regular troops amounted to about 40,000 men.

70. On May 8th Lieutenant-General R. Wapshare, C.B., C.A.I., assumed command of the Baluchistan Force in addition to the command of 4th Division; on the 20th he handed over command of the latter to Major-General N. G. Woodvatt, C.B., transferred from Waziristan. Lieutenant-General Wapshare was informed that the policy of the Government of India in regard to the Baluchistan area was to show a bold front and, to carry out this policy,

I authorised him to make any reconnaissances which might be necessary. There was no indication at this time of any hostile force moving on Chaman, and the nearest enemy troops were those garrisoning Fort Spin Baldak. Reports were soon received, however, of large gatherings of Afghan troops at Wazikhwa on the Zhob border. These troops had arrived from Ghazni and Kabul and their probable intention was to overawe the Ghilzais and force them and other tribes to join in the Jehad with the object of attacking the Fort Sandeman area, or of invading the upper Zhob valley. The Achakzais, who live half in Afghan and half in British territory, were also becoming restless.

71. Lieutenant-General Wapshare considered that it would be strategically unsound to detach a force to reinforce the Zhob at this juncture, and that his best plan of action would be to take the offensive and attack Fort Baldak. The capture of Fort Baldak would have the immediate effect of diverting the attention of the troops threatening the Zhob, and a successful offensive from Chaman would have a great moral effect on the tribesmen, more especially on the Achakzais. On May 5th I authorised Lieutenant-General Wapshare to attack and destroy at his discretion any Afghan force which might advance to Spin Baldak, and directed that the fort should, if captured, be razed to the ground. Owing to shortage of rolling-stock, which delayed the arrival of the divisional howitzer battery from Hyderabad, the attack on the fort was postponed till the 27th. The troops employed consisted of the 4th Division (less 10th Infantry Brigade), assisted by some units of the 12th Mounted Brigade. To ensure secrecy, no preliminary reconnaissance was made by the cavalry, but the necessity of this was obviated to a great extent by the simplicity of the terrain; reconnaissances of the fort had also been carried out daily from the air. The attack involved considerable preliminary preparation. A large number of light scaling ladders were issued to the assaulting columns, as also were rafts for use in the event of the ditch being found to have been filled in. A train of water-kegs or camels was also organized, as the water-supply of Fort Baldak was derived from outside sources 12 miles distant and under the control of the enemy.

72. In the early morning of May 27th, the cavalry moved forward in two columns with the object of skirting both sides of the fort, forming a cordon in rear astride the two roads leading to Kandahar, and thus making the escape of the garrison impossible. A white flag was then sent from Chaman to demand the surrender of the fort, and, failing acceptance, to inform the Commander that if there were any women in the fort they could be sent out with an escort of twelve men under safe conduct. The white flag was fired on, and Lieutenant-General Wapshare therefore ordered the attack to proceed.

73. After a bombardment lasting two and a half hours, the artillery had reduced the towers of the fort to a crumbling condition, and the parapet had been breached in several places. While this bombardment was in progress, about two hundred of the enemy broke out of the fort and made for the hills to the north. They were caught under heavy rifle and machine gun fire, and also attacked by the cavalry; it is improbable that more than thirty of the party reached the hills. The fort was assaulted by the 1-22nd Punjabis, whose leading company entered the main gate, and by good use of their Lewis guns quickly secured the first foothold. The 4th Gurkha Rifles simultaneously stormed the south-east face by means of scaling ladders, and in a few minutes the fort was in our hands. The Duke of Wellington's Regiment captured the ridge and towers in a most gallant style, gaining their objectives a few minutes before the main defences had been scaled. The only organized resistance now remaining was from a sangar which held up the advance of the Royal West Kent Regiment. The Duke of Wellington's Regiment worked round in rear of the sangar with bombs, and not a single man escaped from it.

74. The enemy had shown the greatest bravery throughout the operation, and when the assaulting columns reached their objectives the survivors continued a hand-to-hand fight. The mopping up parties had to clear the numerous cellars with bombs and bayonets. Out of the garrison of about 600 men, 169 were taken prisoners, about 30 escaped, and the remainder were either killed or buried in the ruins. Daud Shah, the Commander, was among those who escaped, but he was severely wounded.

75. The fall of Fort Baldak had the desired effect of relieving the situation in Zhob, but the evacuation of the Tochi and the retirement of the remnants of the Wana garrison through Zhob produced an atmosphere of unrest among the tribesmen in the Fort Sandeman area. The Zhob Militia were employed to help the Wana garrison into Mir Ali Khel by piqueting a portion of the route between that place and Moghulkot, but the loss of a British Officer killed was the signal for wholesale desertions, and only about one-sixth of the corps could be counted on during the remainder of the operations. A mobile column was accordingly formed in Zhob, under the command of Brigadier-General de C. O'Grady, C.I.E., Commanding the 10th Infantry Brigade. While this column was concentrating, a detachment of 200 Gurkhas, proceeding as a reinforcement to Fort Sandeman and accompanied by a small detachment of Zhob Militia Cavalry, was attacked in the vicinity of Fort Sandeman and suffered heavy losses before reaching its destination. Communication with Fort Sandeman was interrupted and for a time attacks on the various posts on the Loralai-Fort Sandeman road were of frequent occurrence. Brigadier-General O'Grady reached Kapip, near Fort Sandeman, on the 20th June and remained in the area for some time carrying out punitive measures.

76. In the meantime the situation on the Chaman front had developed rapidly. Enemy forces amounting to about eight battalions, four regiments of cavalry, twenty-six guns, and twenty machine guns under the command of General Abdul Qudus, had concentrated in the Takht and Murgha-Chaman areas, with advanced detachments at Tsagai springs and Sheroba. On our side, a strong line of defence, covering a length of twelve miles and consisting of a series of lunettes at intervals of 600 yards, had been completed between New Chaman and Bogra water-works; and, in addition to this, New Chaman and the mobilization camp there were protected by a separate encirclement of strong points and wire fencing.

77. In dealing with the situation thus created, Lieutenant-General Wapshare was faced with a problem of considerable difficulty. Within striking distance of his main force at Chaman, and concentrated within a comparatively small area, lay the bulk of the Afghan southern army. Each group of Afghan regulars had its following of armed tribesmen, who, though lacking cohesion and organization, were fired by the spirit of Jehad and threatened to become formidable adversaries under the elation of success. In ordinary circumstances, Lieutenant-General Wapshare's course of action would have been clear, viz., to attack and destroy the force opposed to him; but the political situation precluded him from adopting this obvious solution. Moreover, the difficulty of his position was aggravated by anxiety in regard to the Zhob, for Afghan agents, whether by accident or design, had succeeded in arousing the hostility of the tribes all along the Baluchistan border and in creating a situation in Zhob, which at one time threatened to develop into general insurrection. Great political importance attached to the maintenance of the line stretching from Peshin, through Hindu Bagh, Kila Saifulla, Gawal, Haiderzai and Murgha Kibzai, to Musa Khel; for on this depended our ability to prevent the Afghan and British border tribes from penetrating the rich districts of Loralai and Sibi and from gaining contact with the Marri, a tribe which, had they risen, would have added seriously to our embarrassments by harassing our communications with India. He was thus faced with two conflicting considerations, viz., to maintain his striking force at Chaman at sufficient strength to attack and disperse the Afghan army opposed to him, should the peace negotiations break down; or, alternatively, to accept the risk of reducing his striking force, with the object of restoring and maintaining order in Zhob. It appeared to me clear that the strong inducement to dissipate our strength should be resisted as the governing factor in the situation was our ability to strike hard and quickly at such Afghan forces as lay within reach. I was of opinion that a heavy blow dealt at Abdul Qudus's force on the Chaman front would react quickly along the Baluchistan border, and produce the desired solution to the problem in Zhob. I, therefore, directed Lieutenant-General Wapshare to maintain his striking force at Chaman at full strength and with the highest possible degree of mobility.

78. Lieutenant-General Wapshare accordingly recalled Brigadier-General O'Grady from Zhob, together with as many troops as could be spared from that area. I had been able to despatch a reinforcement of three battalions and one mountain battery to the Baluchistan area, and with these Lieutenant-General Wapshare was able to complete the concentration of the 4th Division at Chaman and secure the Loralai-Fort Sandeman road for the time being. In spite of the terms of the armistice, the enemy continued to encroach near the British border, and sniping was of daily occurrence. To complete his preparations to meet a possible breakdown of the negotiations, Lieutenant-General Wapshare moved the 10th Infantry Brigade, less two battalions but strengthened by the addition of a mountain battery and a detachment of cavalry, to the top of the Bogra pass, in order to deny the Toba plateau to the enemy as well as to secure the Bogra water supply and his own railway communications.

79. Numerous reliable reports were received about this time of hostile activity on the border north of Hindu Bagh, which appeared to indicate that the enemy intended to make a determined advance into the Upper Zhob. The situation at Fort Sandeman was also disquieting. The withdrawal of Brigadier-General O'Grady's force had been followed by a concentration of Wazirs and Mahsuds who were joined by disaffected parties of Mando Kfiel and Sheranni tribesmen. A wireless party and a section of mountain guns marching from Babar to Fort Sandeman under escort of two companies of Gurkha Rifles and a small detachment of Zhob Militia were attacked at Kapip on July the 6th by about 300 Wazirs and local tribesmen who held sangared positions across the road. The enemy resisted the advance of our column with great determination, but were eventually driven off, leaving 37 dead including their leader. On July the 14th an unsuccessful attack on Lakaband was followed immediately by an attack on a convoy moving to Fort Sandeman. An escort, consisting of a section of mountain guns, 225 men of the 1st Gurkha Rifles and 75 Zhob Militia, was sent from Fort Sandeman to Babar in relief of the escort which had accompanied the convoy from Lakaband, but was itself attacked on the return journey near Kapip by a force of Wazirs and Sherannis estimated at between 1,200 and 2,000 men, who had collected from a great distance and with great secrecy. A gallant attempt was made to clear the tribes on either side of the road, but this was only partially successful, and several commanding points remained in the hands of the enemy. From these points he poured a heavy fire into the column, inflicting numerous casualties on men and animals; and, while holding up the advance of the column, repeatedly attacked the flanks and rear guard. The troops resisted with great bravery, but they were altogether outnumbered, and at nightfall the tribesmen rushed the convoy in overwhelming strength. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting ensued in which the escort was gradually overpowered and swept away, with the loss of the two mountain guns and practically the whole of the transport. The remnants made their way to Fort Sandeman in small parties.

80. This incident had the inevitable result of raising the tribesmen's morale, and the local situation was seriously aggravated. It became imperative to organize another mobile column in the Zhob, but in order to do so, Lieutenant-General Wapshare was faced with great difficulties in regard to transport, for his railhead at Harnai was 170 miles from Fort Sandeman and the road traversed a difficult and mountainous country. Hired transport refused to move beyond Loralai under any circumstances. He was, therefore, compelled to transfer one of his camel transport corps from Chaman to the Zhob, and this reduced his radius of action against the Afghan forces concentrated against him on the Chaman front. The concentration of the column was also much delayed by heavy rains which breached the road and railway, and it was not ready to move from its base at Murgha till August 12th, by which date reports indicated that the Wazir and Mahsud lashkurs were dispersing to their homes. The main objective of the column, therefore, became the re-rationing of Fort Sandeman and the re-establishing of the road posts.

81. In the meantime news had been received that a lashkar of 500 men, mainly Zhob Militia deserters and, therefore, well-armed, had occupied Murgha Fakirzai and the hills immediately north of Hindu Bagh. In attempting to deal with these the Hindu Bagh garrison had suffered appreciable loss. Reinforcements, including an armoured motor battery, were accordingly sent to Hindu Bagh. The enemy attempted to intercept the battery which was acting as escort to a convoy, but were quickly driven off after heavy losses had been inflicted on them.

82. No important operations occurred on the Nushki extension railway or the line of communication in East Persia. The line was well organized and the troops soundly disposed. Armoured trains were also improvised and proved a great deterrent to raiders. A small column was concentrated in Seistan, consisting of 4 mountain guns, an infantry battalion, and 300 mounted levies, but no serious raid took place.

CONCLUSION.

83. It now only remains for me to express my appreciation of the manner in which commanders, staffs, troops and administrative services faced and overcame the difficulties of this campaign. The enemy rarely gave the troops an opportunity of meeting him in open fight, but when he did so, our superior discipline, training and leadership enabled us to overcome opposition with much ease. I have already referred to the fine military spirit in which the troops accepted the burden of this campaign; this spirit was fully maintained in the field, and all ranks, British and Indian, showed themselves to be animated by that determination to close with the enemy which is the surest guarantee of success. No greater testimony of this spirit could be adduced than the cheerfulness with which all ranks endured the trying climatic conditions prevailing and the discomforts inevitable in the opening stages of a campaign. The lot of the troops and administrative personnel detailed to posts on the lines of communication was a particularly hard one, for communications with the frontier pass through a belt of country possessing a climate of exceptional severity and scanty facilities for providing comfort or recreation. Nevertheless, this spirit of cheerfulness was nowhere more in evidence than among these posts.

84. The work of the Royal Air Force under the direction of Brigadier-General N. D. K. McEwen, C.M.G., D.S.O., was carried out under peculiarly difficult and dangerous conditions. The machines could only be used during the heat of the day at considerable risk, but pilots and observers unhesitatingly answered every call made upon them and rendered invaluable service throughout. The same may be said of the workshop personnel who laboured untiringly under most trying climatic conditions.

85. The units of the Machine Gun Corps were used for the first time in frontier operations during this campaign, and have amply proved their value. The work of the Armoured Motor Batteries has emphasized the great utility of this weapon in frontier fighting.

86. The Signal Service has performed its duties to my entire satisfaction. In spite of many difficulties of ground and constant interruption by the enemy, communications have been quickly established and efficiently maintained. The service has been handicapped by the lack of British reinforcements to replace evacuations, and it is greatly to the credit of the officers and men who remained at duty that so high a standard of efficiency was maintained. I am also much indebted to the Indian Postal and Telegraph Departments for their assistance and for the readiness which they have met demands on their already strained resources.

87. The duties of the Engineer and Works Services have been particularly onerous. The construction, upkeep or repair of roads, railways, bridges, and defences; the provision of barracks, camps and hospitals, water supplies, ice factories, and electric installations; the erection of a ropeway through the Khaibar; these and various other projects have necessitated the employment of a large number of sapper and miner units, field and railway companies, pioneer battalions and labour units. I desire to express my high appreciation of the devotion which have characterised the work of these units and which has contributed so largely to the comfort and welfare of the troops.

88. As already stated, I have had every reason to be satisfied with the work of the Veterinary, Remounts, Ordnance, Supply and Transport Services, the latter of whom were the chief sufferers during the cholera outbreak. The energy and promptness displayed in dealing with this outbreak reflects the greatest credit on the Medical Service, whose work throughout has been deserving of the highest praise. I desire also to express the gratitude of the army to the Nursing Sisters whose devotion under most trying conditions has done much to mitigate the suffering of patients in hospitals. The spiritual welfare of the troops has been in capable hands.

89. My special thanks are due to the Red Cross Association, under the direction of their Commissioner the Honourable Mr. W. M. Hailey, C.S.I., C.I.E., for their immediate and continued ministrations to the comfort not only of those in hospital, but wherever help was needed; to the Comforts for the Troops Fund, who brought the whole of their admirable organisation into play to ameliorate the conditions under which the troops were serving; and to the number of devoted ladies and gentlemen who contributed with unremitting zeal to the welfare of the troops. The work of the Y. M. C. A. was also of great value.

I take this opportunity also of tendering my thanks for the services rendered by the Railway Administration throughout India, and especially to the North-Western Railway for the admirable manner in which they have met the heavy calls made upon them and for the unremitting energy which made it possible to concentrate and maintain so large a force. The success of the arrangements for concentration was due in large measure to the cordial co-operation of the Railway Board.

90. The advice and assistance of the Hon'ble Sir A. H. Grant, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., and the Hon'ble Mr. Denys Bray, C.I.E., who successively held the appointment of Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department during the period of the operations, of the Hon'ble Sir George Roos-Koppel, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I., late Chief Commissioner of the North-West Frontier Province, and of the Hon'ble Mr. H. R. C. Dobbs, C.S.I., C.I.E., late Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan, have been of the greatest value throughout. I am also much indebted to the political officers attached to the headquarters of the forces in the field.

91. I desire also to express my gratitude and appreciation of the assistance which the Ruling Princes and Chiefs have generally rendered in this emergency. It will be remembered that before the close of the Great War, the Alwar and Bharatpur Darbars offered their Imperial Service Troops for incorporation in the Indian Army, and that five other Darbars, namely, Bikanir, Dholpur, Jodhpur, Kolhapur and Patiala agreed to the formation in their States of new battalions of the Indian Army. The units thus incorporated in the Indian Army were retransferred to the Darbars on the conclusion of the Great War and the newly raised regiments were disbanded; but on the outbreak of war on the frontier, every Darbar possessing Imperial Service Troops once more placed them at the disposal of the Government of India, notwithstanding that many of these units had only just returned from active service overseas. Contingents of cavalry, infantry, artillery, sappers and miners and transport from nineteen States were employed either with the Field Army or on garrison duty. Many offers of personal services were also received, and appointments on the staff in the field were held by the Rulers of Patiala, Dholpur, Rutlam, and Baria, the two brothers of His Highness the Maharaja of Patiala and the two sons of the Nawab of Loharu. Many offers of motor-cars, camels and money were also received and accepted.

92. I further wish to express my grateful thanks to the Nepal Government for their generous assistance and co-operation. In spite of serious climatic difficulties His Excellency the Prime Minister of Nepal again sent to our aid a contingent of Nepalese troops accompanied by two generals of the Nepalese army. The two battalions forming the contingent were a welcome addition to our resources.

93. Finally, I desire to express my high appreciation of the services rendered by the three Force Commanders.

General Sir A. A. Barrett commanded the North-West Frontier Force with the military skill and instinct associated with his name. His profound experience of frontier warfare and his sagacious advice were at all times of the greatest value to Army Headquarters.

Lieutenant-General R. Wapshare, Commanding the Baluchistan Force, gave evidence of his military qualities by the manner in which the attack on Spin Baldak was executed. The small number of casualties sustained is a testimony to the thoroughness of his preliminary arrangements. His high powers of organisation were displayed in the measures taken to ensure the health and well-being of those under his command.

Major-General S. H. Olimo, Commanding the Waziristan Force, dealt with the many difficult situations which arose within his area with marked ability, and has shown himself as skilful in the handling of troops as in ordering the administrative arrangements necessary for their comfort.

91. I attach a list of those whose services have been of particular value and whose assistance and work I desire to bring specially to notice.

SAMPLES.

An open general licence has been issued which permits the free export of all bona fide samples of prohibited goods to all destinations with which trade is now permitted. Samples exported under this licence may be used only for genuine sample purposes i.e., for obtaining orders from foreign buyers, and may not be sold except with the written consent of the Export Licence Department, but such consent may be dispensed with when it is desired to sell the articles in the country of destination after they have fulfilled their purposes as samples. Exporters will be required to satisfy the Customs Authorities that the goods presented for export under this licence are bona fide samples, and to make a declaration to that effect on the relative shipping documents.

This notice only applies to samples of goods which require licences for export to the particular destination concerned.

In addition, the consent of the Export Licence Department is not required for the sale of samples which, though within the scheme at the actual time they were exported, could be exported outside the scheme at the actual time of the proposed sale.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR COAL EXPORTS.

An Open General Licence has been issued, with effect from Thursday, 1st January, 1920, permitting the export of coal, coke and manufactured fuel to all destinations abroad except Russia, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria, subject always to the approval, previously obtained, of the Controller of Coal Mines or his duly authorised representative, and subject to shipment being made in a vessel approved by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise or their Officers.

The Customs Authorities will require pre-entry to be made in all cases; and at ports where there is a duly authorised local representative of the Controller of Coal Mines (see list below), the approval referred to above will be signified by his endorsement on the pre-entry form, which must be presented to him for the purpose before shipment.

Where shipment is proposed to be made from a port not included in the list given below, it will be necessary for application for the Controller's approval to be made to the Export Branch of the Coal Mines Department in London. Shipments from all ports in the United Kingdom to the destinations excluded from the purview of the general licence must still be covered by an export licence from the Coal Mines Department.

The following are the ports shipments from which will be covered by the local representative's endorsement on pre-entry:—

District	Controller's Representative
All Scottish ports ..	Mr. W. D. Fuller, 4, Dunlop Street, Glasgow.
From Amble to Middlesbrough inclusive.	Mr. W. R. Fisher, Guildhall Chambers, Quayside, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
Humber ports (Hull to Grimsby inclusive)	Mr. A. D. Upton, 120, Alfred Gelder Street, Hull.
Mersey ports ...	Mr. J. Melrandi, Dock Board Offices, Liverpool.

OPEN GENERAL LICENSE FOR THE EXPORT OF INDUSTRIAL EXPLOSIVES, SMOOTH-BORE GUNS, AND MUNITIONS FOR USE THEREWITH.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export of industrial explosives, smooth-bore guns, and munitions for use therewith, to the destinations given below, to which, therefore, exports may be made subject to the usual Customs formalities without applications for specific licenses to the Export Licence Department:—

- British Possessions and Protectorates (see note below)
- French Possessions and Protectorates (see note below)
- United States of America.
- South America.
- Japan and Korea.
- Asiatic Russia.
- France, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Italy, Serbia, Roumania, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Switzerland, and Iceland.

In accordance with Article 6 Chapter 2, of the "Arms Convention," all destinations in the prohibited areas set out in Article 6 will still require a specific export licence for all arms and ammunition.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF AIRCRAFT, ETC.

An open general licence has been issued for the export of the under-mentioned goods to all destinations except Russia, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. Applications are no longer to be made to the Export Licence Department in respect of the export of these goods to countries other than those mentioned:—

“Aeroplane engines and their component parts. Aircraft, other than balloons of all kinds, and their component parts, together with accessories and articles suitable for use in connection with aircraft.”

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR THE EXPORT OF PARCELS CONTAINING MISCELLANEOUS FOODSTUFFS.

An Open General Licence has been issued for the export by parcel post of parcels containing one or more varieties of food-stuffs (for the personal use of the addressee and not for trading purposes) to all destinations with which trading is allowed, provided that any such parcel may not contain more than two pounds of sugar or more than one pound of butter. Applications need, therefore, no longer be submitted to the Import and Export Licensing Section in respect of the export of such parcels by parcel post.

URGENT ORDERS.

The Import and Export Licensing Section, Board of Trade, announces that, in collaboration with the Department of Overseas Trade, an arrangement has been made whereby firms receiving orders which require immediate acceptance may telegraph details of any such order to the Department of Overseas Trade in order to ascertain whether a licence will be granted for the export of the goods if the order is accepted.

In the event of an applicant being promised a licence he will be enabled to deal with the order straightaway with the knowledge that upon application being made in the proper form to the Export Licence Department the licence will be granted.

The telegrams should be addressed to "Orders, c-o Advantage, Stock, London." They should give in each case, in addition to the name and postal or telegraphic address of the applicant, the quantity and description of the goods comprised in the order and the name and address of the ultimate consignee if the goods are destined for a neutral country. In the case of orders from Allied or British Territory or from Territory in the occupation of troops of the Associated Governments, the consignee need not be stated; and it will be sufficient merely to give the country of destination. A reply of 24 words (1s-3d) must be repaid.

Applicants are requested in their own interest to confine their enquiries to orders needing a very urgent decision, since the fewer the enquiries the more promptly can answers be given.

Any subsequent correspondence that is necessary in connection with the telegraphic enquiries should be addressed to the Comptroller-General, Department of Overseas Trade (Export Facilities Section), 35, Old Queen Street, Westminster, S.W.-1.

Those registered elsewhere will apply to the Accountant-General of their Province.

Applications on the prescribed form must reach the office of the registering officer not later than 17th April 1920. Each must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 10, and the following certificates in original, or true copies of them certified by an officer of the Engineer or Accounts Branch. These certificates will not be returned:—

- (i) Certificate of good character signed by applicant's immediate official superior, or by the instructor under whom he has been educated, or by some other superior under whom he may have been brought up or employed, or to whom he may be well known. (This certificate must have special reference to the two years immediately preceding the application.)
- (ii) Certificate of age, baptismal or of birth (not required, if the candidate is already in permanent Government employ).
- (iii) Certificate that the application is in the candidate's own handwriting.

Copies of rules may be had on application from the undersigned.

B. HEATON, Principal.

CALCUTTA, the 20th March 1920.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS.

For the week ending on the 16th March 1920.

Summary.—Excepting a few districts of the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions light rain fell generally throughout the province. Preparatory tillage for paddy and jute and their sowings are progressing favourably. Harvesting of spring crops is proceeding. Prospects of standing crops are generally reported to be fair. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 0.66 per cent., as compared with that of the previous week.

No. 986S.R.—The 26th March 1920.—In exercise of the power delegated by the Governor-General in Council, under section 43 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1918 (VII of 1918), by the Government of India notification in the Finance Department, No. 778F., dated the 28th March 1918, the Governor in Council is pleased, in modification of notification No. 10318R., dated the 9th April 1918, published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 10th idem, to make the following amendments in the rules published under the said notification:—

(1) For rule 1 substitute the following:—

Rule 1 (1).—The Collector may, by a notice in Form I contained in the Appendix, call upon any private employer to state whether he agrees to recover on behalf of Government the income-tax payable at the rates specified in Schedule I of the Act, in respect of all salaries, wages, annuities, pensions or gratuities, fees, commissions, perquisites or profits paid by him or on his behalf to persons in his employ whose total income under the above heads amounts to Rs. 2,000 per annum or more.

(2) A remission of two per cent. will be allowed to the employer if the said income-tax is collected and paid to the Collector, by monthly instalments, on or before the 7th day of each month.

(2) For Forms I, II and III substitute the following:—

FORM I.

Notice to Private Employers.

Under the provisions of Act VII of 1918, you are hereby required to inform the undersigned on or before the _____ whether you agree to recover on behalf of Government the income-tax payable at the rates specified in schedule I of the said Act in respect of salary, wages, annuities, pensions or gratuities, fees, commissions, perquisites or profits paid by you or on your behalf to persons in your employ whose total income under the above heads amounts to Rs. 2,000 per annum or more, subject to the conditions laid down in the said Act, and subject also to the condition that, when paying the sums deducted in accordance with sub-section (2) of section 15 of the said Act, you shall be entitled to retain a commission of two per cent. on the amount of such deductions.

In the event of your agreeing to this arrangement, you should sign the enclosed form of agreement and return it to the undersigned. Extracts of the provisions of Act VII of 1918 relating to the assessment and recovery of income-tax under the head of "Salaries" will be found on the reverse.

(REVERSE.)

Extracts.

Sub-section 6 (1).—The tax shall be payable by an assessee under the head "Salaries" in respect of any salary or wages, any annuity, pension or gratuity, and any fees, commissions, perquisites or profits received by him in lieu of, or in addition to, any salary or wages which are paid by or on behalf of Government, a local authority, a company, or any other public body or association not being a local authority or company, or by or on behalf of any private employer where such employer has entered into an agreement with the Collector in accordance with the prescribed conditions to recover the tax on behalf of Government.

Sub-section 15 (1).—Income-tax shall, unless otherwise prescribed in the case of any security of the Government of India, be deducted at the time of payment in respect of income chargeable under the following head:—

(i) "Salaries."

Sub-section 15 (2).—An employer or other person responsible for paying any income chargeable under the head "Salaries" shall, at the time of payment, deduct income-tax on the amount payable at the rate specified in schedule I in respect of such amount, provided that if the payment is a recurring one and in respect of any period less than a year, the rate shall be determined with reference to the amount which would be proportionately payable in a year. The deduction so made shall be treated as a payment of income-tax on behalf of the person from whose earnings the deduction was made, and credit shall be given to him therefor in the next adjustment under section 19.

Sub-section 15 (4).—All sums deducted in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) shall be paid within the prescribed time by the person making the deduction to the credit of the Government of India, or as the Governor General in Council directs.

Sub-section 15 (5).—If any such person does not deduct and pay the tax as required by this section, he shall, without prejudice to any other consequences which he may incur, be deemed to be personally in default in respect of the tax.

Sub-section 15 (6).—The power to deduct under this section shall be without prejudice to any other mode of the recovery.

Section 16.—The prescribed person in the case of every Government office, and the principal officer of every local authority, and of every company, and of every other public body or association not being a local authority or company, and every private employer who has agreed to recover income-tax on behalf of Government shall prepare, and within fifteen days from the 31st day of March in each year, deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector, in the prescribed form, a return in writing showing—

- (a) the name and, so far as it is known, the address, of every person who was receiving on the said 31st day of March, or has received during the year ending on that date, from the authority, company, body, association or private employer, as the case may be, any income chargeable under the head "Salaries" of such amount as may be prescribed not being less than sixteen hundred rupees per annum;
- (b) the amount of the income so received by each such person, and the time or times at which the same was paid;
- (c) the amount deducted in respect of income-tax from each such person.

Sub-section 36 (1).—When an assessee is in default in making a payment of income tax, the Collector, in his discretion, may recover from him a sum not exceeding double the amount of the tax, either as if it were an arrear of land revenue, or by any process enforceable for the recovery of an arrear of any municipal tax or local rate imposed under any enactment for the time being in force in any part of the territories administered by the Local Government to which the Collector is subordinate.

Sub-section 36 (2).—If any assessee is in receipt of any income chargeable under the head "Salaries," the Collector may require any person paying the same to deduct from any payment subsequent to the date of such requisition any sum recoverable under sub-section (1), and such person shall comply with any such requisition and shall pay the sums so deducted to the credit of the Government of India, or as the Governor General in Council directs.

Section 39.—If a person fails without reasonable cause or excuse—

- (a) to deduct and pay any tax as required by section 15 or under section 36 (2);
- (b) to deliver or cause to be delivered to the Collector in due time any of the returns mentioned in section 16, section 17, or section 28, he shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day during which the default continues.

NOTIFICATIONS.

No. 1335P.J.—The 23rd March 1920.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 15 of the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878), read with section 21 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 (X of 1897), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Governor in Council is pleased to cancel hereby notification No. 1808Pl., dated the 6th June 1911, published at page 1091 of Part II of the Eastern Bengal and Assam Gazette of the 14th June 1911.

No. 1372P.J.—The 24th March 1920.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 16 of the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878), as amended by the Indian Arms (Amendment) Act, 1919 (XX of 1919), the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following rules for carrying into effect the provisions of the aforesaid section.

2. The rules published in notification No. 949P.J., dated the 28th February 1920, at page 421, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 3rd March 1920, are hereby cancelled.

Rules.

1. Any person depositing arms, ammunition or military stores with a licensed dealer in compliance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 16 of the Indian Arms Act, 1878, shall immediately inform the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, and also, if he be not a resident of Calcutta, the Magistrate of the district in which he resides.

2. When a dealer disposes of arms, ammunition or military stores so deposited, he shall report the fact to the Commissioner of Police, and, if the depositor is not a resident of Calcutta, to the Magistrate of the district in which he resides. The report shall state the name and address of the depositor, the number, date and issuing authority of the license (if any) under which the arms, ammunition or military stores were held, and a description of the arms, ammunition or military stores sold.

3. A dealer failing to dispose of an article so deposited within one year from the 1st January of the year following that in which it was deposited shall deposit the same at the nearest police-station, and shall at the same time furnish the information mentioned in rule 2; provided that in exceptional cases the period of one year may be extended by the Local Government.

4. All articles deposited under sub-section (1) of section 16 of the Act, and not returned or disposed of under sub-section (2) of the same section within a year of their deposit or within such further period as may be allowed under rule 3, shall be forfeited to His Majesty.

No. 1401P.J.—The 26th March 1920.—In exercise of the powers conferred by the provisions in the third column of entries (3), (6) (c) and (11), respectively, in the table subjoined to Schedule I to the Indian Arms Rules, 1920, issued by the Governor-General in Council with Home Department notification No. 1, dated the 1st January 1920, the Governor in Council is pleased to exempt from the operation of prohibitions and directions contained in sections 13, 14, 15 and 16 of the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878), the classes of persons specified in the third column of the following table in respect of the arms described in the fourth column of that table, when carried or possessed for their personal use in the Presidency of Bengal:—

Number of items.	Paragraphs in Schedule I to the Indian Arms Rules, 1920	Classes of persons exempted.	Arms allowed.
1	Paragraph 3 ...	Every Maharaja, Raja or Nawab whose title has been conferred or recognized by Government, every Peer, Baronet, Knight Bachelor and Knight of any order established by the Crown.	One revolver, two rifles and two shot guns.
2	Paragraph 6 (c) ...	All great zamindars of Bengal included in this category by an order of the Government under clause (a) in column 3 of entry (6) of schedule I to the Indian Arms Rules, 1920.	The number and class of weapons for the personal use of the zamindar himself and the number of retainers will be decided in each case on its merits. One smooth bore muzzle-loading or breech-loading gun is allowed for each retainer.
3	Paragraph 11 ...	All individual members of the undermentioned classes who were as such exempted under the Indian Arms Rules, 1909, immediately before the coming into force of these rules:— (a) members of any Order of Knighthood; (b) persons holding the Kaiser-i-Hind medal; (c) persons holding titles conferred or recognised by the Governor-General in Council; (d) persons holding swords or other arms received as gifts from the Governor-General in Council or a local Government; (e) persons holding certificates received on the occasion of the assumption of the title of Empress of India by Her late Majesty Queen Victoria; (f) retired British and Indian Officers within the meaning of section 7 (1) and (2) of the Indian Army Act, 1911. in receipt, as such, of a pension; and (g) landholders and members of a Municipal Board or a Committee designated for exemption in any list issued in this behalf by a local Government. The Calcutta Gazette

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1920.

PART I.

Orders and Notifications by the Government of India.

The following order, issued by the Government of India in the Army Department, published in the Gazette of India Extraordinary, dated the 18th March 1920, is republished for general information.

H. L. STEPHENSON,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Delhi, the 18th March 1920.

SPECIAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

No. 487.—The Governor-General in Council desires to place on record the names of British and Indian Officers of the Indian Army and Royal Indian Marine and members of the civil and other Government services in India, who have served as officers in His Majesty's Forces and who have died in the Great War.

They went forth from India to fight in divers lands the battles of the King-Emperor and of his rightful cause. They gladly laid down their lives for this noble purpose. But their names shall endure. For in Victory they died that others might live and that justice might prevail in the world, sacrificing themselves for the loyalty that was in them and for their love toward suffering mankind. Through such heroes the world had peace; and on them too be peace.

A. H. BINGLEY, Major-General,

Secretary to the Govt. of India.

CUSTOMS—WAR.

Delhi, the 27th March 1920.

No. 2557-D.—The following extract from the Board of Trade Journal, dated the 19th February 1920, is published for general information :—

GOVERNMENT NOTICES AFFECTING TRADE.

IMPORT AND EXPORT SECTION.

• TRADING WITH GERMANY.

The information as to the conditions under which commercial and financial transactions are permissible with German nationals and with persons and firms carrying on business in Germany, published in December last in a Parliamentary Return, Cmd. 512, is rendered out of date by the ratification of the Treaty of Peace with Germany and the issue of an Order-in-Council fixing 10th January 1920 (the date on which the Treaty came into force) as the legal date of the termination of the war with that country.

Trade with Germany is in general no longer subject to any restrictions other than those imposed on trade with other foreign countries.

Any goods may be exported to Germany without licence, except goods on Lists A and B of Prohibited Exports,* and any goods may be imported into the United Kingdom from Germany except goods on the importation of which from all countries restrictions have been or may be imposed.

The following considerations must, however, be borne in mind in transacting business with German nationals :—

- (a) All property, rights, and interests within the British Empire belonging to German nationals at the date on which the Treaty of Peace came into force (namely, 10th January 1920), unless acquired as the result of a transaction undertaken since the resumption of trade with Germany was authorised (i.e., since 12th July 1919), are subject to charge under the Treaty of Peace Order, 1919, and no transaction of a commercial and financial nature is therefore permissible which involves the delivery, sale, or transfer of any such property, rights or interests.
- (b) The settlement of all outstanding debts between British subjects resident within the United Kingdom, and German nationals resident in Germany, with the exception of debts arising out of transactions undertaken since 12th July 1919, must be effected through the medium of the Clearing Office for Enemy Debts, and any transaction involving the settlement or transfer of such debts is prohibited.

Subject to such restrictions as may be imposed by the German authorities, individuals and firms of British nationality are at liberty to invest money in German businesses and to establish firms or agencies in Germany.

The freedom of Germans to trade, to carry on business, and to acquire property in the United Kingdom is limited by the following special restrictions imposed on nationals of Germany, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey :—

- (a) For a period of three years from 23rd December 1919, no national of the above mentioned countries may enter the United Kingdom without a special license or remain in this country for a longer period than three months, except as provided in section 10 of the Aliens Restriction (Amendment) Act, 1919.

* For the export to Germany of goods on List A and B export licenses must be obtained from the Imports and Exports Licensing Section, Board of Trade, Great George Street, S. W. 1.

- (b) For a period of three years from 23rd December 1919, no national of the abovementioned countries will be permitted to acquire any interest in land, in any concern carrying on a "key industry" (as presently to be defined by the Board of Trade), or in any company owning a ship registered in the United Kingdom. [Vide Section 11, Aliens Restriction (Amendment) Act, 1919.]
- (c) For a period of five years after the termination of the war no business connected with certain non-ferrous metals and metallic ores may be carried on by, or under the influence or control of, a national of the above-mentioned countries, except under licence of the Board of Trade. [Vide Non-Ferrous Metal Industry Act, 1918, and Non-Ferrous Metal Industry Rules, 1918.]
- (d) For a period of five years after the termination of the war, and thereafter until Parliament may otherwise determine, no banking business may be carried on for the benefit or under the control of a national of the above-mentioned countries. [Vide Section 2, Trading with the Enemy Act, 1918, and Enemy Banking Business Rules, 1918.]
- (e) No national of the above-mentioned countries may act as master, officer, or member of the crew of a British ship registered in the United Kingdom. [Vide Section 12, Aliens Restriction (Amendment) Act, 1919.]

With the above reservations Germans are at liberty to acquire shares or interests in British firms or companies and to establish business houses or agencies in the United Kingdom, subject only to the same restrictions as aliens of any other nationality.

ALTERATIONS TO THE EXPORT PROHIBITIONS.

The Board of Trade (Licensing Section) announce that as from 19th instant the following have been removed from List "A" of Prohibited Exports:—

Linseed cake and meal.

The Board of Trade (Licensing Section) announce that an Open General Licence has been issued permitting the export of—

Camel hair tops,
Mohair tops,
Alpaca tops,
Cashmere tops,

to all destinations with which trading is allowed.

TRANSHIPMENTS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

The Board of Trade (Licensing Section) announce with reference to the notice which appeared in the "Board of Trade Journal" of 17th July 1919, that are the only commodities in respect of which the Provisional Approval of the Import and Export Licensing Section should be obtained before the goods are brought to this country for transhipment.

Bacon
Ham, and Lard

EXPORTATION OF COAL TAR PRODUCTS.

The Board of Trade (Licensing Section) announce that Privy Council Licences for the export of the following goods, granted prior to 1st January 1920, will be revoked as from 21st February 1920, but applications for renewal of any such licences will be considered if special cause can be shown:—

All Coal Tar Products, excluding finished dyestuffs, but including Aniline Oil and Salts.

EXPORT OF INDUSTRIAL EXPLOSIVES, SMOOTH-BORE GUNS, AND MUNITIONS FOR USE THEREWITH.

With reference to the Open General Licence for the Export of Industrial Explosives, Smooth-Bore Guns, and Munitions for use therewith, announced in the Board of Trade Journal of 8th January 1920, the Board of Trade (Licensing Section) announce that is now added to the List of Countries to which the Open General Licence applies, and that in accordance with Article 6, Chapter 2, of the "Convention for the Control of the trade in Arms and Ammunition" all consignments of Arms and Ammunition proceeding into or through any of the Prohibited Areas set out below will require a Specific Export Licence.

The prohibited areas are

- (1) The whole of the Continent of Africa with the exception of Algeria, Libya, and the Union of South Africa.
 • (Within this area are included all islands situated within a hundred nautical miles of the coast, together with Prince's Island, St. Thomas Island, and the Islands of Annobon and Socotra.)
- (2) Transcaucasia, Persia, Gwadar, the Arabian Peninsula, and such Continental parts of Asia as were included in the Turkish Empire on 4th August 1914.
- (3) A maritime zone, including the Red Sea, the Gulf of Aden, the Persian Gulf, and the Sea of Oman, and bounded by a line drawn from Cape Guardafui, following the latitude of that cape
 • to its intersection with longitude 57 deg. east of Greenwich, and • proceeding thence direct to the eastern frontier of Persia in the Gulf of Oman.
